How To Make Us Robots Mind Control And The Satanic Cult Of National Security

10/26/95 #1 HATONN

CATHY O'BRIEN & MARK PHILLIPS

TRANCE FORMATION OF AMERICA: The True-Life Story Of A CIA Slave is now available in its compiled and published book. I ask that ordering information be made available. Phoenix Source will have these books available [see p. 18]. I honor those who allow the whole world to know their innermost terrors and experiences for it is the ONLY way in which the masses can come to know anything of the TRUTH of that which transpires in the Elite halls and back alleys—hidden, corrupt and ugly—brutally ugly.

As you near Halloween, within the week, it is even more important that you see and know of the integration of simple evil behavior with Satanism. The facts ARE that all actions away from and with intent of wrong-doing ARE AGAINST GOD CREATOR and our wondrous Creation.

We were given the privilege of running some of this information in series in CONTACT. You readers have continued to support the people involved and damaged by these evil servants of Satan—and those controlled and controlling

RUSSIANS ARE MARCHING IN KANSAS

James Brooke wrote this article for THE NEW YORK TIMES. It appeared in the October 27 issue of the DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

FORT RILEY, Kan.—With Thursday's cold autumn sun flashing off badges of double-headed eagles, a stern Russian color guard high-stepped across the frigid Kansas steppes. [You can tell Mr. Brooke is a novelist at heart!] But contradicting decades of dire, Cold War-era predictions, the first Russian soldiers to march on American soil came not as invaders, but as participants in a training exercise for a binational peacekeeping force. [The Cold War was largely a ruse to terrify us into seeing the need for a strong United Nations, under the guise of which we will soon be controlled by international military "peacekeepers" such as these.]

"We have gathered here on the plains of Kansas to work together," said Maj. Gen Randolph W. House, the base's commander, as he reviewed rows of soldiers in green camouflage gear—half from Fort Riley's 1st Infantry Division and half from the 27th Guards Motorized Rifle Division of Orenburg, Russia. For the next week, 300 American and Russian troops will work together on a peacekeeping mission to a fictional Kanza. With scores of interpreters smoothing the way, the binational force is to sweep for mines, search cars at checkpoints, protect food convoys and suppress riots by Kanza refugees.

Transported by Blackhawk helicopters and Humvees, the Russian-American force will maintain a buffer zone between belligerents in Kanza's long-running civil war. When attacked, the Russians and Americans will fight shoulder-to-shoulder, firing laser-equipped Kalishnikovs and M-16s at hostile Kanzas. Although no one in camouflage green wanted to say it out loud, "Kanza" could be a code word for Bosnia. [Or Kansas.]

On Nov. 1, the presidents of Bosnia, Croatia, and Serbia are to start peace talks in Dayton, Ohio. President Clinton has offered to send 20,000 American troops to participate in a 60,000-member, NATO-led peacekeeping mission. President Boris Yeltsin of Russia has resisted putting Russian forces under NATO control, but Monday in Hyde Park, N.Y., he and Clinton reportedly agreed that Russia would send 2,000 troops to perform non-combat duties, like managing supplies, running airlifts and sweeping for mines. [Sounds like the 27th Guards may be overqualified for such non-combat duties!]

FRANCE SUBMITS TO SECURITY MEASURES

From the October 19 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

PARIS—Some are resigned; others terrified. But one day after the latest terrorist bomb ripped through a Paris subway, all have the same grim assessment: the capital is under siege. Increased security has become a familiar feature as authorities try to stem a bombing wave that has left seven people dead and 180 injured since late July. Urban residents have grown accustomed to police searching their bags outside department stores, stopping them for identity checks or peering under benches and down crowded subway corridors in search of anything suspicious. [I hope you don't think "it couldn't happen here".]

After Tuesday's bomb injured 29 people on an underground commuter train in the heart of Paris, the government called out hundreds more troops to back up police guards at embassies, public buildings and official residences. Responsibility for most of the seven previous bombings or attempted bombings have been claimed by Algerian insurgents [aka Mossad agent provocateurs?].

NEW CRIMES FOR CALIFORNIANS

From the October 18 issue of the DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

SACRAMENTO—In a move one critic said could turn "utterly innocent" conduct into crimes, Gov. Pete Wilson [former presidential aspirant] signed legislation to allow police to arrest people they think are about to sell drugs or sex. The crime bill, by Assemblyman Richard Katz, will make it a misdemeanor for someone to loiter with the intent to commit a drug offense or to engage in prostitution. It will take effect Jan. 1.

According to the bill, intent to sell drugs or sex could be shown by beckoning to passing cars, striking up conversations with passers-by or having a previous drug or prostitution arrest. Kathy Sher, a lobbyist for a defense lawyers' group, California Attorneys for Criminal Justice [interesting expression, "criminal justice"], said the bill could turn "utterly innocent" acts into crimes. "Every time the question was asked, 'How do the police know (someone intends to commit a crime),' they said, 'We know, we know who these people are,'" Sher said. "I think that's kind of frightening." [No kidding.]

U.S. GETS ANOTHER CZAR

From the October 15 issue of the LOS ANGELES TIMES, [quoting:]

SAN DIEGO—Attorney General Janet Reno has appointed U.S. Attorney Alan Bersin to a newly created post of "border czar", which will oversee the far-flung array of law enforcement agencies at the U.S.-Mexico line. The designation of Bersin as the attorney general's special representative on border issues represents an unprecedented effort to improve the fight against drug and immigrant smuggling and overhaul a bureaucracy that suffers from internal conflicts, corruption and inefficiency. [This is governmentese—what they really MEAN is: it's a further centralization of government and a step toward better "control"—not elimination—of drug and immigrant smuggling.]

It also recognizes that the traditional federal approach—

French officers check identification Wednesday near the Arc de Triomphe.

dividing the border into geographical and jurisdictional fiefdoms [called "states"]—falls short of the complex reality of the almost 2,000-mile-long border, which requires a comprehensive strategy, officials said. [If this sounds plausible to you, we have bridges to sell...Here's the clincher:] Bersin, 48, attended Oxford [Rhodes scholar, perhaps?] and Yale universities with President Clinton and Harvard with Vice President Gore. [A real crime fighter, huh!]

ANDY ROONEY

From the October 10 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

NEW YORK—Andy Rooney of CBS's 60 Minutes will offer a $1 million reward Sunday for the capture and conviction of the killer of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ron Goldman—but the crusty commentator does not expect to have to pay up. A spokesman for the program said Friday that Rooney is outraged at the acquittal of O.J. Simpson and is offering the reward as a protest. [If the reward is for "information leading to the capture and conviction...", Gary Wean could and certainly DID provide information to the LAPD, Simpson defense team, and many others. It was ignored, rather than rewarded. Too bad, I would like to see Rooney pay up.]

DROUGHT FROM VIRGINIA TO MAINE

This account of "unnatural weather" comes from a recent issue of the PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER, [quoting:]

PHILADELPHIA—From Maine's Penobscot River in the North to Virginia's Potomac River in the South, withering drought has left experts amazed at its scope and severity. "The last 12 months have been the driest on record since 1895," said William Brown, a meteorologist with the National Climatic Data Center, in Asheville, N.C. "It is rare that we see that widespread a drought," said Robert Mason, a hydrologist with the U.S. Geological Survey headquarters in Reston, Va.

ABORTION-INDUCING TETANUS VACCINE?

In the June 1, 1995 issue of THE WANDERER the Pro-Life Committee of Mexico has made allegations that a UN program developed to provide women of third world countries with a tetanus vaccine is really a program to inject the unsuspecting women with an abortion-inducing drug. These are pretty stout accusations. However, the Committee says it became suspicious in regards to some of the mandates of the program. Only women receive the tetanus shot. These women must be between the ages of 15 and 45, or of child-bearing age. The women receive multiple injections as opposed to just one injection in the United States. The program was introduced into Catholic countries, such as Mexico and the Philippines, where they are resisting UN birth control measures. Going the extra mile to prove their case, the Committee obtained vials of the tetanus vaccine.

They claim it contains a human hormone called hCG, as well as the tetanus toxoid. The injection of hCG causes the body to develop antibodies which attack and thus terminate subsequent pregnancies. The scandal is said to include various branches of the U.S. Government's National Institute of Health. [If true, this would dovetail with other globalist depopulation "techniques".]

FOREWORD

WALKING THROUGH THE STORM

As you walk through the storms, know that God is with you if you will but be with HIM.

Just as is the Sun shining beyond any clouds, so too is Aton (the ONE Light) shining through every perceived curtain of shadows. God bears many names, but Truth and Light are HIS banners of recognition. Any who would walk in this sheltering Light shall prevail. So, beloved friends, get the chin from the chest, weep if you must when the blows fall—but succumb not to the trashing you are going to get, for LIFE itself is a journey of expected confrontations. The point of the enemy forces of God is to gain control of your soul and, thus, YOU. Always MAKE SURE you are within the pathway of that ONE LIGHT and keep your direction-finder focused on that Light and you shall not be put aside. When confrontations arise, check your own bearings FIRST, and then release and put aside all distractions after attending them. It is no longer "enough" to simply "believe in Holy God"; you must stand squarely in His corner. When you do these things, the WAY will always be opened unto you for your work in order to accomplish that which is necessary for our passage.

GOD OF LIGHT—ATON

Confirmations are POURING in upon you if you but pay attention and the beginnings of the turn-about from evil toward Light is at hand. Just as the Sun offers light unto the growing life-forms, so too does God offer insight and LIGHT unto the SOULS OF MAN. "Take MY hand and I'll take you there," as the guide said to the child. "Hold My hand and you shall accomplish the journey while within My shelter. I can see to it that you accomplish the purpose of your journey—if you but remain in the Hollow of My Hand," said the Father unto His children. "I shall place conditions upon your actions and intent—but My love shall be ABSOLUTE and will surround you with the glory of joy in the face of conflict. When the blows come and the accusations flow—lift your face unto MINE and you shall sustain the storm, for the Light shall flow FROM and ALL ABOUT you in MY (GOD'S) NAME." ATON is the name given to that ONE LIGHT, ALSO CALLED THE ONE GOD. My own name reflects my mission and my purpose; "H"ATON"N" is my name, and FREEDOM IN GOD AND LIFE IS MY "GAME". Go ahead and do something RIGHT and make my day! Please, for it shall also "make" yours. I need no courts of your false laws or validation by your politicians and false prophets and speakers in your churches, temples and tabernacles—YOU and GOD are MY VALIDATION! God sends ME that I AM, and because I AM, so too, can YOU BE. What more validation do YOU require? A remnant of our people WILL SURVIVE, dear friends; I pray that you shall see the way and be among us.

The "march" has begun; the drumbeat is established. You had best stop counting and sorting your crayon colors lest you choose the WRONG COLOR for your ticket to the parade. God is no "color" for God is ALL color—which, of course, is LIGHT. God intervenes when the cry of MAN is raised in truth and desire for goodness—and you saw it on the 16th of October, year 1995 in the most evil city in your world—Washington D.C. Terror was struck in the hearts of the Politicians and Harlots of the Nation blessed by God for HIS PEOPLE TO AGAIN RISE ABOVE THE CAPHONOUS NOISE OF CONFUSION AND HATE, EVIL TERROR AND HEARTBREAK. GOD HAS SPOKEN AND ORDAINED THAT IT SHALL BE SO, AND SO SHALL IT COME TO BE.

Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn

This volume shall be called:

WALKING THROUGH THE STORM

God always shows His countenance through any stormy passage if you will but seek His way. Just as the Sun shall shine upon the lands as the clouds pass—so too shall your passage be Lighted that you might avoid the pitfalls and stones in your path. Put your hand in the hand of the man—Who knows the way! God sends His messengers and His Angels forth and they reach out to you from the heavens through the infinite Cosmos to bring you safely home, and that you might find your way from the darkness. I offer my hand unto you for I have LIFE to share with you. Salu.

DEDICATION

TO MAN WITHIN GOD—
THERE IS BUT ONE—ATON!

"ATON" means, in Egyptian: THE ONE, or THE ONE LIGHT, GOD! The name itself is the MEANING within "atonement". May you come to know truth and live justly, for God asks not "perfection", only the INTENT of perfection toward a more perfect union within HIMSELF. So be it. God is the Father, Nature the Mother, and when you have a bonding of the perfection of the two into the ONE, you have CREATOR/CREATION. THERE IS NO THING GREATER THAN THIS. YOU are the child of this perfect union—may you find your way back home.

Ongoing Lessons About Cellular Life: Chromosomes

10/23/95 #2 HATONN

CODES OF LIFE AND CELLULAR LIFE

As we again turn to the discussion about cellular life and the very "units" that make up living organisms I am offering a reminder for you to REVIEW the prior lessons on the subject. I believe that up to now we have offered six parts covering what we will refer to in units as Chapters and have gone through segment chapters 1 - 6. Life itself got in the way of the continuous flow of this information. However, there is no point in learning about life if you have no intention of "living" in it. I hope that the Editors can decipher enough of these writings to eventually gather all the lessons into one or two volumes for your reference. The lessons will be including everything from the very one-celled organism of living life-form to the viruses and bacteriology. We, of course, have no intention of making you into scientists or college professors but we do want you to have a basic understanding of life-forms so that you can KNOW what to do for SELF and HOW to do it. You cannot have a solution to a problem of which you have no notion of content. Your species is in decline and, before it becomes extinct, it would seem you might wish to change your directions a bit. You seem to now be enduring "higher forms of killing", with you as the slain or "to be" slain. Let us not, through simple ignorance, meet the axeman silently.

This particular segment which we will offer is probably as dreary and beyond reach for the novice as any—but it will cover briefly the "Chromosome Theory" of heredity—so it DOES most seriously touch each and every individual entity upon the sea, land or in the air. Bear with us and do try to understand. I will give a little different approach to this segment and ask that the answers follow DIRECTLY the question so you can peek. If you followed the Simpson trial you will recognize some of the terms offered by expert witnesses and tossed around by lawyers as if they know what is being said. Perish the thought—but wouldn't it be wondrous for all of YOU and for those lawyers to have had our little series of lessons?

To get you back into the stride of these current lessons we will offer one more chapter on the subject and then I will ask for a recent article to be printed. It is both interesting AND will present the "terms" for your integration and self-testing for retained information. You will find it a wondrous thing to know that which you read—much like being in a foreign language country and at least knowing a smidgen of their communications systems. To allow the testing in gaining USEFUL information is even better. So please, let us continue right along.

[Editor's note: This is the continuation of a scientific "course" that Commander Hatonn started teaching on pgs. 42-53 of the 9/19/95 issue of CON-TACT. It was continued in the 10/3/95 issue on p. 23 and in the 10/10/95 issue on p. 15.]

FACTS OF LIFE

[QUOTING:]

THE CHROMOSOME THEORY OF HEREDITY

PREVIEW QUESTIONS

1. There is an old saying, "Blood will tell." Is there any biological basis for the ideas of "good blood", "bad blood", "blue blood", and blood lines generally?
2. Can you cross a camel with a sparrow and come up with an ostrich? What is the result of a cross between a crocodile and an abalone. A crock-abalone?
3. If the laws of chance apply to hereditary mechanisms, how is it possible to predict the outcomes of plant- or animal-breeding experiments?
4. What is the basis for sex determination?
5. It is possible to explain the color of corn kernels (either yellow or red) on the basis of a single gene difference. How can you explain the hereditary mechanism involved in the inheritance of some variable quality like tallness?

TERMS

LAMARCKISM: A term used to indicate the doctrine of the inheritance of acquired characteristics. This view was most clearly presented by the French biologist Lamarck in the early 1880s.

PANGENESIS: A view, linked to Lamarckism, that proposed that tiny particles called pangenes entered the semen from all parts of the body and thus provided the physical basis for the inheritance of acquired characteristics.

GENE: The basic functional unit of heredity.

ALLELE: An alternative form of the same gene. For example, the genes for yellow seeds or green seeds in peas are alleles. The genes for red flowers and white flowers are alleles. The genes for seed color and flower color are NOT alleles.

DOMINANT: When its presence masks the presence of its alternative allele, an allele is said to be dominant. In peas, the red-flower gene is dominant over the gene for white.

RECESSIVE: If its presence is masked by the presence of its alternate allele, an allele is said to be recessive. In peas, the green-seed gene is recessive to the gene for yellow.

HOMOZYGOUS: If the allelic pair are alike in an organism, the organism is said to be homozygous for the trait governed by the alleles.

HETEROZYGOUS: If the alleles are unlike in an organism, the organism is said to be heterozygous for the trait governed by the alleles.

PHENOTYPE: The outward "visible" expression of the genes, e.g., red flowers, tall plants, etc. From the phenotype, it is often unapparent whether the organism is homozygous or heterozygous for a given allelic pair.

GENOTYPE: The actual gene makeup of the organism. This can be inferred from the phenotype of the organism and from what is known of its ancestors and progeny.

SEGREGATION: Sometimes called Mendel's first law, it can be stated as follows: Genes do not blend; they behave as discrete units. They pass intact from one generation to another, where they may or may not produce visible traits, depending on their dominance characteristics. Genes segregate at random, thereby producing predictable ratios of phenotypic traits in the offspring.

INDEPENDENT SEGREGATION (ASSORTMENT): The inheritance of an allelic pair located on a given chromosome pair is unaffected by the simultaneous inheritance of other gene pairs located on other chromosome pairs. The different traits assort independently of each other. Of course, linked genes do not follow this so-called law.

AUTOSOMES: Chromosome pairs in the cell, other than the sex chromosomes.

LINKAGE: The phenomenon in which many genes are linked together on the same chromosome and thus tend to be inherited as a package. Linkage is an exception to independent assortment. The number of linkage groups for a species corresponds to the number of chromosome pairs characteristic of the species.

CROSSING OVER: During prophase I of meiosis, paired chromosome parts may be exchanged between homologous chromosomes via crossing over after synapsis. Crossing over explains the appearance of recombination types as well as parental types in crosses involving linked genes.

POLYGENES (MULTIPLE FACTORS): Numerous different genes that produce a cumulative or an additive effect that results in continuous variation in various phenotypic traits. For example, pigmentation in humans appears to be controlled by polygene inheritance—an increase in the number of pigment genes transmitted to the offspring increases the pigment developed.

REVIEW QUESTIONS

1. What is involved in Mendel's "law of segregation"? What is his "law of independent assortment"?
2. How did Mendel test his hypothesis? Did he find evidence for the acceptance of his hypothesis?
3. Chapter 6 is entitled "The Chromosome Theory of Heredity." What is this theory? What kinds of proof confirm it?
4. Do all bisexual populations have a similar sex-determining mechanism?
6. How does the fact of quantitative inheritance, i.e., continuous quantitative variation in a phenotypic trait such as body size or skin color, conflict with Mendelian principle?

SELF-TEST

Multiple-choice: Select the one BEST response.

1. The body cells are related to the germ cells in:
 - a. a one-way fashion: the germ cells give rise to the germ cells but are not derived from germ cells.
 - b. a one-way fashion: the germ cells give rise to the body cells but are not derived from body cells.
 - c. a two-way fashion: the body cells produce pangenes, which are incorporated in the germ cells and in turn give rise to new body cells.
 - d. a two-way fashion: the germ cells produce soma, which is modified in the body cells and then reincorporated in new germ cells.
 - e. no way.

Answer No. 1: b.

2. Which of the following types of sex determination is prevalent in mammals, including man?

- a. XY type
- b. XO type
- c. ZW type
- d. male haploid type
- e. none of the above

Answer No. 2: a.

3. Consider the following data concerning crossover frequency, then choose the statement that seems warranted on the basis of this data.

- Frequency of crossing over between A and B = 10%
- Frequency of crossing over between B and C = 2%
- Frequency of crossing over between C and D = 8%
- Frequency of crossing over between D and E = 6%
- Frequency of crossing over between C and E = 2%

- a. The genes A, B, C, D, and E are arranged in linear order and are equally spaced on the chromosome.
- b. Gene E lies between C and D and is closer to D than to C.
- c. Gene E lies between C and D and is closer to C than to D.
- d. Crossover frequencies are of no value in mapping chromosomes.
- e. The genes A, B, C, D, and E are arranged in the following order: A, D, E, C, and B; A and B are at the most distant loci on the chromosome.

Answer No. 3: b.

4. The number of linkage groups that can be determined for a species corresponds to:

- a. the number of genes present in the germ cells
- b. the diploid number of chromosomes present in the germ cells
- c. the haploid number of chromosomes characteristic of the species
- d. the number of sex chromosomes
- e. none of the above

Answer No. 4: c.

5. The inheritance of pigmentation in humans can be explained by:

- a. simple Mendelian genetics (1 gene pair)
- b. linked genes
- c. the rule of dominance
- d. multiple alleles
- e. multiple-factor or polygene inheritance

Answer No. 5: c.

6. Which one of the following pairs is mismatched?

- a. inheritance of acquired characteristics LAMARCK
- b. chromosome theory of heredity SUTTON
- c. pangenesis MENDEL
- d. continuity of germ plasm WEISMANN
- e. The Origin of Species DARWIN

Answer No. 6: c.

7. Which one of the following was NOT an assumption made by Mendel in regard to the interpretation of his results from pea crosses?

- a. Each plant contains a pair of hereditary factors controlling flower color.
- b. The two factors in each pair are derived from the plant's parents—one member of the pair from each parent.
- c. The two factors in each pair separate, or segregate, in the formation of germ cells; each germ cell receives only one factor.
- d. The factors for red flowers and white flowers are alternative forms of the same factor; the red is dominant over the white.

e. None of the above.

Answer No. 7: e.

8. Linkage and crossing over are phenomena that provide important proof for:

- a. the theory of the inheritance of acquired characteristics
- b. the Mendelian laws of heredity
- c. the chromosome theory of heredity
- d. the theory of blending inheritance
- e. none of the above

Answer No. 8: c.

9. The segregation of paired hereditary factors (genes) that Mendel postulated occurs during:

- a. anaphase of the second meiotic division
- b. prophase of the first meiotic division
- c. the brief interphase between the two meiotic divisions
- d. anaphase of the first meiotic division
- e. none of the above

Answer No. 9: a.

10. Which one of the following pairs is mismatched?

- a. alleles: alternative forms of the same gene
- b. genes: paired hereditary factors—the functional units of heredity
- c. phenotype: the outward, visible type of the organism
- d. genotype: the hereditary type, or actual genetic constitution, of the organism

e. none of the above

Answer No. 10: e.

END OF LESSON

I am ending this lesson without going into the detailed connections and percentages of gene dominance, etc. I know that this may well be very interesting to some of you but I have already lost a lot of readers before we reached this point.

I wanted ALL of you to get interested enough to go seek more in-depth information if you have such interest. It is up to you as to how much more information you research. I will henceforth simply outlay the TERMS which will continue to pop into all writings on this matter and we will have to have "overwhelming" petition from you readers if you want more depth in the outlay. Since so much of your recent and ongoing science is in the crossing of genes, chromosomes, DNA structuring, etc., it is imperative to have a smattering of definition of terms in order to even glimpse inside that wondrous world of life. Don't get burdened by the load—it is a delightful mystery which can ONLY cease being a mystery when understood and SOLVED. To do this adequately—you must learn and there seem to be no shortcuts to this knowledge. We don't, however, have to turn you into professors to get a glimpse into the subject. I hope our work will tend to cause curiosity enough to have some of you pursue the puzzle more diligently for this is THE scientific arena wherein your very developmental life or death shall be foundationed.

God said the way would be interesting—not easy, and yet, a task learned well—IS EASY to master. Salu.

New Gaia Products Presents

14-Day Parasite
Cleansing Program

GAIA CLEANSE

The Parasite Cleansing program that will assist you in achieving maximum health.
We have assembled three of the highest quality herbs in tincture form along with an intestinal cleanser.

The following products are included in the 14 day program.

- #1 Black Walnut Tincture 2oz
- #2 Clove Tincture 10 oz
- #3 Wormwood Tincture 16 oz
- #4 Gaia Cleanse I—Intestinal Sweep 5oz

* Parasite Cleansing Program can be done every 3-5 Months.
* Products can NOW be bought seperately.
* Each are preserved in a base of glycerin or alcohol.
* GaiaCleanse I is an intestinal cleanser to help sweep the intestines clean of debris by utilizing the healing properties of ground spelt hulls and psyllium.

Science Lesson On How To Make Cells

"WE ALWAYS HAVE ROOM FOR MORE IN OUR LIVES.
WHEN WE ARE READY FOR IT,
WHAT WE NEED FOR GROWTH WILL EMERGE!" — Hatonn

10/24/95 #2 HATONN

As you make use of that which "is", there is never an overfilling of the mind. There is only more and more room for accepting knowledge and truth. Sometimes it is overwhelming and the tide rises too rapidly for full absorption of all facts presented, all tales told, all stories written—but it is not space in MIND that is lacking. You WILL find your place, dear ones, each and every one of you, for a musician must make music, an artist must paint, a poet must write, if he is to be at peace with himself. What a man can be, he must be. All you have to decide is "what kind of a person you are capable of being". Then, GO BE IT! It IS WISE, however, to call upon the invisible universe for guidance—for that which the eyes see, the ears seem to hear and the physical experience may well HIDE that which is divine and inspired beyond that physical dabbling in the clay of the potter's wheel or the musicians keyboard. GREATNESS CAN ONLY FLOW FROM THAT WHICH IS BEYOND THE PHYSICAL. Knowledge can be gained—but WISDOM is learned and, when learned well, will guide the ships PROPERLY into the harbor. Where is YOUR ship?

Let us turn to a most wonderful story with which to test your new information about your very life-cell structuring. You may want to keep your "terms" listing handy but let us unfold the beautiful recognition of having actually LEARNED something and let us hope it will cause you to want to LEARN MORE. Thank you, students, for allowing me to share with you this bit of journey into KNOWING. FIRST CELL

by Clark Zimmer

To most who search for life's origins, genes are everything. But as David Deamer keeps reminding them, without a container for those genes, there can be no life.

"Part of the definition of life," says David Deamer, "is that it is in a place."

Deamer is not uttering a koan in a Zen monastery. He's sitting next to a microscope in a biology laboratory at the University of California at Santa Cruz. Deamer is a hard-core biophysicist, but still there is a monkish quality to him.

It comes not just from his unnervingly gentle manner of speaking but from his entire approach to science. This is a man who, in contemplating the pattern of nucleotides in DNA—represented by the letters A, C, G, and T—was reminded of musical notation. By allowing the letters to stand for notes instead of nucleotides—and using E as the equivalent of T—he turned human DNA into hypnotic melodies, available now for your meditative pleasure on both tape and CD. Deamer himself likes to hum the insulin gene. [H: Don't laugh too hard for I take note that the symbols Dharma types upon a keyboard as each letter has its tone. She writes symphony after symphony if it but were put to sound-track.] This is a man who isolates chemicals from meteorites and asks guests in his lab, "Do you want to smell outer space?"

It doesn't hurt to have such a cosmic view of things in Deamer's chosen field of study: the origin of life. Deamer is unusual even among the few dozen researchers in his field, and not just in his discography. For most of the others, explaining the origin of life means explaining the origin of the genetic code: How did DNA arise from chemical reactions on the early Earth? How did the original building blocks of today's genetic code assemble themselves into crudely self-producing units? Were the first life-forms based not on double-stranded DNA but on single-stranded RNA? [H: Isn't it nice, readers, to have definition to these terms of which this great man speaks, i.e., DNA, RNA, nucleotides, etc. When you can actually READ and understand the music or the language, is it not wondrous?]

For the past 18 years, though, Deamer has been gently reminding his colleagues that these questions define only part of the puzzle of life. DNA does not float loosely through the oceans. Life is constrained in a place—or, to be more specific, within a boundary. Life is chemical interaction, and for that interaction to occur, life's molecules must be close to one another. Without a physical boundary of some sort, without a skin, a bark, or a cell membrane, an organism is nothing more than a diffusing blur of molecules. To explain how the first creature came to be, you have to explain how its innards got to be distinguished from its surroundings. In other words, you've got to explain how the first single-celled creature got encapsulated in a cell.

Over the years Deamer has persistently been teasing out some answers to this thorny question. Now he has reached a milestone. Under conditions something like those on the early Earth, he can create something like a cell: an enzyme-carrying bubble that draws in nutrients from its surroundings and crafts them into genetic material. Call it a quasi cell—and say that Deamer has created quasi life.

CELLS

A cell membrane's importance to life is often underappreciated, says Deamer. "People say, 'Well, it's just a little bag.' But it's much more. It's the interface between life and everything that's outside." The membrane of any cell has to do many things at once. It has to be impermeable enough to keep essential things (like DNA) in and harmful things (like viruses and poisons) out. Yet a cell membrane can't form a perfect seal. It has to be able to flush out waste and heat from its own system and take in nutrients from the surrounding medium. And the first cell membrane, like the membranes of many single-celled organisms today, probably had to be able to collect energy as well.

When Deamer began his work on membranes as a graduate student in the early sixties, biologists were just learning what membranes were made of: think films of oil composed of molecules called lipids, tadpolelike things with little heads and long tails. The heads are made of charged groups of atoms, such as sugars or phosphates, while the tails are long chains of uncharged carbon and hydrogen atoms.

All cells exist in a watery world. A water molecule, though neutral, can behave as if charged because of its polar structure: the oxygen atom pulls the electrons of the two hydrogen atoms toward it, making the oxygen end of the molecule more negative and the hydrogen more positive. [H: Remember the lessons?] This polar structure is the basis for an interesting relationship between water molecules and lipids: the lipid's charged head can form a weak bond with a water molecule, but the uncharged tail cannot. Thus, in a cell wall, lipids are usually arranged in sheets made of two layers, with the lipids in each layer pointing in opposite directions. The water-loving heads contact water both inside and outside the cell, while the water-loathing tails stay tucked safely within the wall's oily interior.

Arranged this way, lipids make surprisingly good barriers. A neutral or a weakly polar molecule, like water, can pass through without much effort—thus ensuring that cells won't dry out. But a fully charged molecule, or ion, trying to fight its way through the uncharged lipid tails needs a lot of energy—10,000 times more energy than that needed by a water molecule. "That's why if you try to dissolve salt in oil, it's not going to work; it's just going to sit there," says Deamer. Thanks to lipids, therefore, a cell can keep out of harmful ions while holding in ions it uses in the production of energy.

In the early sixties biophysicist Alec Bangham of the Animal Physiology Institute in Cambridge, England, made a remarkable discovery about lipids: they can put themselves together. When he extracted lipids from egg yolks and threw them into water, he found that the lipids would naturally organize themselves into double-layered bubbles roughly the size of a cell. Bangham's bubbles soon became known as liposomes.

Deamer was intrigued when he learned of these cellular shells. In 1975 he went to England to work with Bangham, taking a sabbatical from the University of California at Davis, where he then taught. Together Bangham and Deamer thoroughly studied the self-created liposomes, figuring out ways to increase their volume. That work helped open the door to subsequent research that has made it possible to use liposomes to carry drugs and repaired genes into the body. And those discoveries have attracted an intensely interested audience of biotechnology firms.

But it was then, 20 years ago, that Deamer and Bangham also realized that liposomes might have provided life's first shelter. Previously, researchers had assumed that membranes were always built the way they are now—by an intricate system in which DNA provides the blueprints for the structure, and RNA ferries the instructions to the cell's protein-making factories. If so, then genetic molecules had to exist before membranes. But studies of liposomes demonstrated that if lipids existed at the dawn of life, they would naturally, and quickly, have formed simple, albeit empty, membranes.

"If there were lipidlike molecules on the early Earth," says Deamer, "there must have been membranes that would have predated life. They would have been just hanging around there as little bubbles until something came along to inhabit them." These bubbles might have engulfed early molecules that had the crude ability to replicate. The liposomes would thus be able to protect them from their harsh surroundings and concentrate them so that they could react (and evolve) quickly and efficiently.

When he returned to Davis, Deamer pursued the "membrane first" hypothesis, experimenting with mixtures of three compounds researchers believed existed on the early Earth: fatty acids, glycerol, and phosphates. In the right concentrations, he found, they formed into lipids, and in turn, the lipids spontaneously assembled into liposomes. Now Banghams's ponderings had turned into some real chemistry, and Deamer's journey to life's genesis had begun.

THE WAVES

The waves that crash on the shores around Santa Cruz must first travel over the jungles of kelp in Monterey Bay. They pick up some of the flotsam of the underwater forests: loose seaweed, the rare seal's corpse, fragments of countless dead plant and animal cells. As the waves come closer to land, the lipids in this cellular debris rise to the surface and lift their water-hating tails to the air. The waves mix them together and they join into bubbles. This cream-colored foam is different from the normal silver froth of churning water; its bubbles are so stable that it holds together on the water's surface. Sometimes when the waves reach the coast, the foam shoots through channels of rock like eggnog blasted from a fire hose. Other times it collects off-shore into long ribbons, then rides up onto the sand and into tide pools, where it sits quivering in the wind.

A short trek inland, in a grove of redwoods, is Deamer's new lab, where he has been for the past year. Santa Cruz is a more appropriate setting for his work than the flat farms around Davis; what is happening down on the beach is much like what Deamer thinks happened at the dawn of life.

To demonstrate those first steps, Deamer repeats an experiment he first did a dozen years ago. At the time, he explains, many researchers resisted the membrane-first hypothesis precisely because a liposome is so impermeable. "A conceptual barrier that everyone then had in their head was that there couldn't have been membranes on the first forms of life because you couldn't get big molecules inside them. But there's actually an easy way," he explains as he picks through a frosty tray of assorted vials he has taken out of the laboratory freezer.

He opens a jar of lipids, extracted from egg yolk, and mixes some of the clear oil into a small test tube of water. To the naked eye the water seems unchanged, except that it has taken on a slightly milky quality; in actuality it is now full of microscopic bilayered bubbles. Deamer extracts a few drops from the mixture and puts them on a glass slide. With the casual precision of a veteran chef, he then adds dried white threads of DNA from salmon sperm to a second test tube, where they turn gooey. He spikes the solution with a fluorescent stain and adds some of these DNA drops to the lipids on the slide. "Why don't we get the hot plate going?" he says to Ajoy Chakrabarti, his postdoctoral researcher. Chakrabarti switches it on and puts the slides on its surface.

"That's our tide pool," Deamer says, nodding toward the hot plate. "Imagine a primitive sun beaming down on that. We're going to let it dry down. The bubbles are moving around, and pretty soon, as the water leaves, they touch. They fuse and you have enormous planes of lipids. If anything is in between, it gets sandwiched between the planes."

After a few minutes of primordial heat, the lipids and DNA on the slide have dried into a thin film. Deamer fills his tide pool again by adding a few drops of water. He puts it under a fluorescent microscope, and Chakrabarti turns out the lights. Looking through the eyepieces, you can see lipids squirting out from the dried film into the surrounding water. At first they writhe like snakes; gradually they swell into bubbles. Some of them are dim, but others glow with the intense fluorescent green dye attached to the DNA. The glow is clear proof that as the planes of lipids curled up into vesicles, the DNA that had been sandwiched in between them got trapped inside.

There are many exotic new ideas these days about where life originated. Some researchers say the grand event took place around the furnaces of underwater hydrothermal vents; others look in the spray of ocean bubbles; and still others prefer clay. But Deamer's choice is tide pools, an idea that harks back at least as far as Darwin's warm, still ponds. Twenty years ago researchers showed that the wet and dry cycles of actual tide pools could bond together several precursors of RNA. It seemed reasonable to think that these pools could have been the cradle for genetic molecules, and it was likely that liposomes would have sloshed into the pools as well. "All this organic stuff is accumulating on early beaches," Deamer says, "and the sun is heating and drying it and lots of natural experiments are taking place that I'm trying to re-create in the laboratory."

But a decade ago Deamer began to have doubts about the materials he was using. Astronomers and geologists were discovering the Earth had a violent infancy—hundreds of millions of years after the planet had formed, giant asteroids and comets still crashed into it, burning off its young atmosphere and boiling away its oceans. In the process, they also destroyed all the chemicals that researchers assumed were in liberal supply on the early Earth, including the building blocks of lipids. "There were some naive aspects, but I was playing by the rules of the time," Deamer admits of his early research. "Still, given that there must have been a first cell, it had to have a source of lipid molecules. It had to."

Research now suggests that the source was extra-terrestrial. Comets and meteorites evidently brought seeds of creation to replace the ones they had destroyed, in the form of hundreds of different organic carbon molecules synthesized when the solar system was a swirling disk of gas and dust. After the last atmosphere-killing impacts—about 4 billion years ago—smaller comets, meteorites, and dust from space could, in the space of a few hundred million years, have brought enough organic carbon to cover the planet in a layer ten inches deep. [H: I always marvel at such conclusions when the right conclusion is so very simple: extraterrestrial life was simply BROUGHT TO YOUR PLANET! However, the theories are fun and certainly the man has the structuring down quite effectively.]

Deamer wondered whether space could also supply him with his membranes; specifically, he wondered whether he could dig them out of a 200-pound meteorite that had fallen in Murchison, Australia, in 1969 and that was positively tarry with organic carbon. [H: Maybe so—but "space" can supply you with the "finished product" so why bother with happenstance Australian meteorites?] In 1985 he traveled to Australian National University in Canberra to study it. "The question was," he says, "are there any things in the meteor that form bilayers?" If so, it would be fair to assume that after impacts of similar meteorites in

New Gaia Presents Bread Mixes, Flour & Kernels

Spelt is the most ancient and very best grain. Spelta is a grain of its own unique being. It is the best fiber resource and has large amounts of B-17 (anti-carcinoma). The grain berry grows an exceptionally thick husk that protects it from pollutants and insects. It is stored with its husks intact, so it remains fresher. Thus, unlike other grains, it is not normally treated with pesticides or other chemicals. The strong, protective husk may also be a metaphorical signature of this grain's capacity to strengthen immunity. Spelt contains special carbohydrates (Mucopolysaccharides) which are an important factor in blood clotting and stimulating the body's immune system.

New Gaia offers Bread Mixes that use pure Spelt flour instead of wheat. The taste is uniquely nutty and enjoyable for the whole family. Also offered are combination Bread Mixes with both Spelt flour and whole wheat flour. Both are perfect for a 2 lb. loaf of bread which can be utilized in the Hitachi Bread Machine or others of its equal. The mixes are easy to use with only the simple addition of water, butter & sweetener. The packages come in 2 lb. sizes only.

Also available are whole spelt flour packages for your baking and homemade bread needs that come in 2 lb., 4 lb. and 8 lb. sizes.

You may also order the whole spelt kernels that can be milled at home into flour. These come in 4 lb. and 10 lb. bags. [See Next-to-Last Page for ordering information or call 1-800-639-4242 (1-800-New-Gaia)] the ocean billions of years ago, such substances could have washed up onshore in a tide pool, dried, and then been rehydrated.

Deamer ground a piece of the Murchison meteorite and extracted the organic carbon, made it into a slurry, dried it, and then added water again. "I took that ordinary extract and put it on a slide; I didn't know what I was going to see. It was a wonderful surprise—the whole slide began to fill with these beautiful little vesicles. I started taking pictures immediately. It's like what they say about seeing a UFO—you want to get your shots in. I can remember running downstairs to a lunch group of my colleagues and showing the pictures, and they looked at them and said, 'From meteorites?' It was pretty hard to believe."

SINCE THEN

Since then Deamer and his co-workers have tried to figure out exactly which of the meteorite's molecules form these membranes. "We found a few things we can identify. The problem is that meteorites are such complicated things with hundreds of chemicals, and we're stuck with just a few precious micrograms to analyze." One substance they have isolated is nonanoic acid, a chain of nine carbons, and they've managed to form membranes with it. Yet their membranes fall apart sooner than the ones formed from Deamer's original stew, which suggests that the true membrane formers are probably still hidden.

Incidentally, it was during this work that Deamer found the aroma of outer space—it smells like a musty attic. [H: Ah indeed, what it REALLY smells like is not-quite-finished Gaiandriana. WE brought you the DRIAS, dear ones, and it will pay off wisely and handsomely to remember as much.] "Think about it," he says after some observers put their nose to the vial of meteoritic organic carbon. "You now have molecules in you older than the Earth." Deamer jokes about marketing it as cologne—Chanel Number Five Times Ten to the Ninth, he'd call it.

The scent of meteorites, though, might put the researcher on the trail toward discovering how the first organisms harnessed energy. [H: INDEED!] The musty odor comes chiefly from a group of chemicals named polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons, or PAHs for short, that are made of hexagons of carbon and hydrogen atoms linked in various arrangements. PAHs are unpleasant stuff—you can find them coming out of almost any tailpipe—but they may have made life possible on early Earth. Some years ago researchers discovered that when a PAH is exposed to light it can give off an electron. [H: Yes indeed.] "That's what chlorophyll does for plants," explains Deamer. Plants capture the energy of this free electron and use it to bind together carbohydrates. It's possible, Deamer thinks, that in a similar manner PAHs could have supplied energy to early cells. He has managed to incorporate PAHs into lipid membranes. Now, he says, "We'd like to make them capture energy in a useful form. [H: They already capture energy in its most perfect form. What he means is energy as in electric product—oh how blind is man!] Nobody's particularly impressed yet, but we think we may be able to capture carbon dioxide and use the light energy to attach it to something else." [H: Well, nobody was impressed with Reif's (Bell's) telephone either!]

Deamer was encouraged by this work—he had found hints that meteorites supplied material to form membranes that could have enclosed complex genetic molecules and could have trapped energy. But how do you get from there to a cell? One big problem was that these early membranes would simply have been too good at separating what they enclosed from the environment outside. A cell needs to pull in ions and toss them out all the time, so it overcomes its membrane's impermeability with intricate channels, pumps, and shuttles. Swallowed by a liposome, a primitive genetic molecule would have been unequipped to manufacture channels through the membrane. The liposome would not be a shelter but a prison—or at least, so it seemed. [H: Ed and Norey, harken up, please, and discuss this with Nikola.]

"People think that membranes are permeable to nutrients and ions only if you put a channel through them," says Deamer. "That's the end of the story, because that's the way it's brought up in textbooks." But he has recently discovered that the textbooks are wrong. [H: No!?!?!? However, textbooks or no, the reason for the perfection and wonder of the drias in such as Gaiandriana, where we perfect the cells to match living needs and program them to cast out virus particulate, etc., you have the answer: the drias in solution become the perfect carrier for perfection within and into living cells, pick up the carrier-host's DNA structure into the flowing RNA patterns and wham, bam, thank you—life-cells tossing out the bad guys and rebuilding the good guys. Is not life wondrous? Integrate the colloidal silver, gold and carbon from OxySol with added antibacterial/antiviral frequency of silver and gold particulate and you have a going Jesse-mobile. God gives you what you need, but few recognize the gift or the greedy try to exploit it into something commercial beyond the reach of mankind as a whole. Be wise, readers, and use these things we offer. We aren't going to "prove" anything and it is YOUR life. But when God gives—YOU must receive, for that is just the way it IS.]

Modern cells contain lipids with tails 16 to 18 carbon atoms long, with the rare 14-carbon tail appearing in some microbes. Tails with 12 or fewer atoms don't appear in any cell membranes, anywhere. To determine the effect of tail length on permeability, Deamer prepared lipids with a range of tails and tried to make liposomes with them. By measuring how well they could trap charged dye molecules, he could measure their impermeability. [H: Ah, but so could there be projection of ENERGY!] Short tails, he found, couldn't form bilayers at all; the best they could manage were little clumps of particles. Lipids with tails of at least 16 atoms, on the other hand, formed tightly sealed liposomes that held their dye stubbornly. However, tails with 10 to 14 atoms could also form liposomes, though they were leaky. The tails evidently weren't quite long enough to form a permanently stable barrier, and occasionally some of them would jiggle around and create a pore. "No longer is it a pure oil across there," Deamer explains. "You've got a defect that creates a space through which ions can leak. The defect might last for only a millisecond, but you have billions of ions striking a membrane per second, and if something opens even for a microsecond, maybe ten ions will squirt through."

In 1990, Deamer started trying to toss ions through these pores. Potassium ions, he found, would go through nicely. In 1992, Chakrabarti managed to slip amino acids, which are three times bigger than potassium, through the leaky membrane. Perhaps, the researchers speculated, the earliest membranes were made of such short-tailed lipids; then, once the first cells had the genetic machinery up and running to make protein channels, they could make lipids with longer tails for better insulation without starving themselves. But Deamer and Chakrabarti still faced an intimidating challenge. For their hypothetical scenario to work, they would have to show that truly significant biochemistry could happen inside their liposomes. And to achieve that kind of chemistry, they would have to provide an encapsulated enzyme with a steady diet of much bigger genetic molecules. "If the potassium was the size of a walnut, these molecules might be the size of a watermelon," explains Deamer.

At this point, Deamer and Chakrabarti teamed up with molecular biologists Gerald Joyce and Ron Breaker, at the Scripps Research Institute in La Jolla, California, who have made the study of an RNA-based artificial life something of a specialty. [H: And yet the "Phoenix Institute for Research and Education" is put aside as some legal game? I think not. Always, good readers, more research goes on in THIS PLACE THAN IN ALL THE OTHER INSTITUTES TOGETHER.] The researchers began by forming liposomes out of 14-carbon lipids and used Deamer's tide pool method to capture an enzyme known as an RNA polymerase. In modern cells this enzyme grabs nucleotides and puts them together into RNA. Four nucleotides are needed to make real RNA, but for simplicity's sake, Deamer and his co-workers used only one.

They then put these polymerase-loaded liposomes into a beaker of water in which two other molecules were floating. One was the nucleotide—the watermelon. The other was protease, an even larger enzyme that acts like a molecular razor blade, cutting any other enzyme it meets into bits and pieces. [H: Again I urge Ed and Norey to PAY ATTENTION!] ("For anyone who works with enzymes, protease is a dirty word," says Chakrabarti.) They let the liposomes sit for three days, then added a dye that could seep through them and bind to RNA. In theory, if the nucleotide could slip through the pores of the membrane, it would be assembled into RNA by the polymerase. The dye would attach to the RNA and signal the researchers that the procedure had worked. The protease was too big to get inside the liposomes, but it would prevent any RNA from forming outside their protective walls.

"We didn't know if we'd see anything at all," says Chakrabarti. "But we saw all these vesicles glowing red with RNA. I hadn't expected it to be so dramatic." The liposomes had indeed allowed nucleotides to enter through their pores, and the polymerase had assembled them into RNA. The researchers thus showed that primordial liposomes forming in tide pools could have performed some essential cellular tricks. [H: Yes, and so can an imitation tide-pool.]

As an analogy to early life, their quasi cell has obvious limits, Deamer and Chakrabarti know. It builds simplified RNA, using only one nucleotide rather than the full complement of four, and once the RNA is produced, it can't do anything—it simply fills up the liposome. Joyce and Breaker, however, have the expertise necessary to take the quasi cell another step toward life. Over the past five years, they have perfected a method for making RNA evolve. Simply stated, they put loose RNA strands in a beaker and give them a job to do, such as cutting DNA; the ones that do the best are rewarded with offspring. The researchers place the selected RNA in a bath of loose nucleotides and enzymes and allow it to produce millions of copies of itself. They use this process to evolve the RNA by making the copying process slightly imperfect. Some variants do the designated task better than their ancestors, and they in turn are rewarded with progeny.

Deamer and his colleagues now want to put this whole loop of reactions inside their liposomes. There's no guarantee it will work. They'll have to sandwich the RNA, two enzymes, and two necessary primers in the lipids and hope that all five molecules get trapped in some of the liposomes. Then they'll need to supply all four nucleotides in the water surrounding the liposomes and hope that the molecules can get into the liposomes fast enough to let the RNA direct its own reproduction. [H: Or simply use Gaiandriana and Aquagaia. Small chance in the controlled complexity of universities, institutes and government.]

Even if they succeed, many questions will remain before anyone will be able to build a functioning cell. How does it manage growth and division—a process that demands mind-boggling choreography even in a microbe? [H: B.S.!] How exactly is this dance powered with energy? Yet there are far fewer questions to answer now than anyone expected. "These things we're now doing would have been unthinkable a few years ago," says Chakrabarti. "It would be great one day to walk into the lab and say, 'I think I'll start up a cell today.'" [H: Is "science" behind or what?]

"I'm pretty sure in the next five or ten years we or somebody else will put together a system of molecules that can take a source of energy and make more of itself in an encapsulated environment," says Deamer. "It'll be technically alive, but if we put it out to compete in any natural environment, something will eat it long before it has a chance to make its way up the evolutionary ladder. It's going to be a big deal when somebody gets to it, but this mystery of how genetic information came into the biosphere—that's going to be unknown for years to come." [H: Oh, my, my! What a world in which you find selves?!? How long can you people miss the forest for that tree in your eye? And, further, once life is under way—it attends its own energy for recreation. Well, you who attend our offerings—trust me, "The check is in the mail," and this time it really is in the mail.]

Deamer isn't going to lose his patience, though. "As we work our way toward the first living state, we find things all along the way. You pick a direction and start walking. That's really what I'm doing. You may never know exactly how life began, but you're going to learn a lot along the way." [END OF QUOTING]

U. S. Supreme Court Reaffirms Power Of Grand Jury

Oklahoma City Grand Juror Issues Wake-Up Call

10/28/95 RICK MARTIN

The 5th Amendment to the Constitution opens with, "No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury..."

Some of our readers may still be unclear about the actual authority or scope of a grand jury. You may want to go back and reread, "Demystifying The Grand Jury System", which appeared on pages 18-22 in last week's (10-24) CONTACT.

In 1991, the U.S. Supreme Court made a ruling which further delineates and clarifies the role of grand juries. This is particularly interesting in light of current events concerning a grand juror from the Oklahoma City Grand Jury. This juror has been, just this week, thrown off the jury for violating Federal Civil Procedure, in an interesting turn of the tables.

In an article appearing in the November edition of MEDIA BYPASS, author Lawrence Myers writes, "Federal prosecutors refused a grand jury's request to interview witnesses and ask questions, many centered on the mysterious John Doe No. 2, before deliberating the government's case against Oklahoma City bombing suspects Timothy McVeigh and Terry Lynn Nichols, according to allegations made by grand jurors and witnesses who testified in the case."

In this alarming article, Myers states, "...he and several others on the 23-member panel remain suspicious of the government's case, as presented to the grand jury that was seated at Tinker Air Force Base just days after the bombing."

Continuing, "Although jurors say they were convinced that both McVeigh and Nichols were involved in the plot and that the government proved its case, they openly stated on the record during the proceeding that they suspected there were other conspirators, and the government may have deliberately withheld information that could prove it. At least one grand juror regularly objected to the prosecution's failure to present information on the elusive John Doe No. 2"

As if this weren't enough, "The juror also expressed concerns about the conduct of judges and prosecutors who presided over the three-month grand jury proceeding. Among other alleged improprieties, the juror claimed that an assistant U.S. Attorney advised them that they could not directly question any witnesses. Instead, the juror said, he and the 22 other jurors were told they must raise their hands to notify prosecutors that they had a question."

And thus, it would seem, soul play entered into the grand jury process at Oklahoma City. Haven't those prosecutors heard of Supreme Court decisions as they relate to grand juries? Or, what are they trying to hide???

In an interview with CONTACT on Oct. 28, Oklahoma City grand juror (now, former grand juror) Hoppy Heidelberg expresses his concerns clearly.

On October 24, 1995, U.S. District Judge David Russell informed Mr. Heidelberg by letter that, "Effective immediately, you are dismissed from the grand jury. Your obligation of secrecy continues. Any disclosure of matters that occurred before the grand jury constitutes a contempt of court. Each violation of the obligation of secrecy may be punished cumulatively."

Hoppy Heidelberg told CONTACT, "I don't know how you started your story on the grand jury system but it really starts with the Magna Carta. Prior to the Magna Carta, the crown could prosecute anybody they wanted to, for any crime they chose. This made it convenient to eliminate political rivals or anybody who questioned the actions of the Crown. After 1215, there was a battle, of course, between English lords and King John. And, King John was defeated, in effect, and was forced to fight and sign this Magna Carta. And out of that came most of our common law, as you know, and out of that came the idea, the concept, of the grand jury wherein the Crown or the State can only try people if a jury of their peers has allowed it—a jury of their peers has defined that there is sufficient cause to take the person to court. And it was designed that they buffer between the state and its citizens, to protect the citizens from the state. And people don't understand that anymore and it's a really important concept to understand. It is not just a tool that the state uses to indict people they want to prosecute.

"The American people's only protection from the state is the grand jury system. Obviously, this is not necessarily the government's fault. This is the people's fault. Anytime the people abdicate any of their responsibilities it creates a vacuum. And, as you know, vacuums don't stay vacuums very long. They are filled by somebody. And typically, how it works is when the American people abdicate a particular responsibility, the government moves in. It doesn't necessarily mean the government had ulterior motives to move in; it might, but it just means that it's normal; that's its nature that vacuums are filled by somebody or something. And so, as the American people become more apathetic and abdicate more of their rights and responsibilities, the government becomes more powerful. And it is just like a camp fire left unattended, you know. As long as you tend to your camp fire, it's fine—you cook your food, you stay warm, it's a useful servant. But if you don't pay attention and your camp fire gets out of control, you might find yourself in the middle of a forest fire and be consumed. And government is not unlike fire. It has to be tended, and minded or it can get out of control. And you can't let your servant become the master or you're in big trouble. And everybody can understand that idea of what happens when a camp fire gets out of control and becomes a forest fire. You can be consumed by your little camp fire that got out of control.

"It was my understanding from reading the handbook that was handed out to us as grand jurors, by the federal government, that we'd have the right—that any grand juror has the right—to question witnesses directly. And, I don't know how to say this, it was suggested that we don't do that."

Rick asked, "It was suggested by federal prosecutors?"

Hoppy responded, "Yes, there was an attempt to keep me from doing that."

Rick: "Was that an attempt by others on the grand jury or by those outside the grand jury?"

Hoppy said, "Both, in this sense, the prosecutors objected and so the rest of the grand jury went along with the prosecutors."

Rick: "Was that typical?"

Hoppy: "Probably. This is the only grand jury I've ever been on, so how do I know?"

Rick: "I mean, typical for that grand jury?"

Hoppy: "Oh yeah, whatever the prosecution wanted. And that's why I was gradually isolated and people would avoid me because they knew the prosecutors were angry with me. I was isolated, you know, because they couldn't afford to have all the grand jurors asking some pointed questions. So, they had to isolate me and make sure the jury understood that I was not on the "approved" list, so that they wouldn't copy-cat, you know.

"You're looking at legal issues, Constitutional rights, functions of the grand jury, things like that—so, from your point of view, how we were not allowed to question is really more important than John Doe.

"I mean, you're interested in possible prosecutorial misconduct, possible violation of my Constitutional rights, possible violations of all the jurors rights. That sort of thing. It's all there. All of those are possibilities.

"Now, as the prosecution has pointed out to me in trying to get me to be quiet, even though they didn't want me to ask questions directly, I did anyway, so what am I complaining about? Well, that's not the point. The fact that I had to ignore instructions and, sometimes, use subterfuge, just to get my questions asked—I shouldn't have had to do that. I should have been able—and on other grand juries—other people who have studied this have said, "Hell, most grand jurors can even interrupt a witness while they're testifying and ask questions if they don't understand something." It's very open. And, I'd say that ours wasn't open. And, we were asked to submit our questions to the prosecution prior to—and then allow the prosecution to ask the questions of the witnesses. And I disapproved of that plan. Because, you may just have one question in mind but the witness' answer may raise three more. So, how do you really cross examine somebody? How do you examine a witness if you have to basically submit written questions in advance and are not allowed to follow-up? So, it was ridiculous and I felt that my rights were violated as a grand juror with that method."

Rick: "Let me get your fax. (Reading the judge's letter to Hoppy.) 'Each violation of the obligation of secrecy may be punished cumulatively.'"

Hoppy: "How do you like that "cumulatively"? How do you interpret that, Rick?"

Rick: "Well, I interpret that as a big hammer over your head."

Hoppy: "Right. In other words, instead of six months it may be six months per offense. You can only hold somebody for contempt of court for six months. But, if you make each offense separate and make it consecutive, you could hold somebody the rest of their lives. When they use the word 'cumulatively' there, they're saying, 'Don't count on six months, but you may be there for years.'"

"I got a little handbook from Liberty Lobby years ago. It was an interesting little book, so I didn't throw it away. ...the last half of the book is strictly jurors' rights, duties, and responsibilities. It's very interesting, and so I kept that—when I got the handbook that they had given me, and as they began to challenge their own handbook, I began to seek more information and I recalled this little book and I was able to find it. And then it confirmed everything that the federal handbook said, and much more. Because the federal handbook is not going to tell you about any rights of 'nullification', see. [Laughter.] But the little old Liberty Lobby book says, 'Well, sure, you don't have to do what anybody says. You can do what you want. What you think is right.'"

"And they're not crazy about grand jurors understanding all of their rights or their authority. And they sure don't want them to understand what their authority is. They might begin to exercise it.

"If I am prosecuted—I'm already being persecuted—but in the event I am prosecuted, that's a wake-up call. Because if they get away with it with me, there is no more grand jury system. It's merely a formality from that point forward. Because who in their right mind would even serve on a grand jury, or if they did, they'd damn sure keep their mouth shut if I got a big old prison term, or something. So, this is critical to America. My case, right now, is critical to America. You know, am I allowed to exercise my rights as a citizen? And as a grand juror? Or, am I not? And, my rights are their rights. They need to understand that. And I think most juries probably do, but most American people really don't. But it's not just, 'do I have a right to?' The real question is, do they have the right to? Because if I have the right to, so do they. And if I don't, neither do they. And so, this is critical to every citizen in America, this issue of whether or not I have the right to perform my duties without being hindered. And, if I am hindered, to speak up."

Thank you, Hoppy.

United States, Petitioner

v.

R. Enterprises, Inc., et al.,

No. 89-1436—argued on Oct. 29, 1990, decided on Jan. 22, 1991. [Quoting:]

Companies which were subject of grand jury investigation into allegations of interstate transportation of obscene materials moved to quash grand jury subpoenas. The United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia denied motions. The Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit quashed subpoenas. Certiorari was granted. The Supreme Court, Justice O'Connor, held that: (1) Nixon standard for reviewing trial subpoenas did not apply to grand jury subpoenas; (2) where subpoena is challenged on relevancy grounds, motion to quash must be denied unless district court determines there is no reasonable possibility that category of materials Government seeks will produce information relevant to general subject of grand jury investigation; and (3) district court correctly denied motions to quash.

Reversed and remanded.

Justice Scalia, joined in all but Part III-B of the opinion.

Justice Stevens filed an opinion concurring in part and concurring in the judgment, in which Justices Marshall and Blackmun joined.

Opinion on remand, 955 F.2d 229.

1. Grand Jury—36.4(1)

Nixon standard for reviewing enforcement of trial subpoenas does not apply to grand jury subpoenas.

2. Grand Jury—36.4(1)

Grand jury may compel production of evidence or testimony of witnesses as it considers appropriate, and its operation generally is unrestrained by technical, procedural and evidentiary rules governing conduct of criminal trials.

3. Grand Jury—36.4(2)

Investigatory powers of grand jury are not unlimited; grand juries are not licensed to engage in arbitrary fishing expeditions, nor may they select targets of investigation out of malice or intent to harass.

4. Grand Jury

The law presumes, absent strong showing to the contrary, that grand jury acts within legitimate scope of its authority.

5. Grand Jury—36.9(2)

Grand jury subpoena issued through normal channels is presumed to be reasonable, and burden of showing unreasonableness must be on recipient who seeks to avoid compliance. Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rule 17(c), 18 U.S.C.A.

6. Grand Jury—36.4(2)

Where grand jury subpoena is challenged on relevancy grounds, motion to quash must be denied unless district court determines that there is no reasonable possibility that category of materials Government seeks will produce information relevant to general subject of grand jury's investigation.

7. Grand Jury—36.4(2)

Companies were not entitled to quash, on grounds of relevancy, of grand jury subpoenas duces tecum seeking variety of corporate books and records and, in one case, copies of videotapes shipped to retailers; it was undisputed that all three companies were owned by same person, all did business in same area, and one of three shipped sexually explicit materials and court could have concluded from those facts that there was reasonable possibility that business records of the two other companies would produce information relevant to grand jury investigation into interstate transportation of obscene materials. Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rule 17(c), 18 U.S.C.A.

8. Grand Jury—36.4(2)

For purposes of determining reasonableness of subpoenas, grand jury need not accept on faith self-serving assertions of those who may have committed criminal acts; rather, it is entitled to determine for itself whether crime has been committed.

Syllabus*

Pursuant to an investigation into allegations of interstate transportation of obscene materials, a federal grand jury sitting in the Eastern District of Virginia issued subpoenas duces tecum to Model Magazine Distributors, Inc. (Model), and to respondents R. Enterprises, Inc., and MFR Court Street Books, Inc. (MFR), all of which were based in New York and wholly owned by the same person. The subpoenas sought a variety of corporate books and records and, in Model's case, copies of certain videotapes that it had shipped to retailers in the Eastern District. The District Court denied the companies' motions to quash the subpoenas and, when the companies refused to comply with the subpoenas, found each of them in contempt. The Court of Appeals, inter alia, quashed the subpoenas issued to respondents, ruling that the subpoenas did not satisfy the relevancy prong of the test set out in United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 699-700, 94 S.Ct. 3090, 3103-3104, 41 LEd.2d 1039—which requires the Government to establish relevancy, admissibility, and specificity in order to enforce a subpoena in the trial context—and that the subpoenas therefore failed to meet the requirement that any document subpoenaed under Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 17(c) be admissible as evidence at trial. The court did not consider respondents' contention that enforcement of the subpoenas would likely infringe their First Amendment rights.

* The syllabus constitutes no part of the opinion of the Court but has been prepared by the Reporter of Decisions for the convenience of the reader.

Held:

1. The Court of Appeals did not apply the proper standard in evaluating the subpoenas issued to respondents. Pp. 725-729.

(a) The Nixon standard does not apply in the context of grand jury proceedings. The unique role of a grand jury makes its subpoenas much different from subpoenas issued in the context of a criminal trial. Thus, this Court has held that a grand jury may compel the production of evidence or the testimony of witnesses as it considers appropriate, and that its operation generally is unrestrained by the technical procedural and evidentiary rules governing the conduct of criminal trials. Nixon's multifactor test would invite impermissible procedural delays and detours while courts evaluate the relevancy and admissibility of documents sought by a particular subpoena. Additionally, requiring the Government to explain in too much detail the particular reasons underlying a subpoena threatens to compromise the indispensable secrecy of grand jury proceedings. Broad disclosure also affords the targets of investigation far more information about the grand jury's workings than the Rules of Criminal Procedure appear to contemplate. Pp. 726-727.

(b) The grand jury's investigatory powers are nevertheless subject to the limit imposed by Rule 17(c), which provides that "the court on motion made promptly may quash or modify the subpoena if compliance would be unreasonable or oppressive" (emphasis added). Since a grand jury subpoena issued through normal channels is presumed to be reasonable, the burden of showing unreasonableness, as the above language indicates, must be on the recipient who seeks to avoid compliance, and the Court of Appeals erred to the extent that it placed an initial burden on the Government. Moreover, where, as here, a subpoena is challenged on relevancy grounds, the motion to quash must be denied unless the district court determines that there is no reasonable possibility that the category of materials the Government seeks will produce information relevant to the general subject of the grand jury's investigation. Since respondents did not challenge the subpoenas as being too indefinite or claim that compliance would be overly burdensome, this Court does not consider these aspects of the subpoenas. Pp. 727-728.

(c) Because it seems unlikely that a challenging party who does not know the general subject matter of the grand jury's investigation will be able to make the necessary showing that compliance with a subpoena would be unreasonable, a court may be justified in requiring the Government to reveal the investigation's general subject before requiring the challenger to carry its burden of persuasion. However, this question need not be resolved here, since there is no doubt that respondents knew the subject of the particular investigation. P. 728.

(d) Application of the above principles demonstrates that the District Court correctly denied respondents' motions to quash. Based on the undisputed facts that all three companies are owned by the same person, that all do business in the same area, and that Model has shipped sexually explicit materials into the Eastern District of Virginia, the court could have concluded that there was a reasonable possibility that respondents' business records would produce information relevant to the grand jury's investigation, notwithstanding respondents' self-serving denial of any connection to Virginia. P. 729.

2. This Court expresses no view on, and leaves to the Court of Appeals to resolve, the issue whether, based on respondents' contention that the records subpoenaed related to First Amendment activities, the Government was required to demonstrate that they were particularly relevant to the investigation. P. 729.

This case requires the Court to decide what standards apply when a party seeks to avoid compliance with a subpoena duces tecum issued in connection with a grand jury investigation.

I

Since 1986, a federal grand jury sitting in the Eastern District of Virginia has been investigating allegations of interstate transportation of obscene materials. In early 1988, the grand jury issued a series of subpoenas to three companies—Model Magazine Distributors, Inc. (Model), R. Enterprises, Inc., and MFR Court Street Books, Inc. (MFR). Model is a New York distributor of sexually oriented paperback books, magazines, and videotapes. R. Enterprises, which distributes adult materials, and MFR, which sells books, magazines, and videotapes, are also based in New York. All three companies are wholly owned by Martin Rothstein. The grand jury subpoenas sought a variety of corporate books and records and, in Model's case, copies of 193 videotapes that Model had shipped to retailers in the Eastern District of Virginia. All three companies moved to quash the subpoenas, arguing that the subpoenas called for production of materials irrelevant to the grand jury's investigation and that the enforcement of the subpoenas would likely infringe their First Amendment rights.

The District Court, after extensive hearings, denied the motions to quash. As to Model, the court found that the subpoenas for business records were sufficiently specific and that production of the videotapes would not constitute a prior restraint. App. to Pet. for Cert. 57a-58a. As to R. Enterprises, the court found a "sufficient connection with Virginia for further investigation by the grand jury." Id., at 60a. The court relied in large part on the statement attributed to Rothstein that the three companies were "all the same thing, I'm president of all three." Ibid. Additionally, the court explained in denying MFR's motion to quash that it was "inclined to agree" with "the majority of the jurisdictions," which do not require the Government to make a "threshold showing" before a grand jury subpoena will be enforced. Id., at 63a. Even assuming that a preliminary showing of relevance was required, the court determined that the Government had made such a showing. It found sufficient evidence that the companies were "related entities," at least one of which "certainly did ship sexually explicit material to the Commonwealth of Virginia." Ibid. The court concluded that the subpoenas in this case were "fairly standard business subpoenas" and "ought to be complied with." Id., at 65a. Notwithstanding these findings, the companies refused to comply with the subpoenas. The District Court found each in contempt and fined them $500 per day, but stayed imposition of the fine pending appeal. Id., at 64a.

The Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit upheld the business records subpoenas issued to Model, but remanded the motion to quash the subpoena for Model's videotapes. In re Grand Jury 87-3 Subpoena Deces Tecum, 884 F.2d 772 (1989). Of particular relevance here, the Court of Appeals quashed the business records subpoenas issued to R. Enterprises and MFR. In doing so, it applied the standards set out by this Court in United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 699-700, 94 S.Ct. 3090, 3103-3104, 41 L.Ed.2d 1039 (1974). The court recognized that Nixon dealt with a trial subpoena, not a grand jury subpoena, but determined that the rule was "equally applicable" in the grand jury context. 884 F.2d, at 776, n.2. Accordingly, it required the Government to clear the three hurdles that Nixon established in the trial context—relevancy, admissibility, and specificity—in order to enforce the grand jury subpoenas. Id., at 776. The court concluded that the challenged subpoenas did not satisfy the Nixon standards, finding no evidence in the record that either company had even shipped materials into, or otherwise conducted business in, the Eastern District of Virginia. Ibid. The Court of Appeals specifically criticized the District Court for drawing an inference that, because Rothstein owned all three businesses and one of them had undoubtedly shipped sexually explicit materials into the Eastern District of Virginia, there might be some link between the Eastern District of Virginia and R. Enterprises or MFR. Id., at 777. It then noted that "any evidence concerning Mr. Rothstein's alleged business activities outside of Virginia, or his ownership of companies which distribute allegedly obscene materials outside of Virginia, would most likely be inadmissible on relevancy grounds at any trial that might occur," and that the subpoenas therefore failed "to meet the requirements [sic] that any documents subpoenaed under [Federal] Rule [of Criminal Procedure] 17(c) must be admissible as evidence at trial." Ibid., citing Nixon, supra, at 700. The Court of Appeals did not consider whether enforcement of the subpoenas duces tecum issued to respondents implicated the First Amendment.

We granted certiorari to determine whether the Court of Appeals applied the proper standard in evaluating the grand jury subpoenas issued to respondents. 496 U.S. 924, 110 S.Ct. 2616, 110 L.Ed.2d 638 (1990). We now reverse.

[1] The grand jury occupies a unique role in our criminal justice system. It is an investigatory body charged with the responsibility of determining whether or not a crime has been committed. Unlike this Court, whose jurisdiction is predicated on a specific case or controversy, the grand jury "can investigate merely on suspicion that the law is being violated, or even just because it wants assurance that it is not." United States v. Morton Salt Co., 338 U.S. 632, 642-643, 70 S.Ct. 357, 363-364, 94 L.Ed. 401 (1950). The function of the grand jury is to inquire into all information that might possibly bear on its investigation until it has identified an offense or has satisfied itself that none has occurred. As a necessary consequence of its investigatory function, the grand jury paints with a broad brush. "A grand jury investigation is not fully carried out until each available clue has been run down and all witnesses examined in every proper way to find if a crime has been committed." Branzburg v. Hayes, 408 U.S. 665, 701, 92 S.Ct. 2646, 2667, 33 L.Ed.2d 626 (1972), quoting United States v. Stone, 429 F.2d 138, 140 (CA2 1970).

A grand jury subpoena is thus much different from a subpoena issued in the context of a prospective criminal trial, where a specific offense has been identified and a particular defendant charged. "[T]he identity of the offender, and the precise nature of the offense, if there be one, normally are developed at the conclusion of the grand jury's labors, not at the beginning." Blair v. United States, 250 U.S. 273, 282, 39 S.Ct. 468, 471, 63 L.Ed. 979 (1919). In short, the Government cannot be required to justify the issuance of a grand jury subpoena by presenting evidence sufficient to establish probable cause because the very purpose of requesting the information is to ascertain whether probable cause exists. See Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 65, 26 S.Ct. 370, 375, 50 L.Ed. 652 (1906).

[2] This Court has emphasized on numerous occasions that many of the rules and restrictions that apply at a trial do not apply to grand jury proceedings. This is especially true of evidentiary restrictions. The same rules that, in an adversary hearing on the merits, may increase the likelihood of accurate determinations of guilt or innocence do not necessarily advance the mission of a grand jury, whose task is to conduct an ex parte investigation to determine whether or not there is probable cause to prosecute a particular defendant. In Costello v. United States, 350 U.S. 359, 76 S.Ct. 406, 100 L.Ed. 397 (1956), this Court declined to apply the rule against hearsay to grand jury proceedings. Strict observance of trial rules in the context of a grand jury's preliminary investigation "would result in interminable delay but add nothing to the assurance of a fair trial." Id., at 364, 76 S.Ct., at 409. In United States v. Calandra, 414 U.S. 338, 94 S.Ct. 613, 38 L.Ed.2d 561 (1974), we held that the Fourth Amendment exclusionary rule does not apply to grand jury proceedings. Permitting witnesses to invoke the exclusionary rule would "delay and disrupt grand jury proceedings" by requiring adversary hearings on peripheral matters, id., at 349, 94 S.Ct., at 621, and would effectively transform such proceedings into preliminary trials on the merits, id., at 349-350, 94 S.Ct., at 620-621. The teaching of the Court's decisions is clear: A grand jury "may compel the production of evidence or the testimony of witnesses as it considers appropriate, and its operation generally is unrestrained by the technical procedural and evidentiary rules governing the conduct of criminal trials." id., at 343, 94 S.Ct., at 617.

This guiding principle renders suspect the Court of Appeals' holding that the standard announced in Nixon as to subpoenas issued in anticipation of trial apply equally in the grand jury context. The multifactor test announced in Nixon would invite procedural delays and detours while courts evaluate the relevancy and admissibility of documents sought by a particular subpoena. We have expressly stated that grand jury proceedings should be free of such delays. "Any holding that would saddle a grand jury with minitrials and preliminary showings would assuredly impede its investigation and frustrate the public's interest in fair and expeditious administration of the criminal laws." United States v. Dionisio, 410 U.S. 1, 17, 93 S.Ct. 764, 773, 35 L.Ed.2d 67 (1973). Accord, Calandra, supra, 414 U.S., at 350, 94 S.Ct., at 621. Additionally, application of the Nixon test in this context ignores that grand jury proceedings are subject to strict secrecy requirements. See Fed. Rule Crim. Proc. 6(e). Requiring the Government to explain in too much detail the particular reasons underlying a subpoena threatens to compromise "the indispensable secrecy of grand jury proceedings." United States v. Johnson, 319 U.S. 503, 513, 63 S.Ct. 1233, 1238, 87 L.Ed. 1546 (1943). Broad disclosure also affords the targets of investigation far more information about the grand jury's internal workings than the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure appear to contemplate.

III A

[3] The investigatory powers of the grand jury are nevertheless not unlimited. See Branzburg, supra, 408 U.S., at 688, 92 S.Ct., at 2660; Calandra, supra, 414 U.S., at 346, and n. 4, 94 S.Ct., at 619, and n. 4. Grand juries are not licensed to engage in arbitrary fishing expeditions, nor may they select targets of investigation out of malice or an intent to harass. In this case, the focus of our inquiry is the limit imposed on a grand jury by Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 17(c), which governs the issuance of subpoenas duces tecum in federal criminal proceedings. The Rule provides that "[t]he court on motion made promptly may quash or modify the subpoena if compliance would be unreasonable or oppressive."

This standard is not self-explanatory. As we have observed, "what is reasonable depends on the context." New Jersey v. T.L.O., 469 U.S. 325, 337, 105 S.Ct. 733, 740, 83 L.Ed.2d 720 (1985). In Nixon, this Court defined what is reasonable in the context of a jury trial. We determined that, in order to require production of information prior to trial, a party must make a reasonably specific request for information that would be both relevant and admissible at trial. 418 U.S., at 700, 94 S.Ct., at 3103. But, for the reasons we have explained above, the Nixon standard does not apply in the context of grand jury proceedings. In the grand jury context, the decision as to what offense will be charged is routinely not made until after the grand jury has concluded its investigation. One simply cannot know in advance whether information sought during the investigation will be relevant and admissible in a prosecution for a particular offense.

To the extent that Rule 17(c) imposes some reasonableness limitation on grand jury subpoenas, however, our task is to define it. In doing so, we recognize that a party to whom a grand jury subpoena is issued faces a difficult situation. As a rule, grand juries do not announce publicly the subjects of their investigations. See supra, at 727. A party who desires to challenge a grand jury subpoena thus may have no conception of the Government's purpose in seeking production of the requested information. Indeed, the party will often not know whether he or she is a primary target of the investigation or merely a peripheral witness. Absent even minimal information, the subpoena recipient is likely to find it exceedingly difficult to persuade a court that "compliance would be unreasonable." As one pair of commentators has summarized it, the challenging party's "unenviable task is to seek to persuade the court that the subpoena that has been served on [him or her] could not possibly serve any investigative purpose that the grand jury could legitimately be pursuing." 1 S. Beale & W. Bryson, Grand Jury Law and Practice § 6:28 (1986).

[4-6] Our task is to fashion an appropriate standard of reasonableness, one that gives due weight to the difficult position of subpoena recipients but does not impair the strong governmental interests in affording grand juries wide latitude, avoiding minitrials on peripheral matters, and preserving a necessary level of secrecy. We begin by reiterating that the law presumes, absent a strong showing to the contrary, that a grand jury acts within the legitimate scope of its authority. See United States v. Mechanik, 475 U.S. 66, 75, 106 S.Ct. 938, 944, 89 L.Ed.2d 50 (1986) (O'CONNOR, J., concurring in judgment) ("The grand jury proceeding is accorded a presumption of regularity, which generally may be dispelled only upon particularized proof of irregularities in the grand jury process"). See also Hamling v. United States, 418 U.S. 87, 139, n. 23, 94 S.Ct. 2887, 2918, n. 23, 41 L.Ed.2d 590 (1974); United States v. Johnson, supra, 319 U.S., at 512-513, 63 S.Ct., at 1237-1238. Consequently, a grand jury subpoena issued through normal channels is presumed to be reasonable, and the burden of showing unreasonableness must be on the recipient who seeks to avoid compliance. Indeed, this result is indicated by the language of Rule 17(c), which permits a subpoena to be quashed only "on motion" and "if compliance would be unreasonable" (emphasis added). To the extent that the Court of Appeals placed an initial burden on the Government, it committed error. Drawing on the principles articulated above, we conclude that where, as here, a subpoena is challenged on relevancy grounds, the motion to quash must be denied unless the district court determines that there is no reasonable possibility that the category of materials the Government seeks will produce information relevant to the general subject of the grand jury's investigation. Respondents did not challenge the subpoenas as being too indefinite nor did they claim that compliance would be overly burdensome. See App. in In re Grand Jury 87-3 Subpoena Duces Tecum, 884 F.2d 772 (CA4), pp. A-333, A-494. The Court of Appeals accordingly did not consider these aspects of the subpoenas, nor do we.

It seems unlikely, of course, that a challenging party who does not know the general subject matter of the grand jury's investigation, no matter how valid that party's claim, will be able to make the necessary showing that compliance would be unreasonable. After all, a subpoena recipient "cannot put his whole life before the court in order to show that there is no crime to be investigated," Marston's, Inc. v. Strand, 114 Ariz. 260, 270, 560 P.2d 778, 788 (1977) (Gordon, J., specially concurring in part and dissenting in part). Consequently, a court may be justified in a case where unreasonableness is alleged in requiring the Government to reveal the general subject of the grand jury's investigation before requiring the challenging party to carry its burden of persuasion. We need not resolve this question in the present case, however, as there is no doubt that respondents knew the subject of the grand jury investigation pursuant to which the business records subpoenas were issued. In cases where the recipient of the subpoena does not know the nature of the investigation, we are confident that district courts will be able to craft appropriate procedures that balance the interests of the subpoena recipient against the strong governmental interests in maintaining secrecy, preserving investigatory flexibility, and avoiding procedural delays. For example, to ensure that subpoenas are not routinely challenged as a form of discovery, a district court may require that the Government reveal the subject of the investigation to the trial court in camera, so that the court may determine whether the motion to quash has a reasonable prospect for success before it discloses the subject matter to the challenging party.

IV

[7,8] Applying these principles in this case demonstrates that the District Court correctly denied respondents' motions to quash. It is undisputed that all three companies—Model, R. Enterprises, and MFR—are owned by the same person, that all do business in the same area, and that one of the three, Model, has shipped sexually explicit materials into the Eastern District of Virginia. The District Court could have concluded from these facts that there was a reasonable possibility that the business records of R. Enterprises and MFR would produce information relevant to the grand jury's investigation into the interstate transportation of obscene materials. Respondents' blanket denial of any connection to Virginia did not suffice to render the District Court's conclusion invalid. A grand jury need not accept on faith the self-serving assertions of those who may have committed criminal acts. Rather, it is entitled to determine for itself whether a crime has been committed. See Morton Salt Co., 338 U.S., at 642-643, 70 S.Ct., at 363-364.

Both in the District Court and in the Court of Appeals, respondents contended that these subpoenas sought records relating to First Amendment activities, and that this required the Government to demonstrate that the records were particularly relevant to its investigation. The Court of Appeals determined that the subpoenas did not satisfy Rule 17(c) and thus did not pass on the First Amendment issue. We express no view on this issue and leave it to be resolved by the Court of Appeals.

The judgment is reversed insofar as the Court of Appeals quashed the subpoenas issued to R. Enterprises and MFR, and the case is remanded for further proceedings consistent with this opinion.

It is so ordered.

Justice STEVENS, with whom Justice MARSHALL and Justice BLACKMUN join, concurring in part and concurring in the judgment.

Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 17(c) authorizes a federal district court to quash or modify a grand jury subpoena duces tecum "if compliance would be unreasonable or oppressive." See United States v. Calandra, 414 U.S. 338, 346, n. 4, 94 S.Ct. 613, 619, n. 4, 38 L.Ed.2d 561 (1974). This Rule requires the district court to balance the burden of compliance, on the one hand, against the governmental interest in obtaining the documents on the other. [*1] A more burdensome subpoena should be justified by a somewhat higher degree of probable relevance than a subpoena that imposes a minimal or nonexistent burden. [*2] Against the procedural history of this case, the Court has attempted to define the term "reasonable" in the abstract, looking only at the relevance side of the balance. See ante, at 727, 728. [*3] Because I believe that this truncated approach to the Rule will neither provide adequate guidance to the district court nor place any meaningful constraint on the overzealous prosecutor, I add these comments.

The burden of establishing that compliance would be unreasonable or oppressive rests, of course, on the subpoenaed witness. This result accords not only with the presumption of regularity that attaches to grand jury proceedings, as the Court notes, see ante, at 727-728, but also with the general rule that the burden of proof lies on "the party asserting the affirmative of a proposition," see, e.g., Mashpee Tribe v. New Seabury Corp., 592 F.2d 575, 589 (CA1), cert. denied, 444 U.S. 866, 100 S.Ct. 138, 62 L.Ed.2d 90 (1979).

The moving party has the initial task of demonstrating to the Court that he has some valid objection to compliance. This showing might be made in various ways. Depending on the volume and location of the requested materials, the mere cost in terms of time, money, and effort of responding to a dragnet subpoena could satisfy the initial hurdle. Similarly, if a witness showed that compliance with the subpoena would intrude significantly on his privacy interests, or call for the disclosure of trade secrets or other confidential information, further inquiry would be required. Or, as in this case, the movement might demonstrate that compliance would have First Amendment implications.

The trial court need inquire into the relevance of subpoenaed materials only after the moving party has made this initial showing. And, as is true in the parallel context of pretrial civil discovery, a matter also committed to the sound discretion of the trial judge, the degree of need sufficient to justify denial of the motion to quash will vary to some extent with the burden of producing the requested information. [*4] For the reasons stated by the Court, in the grand jury context the law enforcement interest will almost always prevail, and the documents must be produced. I stress, however, that the Court's opinion should not be read to suggest that the deferential relevance standard the Court has formulated will govern decision in every case, no matter how intrusive or burdensome the request. See ante, at 728 ("The Court of Appeals accordingly did not consider these aspects of the subpoenas, nor do we").

I agree with the Court that what is "unreasonable or oppressive" in the context of a trial subpoena is not necessarily unreasonable or oppressive in the grand jury context. Although the same language of Rule 17(c) governs both situations, the teaching of United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 94 S.Ct. 3090, 41 L.Ed.2d 1039 (1974), is not directly applicable to the very different grand jury context. Thus, I join in Parts I and II of the Court's opinion, and I am in accord with its decision to send the case back to the Court of Appeals. I also agree that the possible First Amendment implications of compliance should be considered by that court. I would only add that further inquiry into the possible unreasonable or oppressive character of this subpoena should also take into account the entire history of this grand jury investigation, including the series of subpoenas that have been issued to the same corporations and their affiliates during the past several years, see In re Grand Jury 87-3 Subpoena Duces Tecum, 884 F.2d 772, 74-775 (CA4 1989).

3. The Fourth Circuit, like the Court, conducted the relevancy inquiry without regard to the burden of compliance. Respondents, however, in their affidavits in support of their motions to quash, framed their relevancy arguments in the broader context of the burden imposed by the subpoenas. Respondents noted that the subpoenas required production of virtually all their corporate records. See App. in In re Grand Jury 87-3 Subpoena Duces Tecum, 884 F.2d 772 (CA4 1989), p. A-343, 18; id., at A-497 to A-498, 8 (hereinafter App.). Respondents argued that compliance with the subpoenas would violate their rights to privacy and their rights under the First and Fourth Amendments. See id., at A-342 to A-349, 17, 19-31; id., at A-497, A-500 to A-503, 7, 14-20. And, as the court recognizes, ante, at 9, respondents expressly contended that the First Amendment implications of the subpoenas required a heightened level of relevance. App. A-345, 22; id., at A-502, 18.

CONTACT: The Phoenix Project

CONTACT is a unique and inspired newspaper for concerned citizens everywhere, though it particularly focuses on the United States because of this country's special mission in the affairs of the world. That is, "As goes the United States, so goes the world."

CONTACT is a vehicle for Commander Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn's most recent writings on important current affairs, plus those from other enlightening sources, on matters critical to a responsible and informed public at this time of planetary transition and final days of battle between the Forces of Light and the "Evil Empire" forces of darkness.

CONTACT exists to counteract the manipulating lies and clever half-truths put out (on purpose) by the regular print and broadcast media prostitutes of the Satanic Elite controllers—parasites who are in the process of economically, physically, and spiritually collapsing this once great country (and actually the entire planet) down to a slave-state level of existence under their diabolical control plan called The New World Order.

This newspaper, CONTACT, began life on March 30, 1993, risen, like the mythical bird, with great determination "up from the ashes" of its internationally acclaimed predecessor called THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR.

THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR, in turn, began life in mid-October of 1991, having evolved from an earlier newsletter called the PHOENIX JOURNAL EXPRESS, which itself came into existence as a faster way to get THE TRUTH out to you readers than was possible with the more substantial "book" format of the PHEONIX JOURNALS. Much incredible ground has been covered so far in that mission.

While the PHOENIX LIBERATOR's motto reminded all that "The Truth Will Set You Free", the CONTACT's motto, displayed prominently in the masthead, takes that thought another important step forward and proclaims: "Ye Shall Know The Truth And The Truth Shall Make You Mad!"

The "Phoenix Project" is about those preparations needed—at body, mind and soul levels—to both understand and survive the great healing changes which are beginning to energize this beautiful little planet, now so frazzled and tortured from abuses of all kinds. We look forward, with great expectations, to the CONTACTING with all of you—a coming together that is rapidly taking place as the entire Phoenix Project "ground crew" continues to connect, solidify, and gain strength through becoming informed of THE TRUTH. Indeed, welcome aboard, friends!

CONCERNS FOR THE DAY

BOSNIA

I realize there is great concern about what Mr. Clinton is doing and considering in Bosnia. However, Mr. Clinton HAS TO DO WHAT NEEDS DOING IN BOSNIA TO CONTINUE HIS STATUS UNDER "EMERGENCY POWERS".

I have seen Ronn Jackson's comments on the situation and I concur to some extent with his observations. However (and Jackson knows this already and only neglected to tell you FAX readers), he forgot to mention the ONE MOST IMPORTANT FACT OF THE CIRCUMSTANCE.

Your "national emergency" status, which allows a President to act independently of Congress and all other bodies of government, is tied up with the continued extension, from Bush's day, of the Bosnia "emergency". Congress' approval to send troops to Bosnia IS NOT necessary, so Mr. Clinton speaks truth in this instance, even if not in Constitutional integrity. Actually this is covered in your Constitution as it gives him the right to do anything he chooses as long as you have valid Emergency Powers in position. Bosnia has been "it", as I said, since Bush. It has simply been extended silently ever since it was pronounced. This is why Bush told all of you that he knew "his Constitutional authority" when questioned, grinned and went forward with his foolishness. I would further take exception with the P.S. on Jackson's notation: "...Hitler... was equally as stupid as Bill Clinton." NO, don't give them such credit for it will do you "IN". Neither are "stupid"—both are/were incredibly shrewd foxes and realized EXACTLY what was and is at stake here.

I would interject another request here for Ronn Jackson: let him breathe, readers, he is paddling as fast as he can in a very "shot-up", hole-filled canoe. The world is in the most treacherous state of Evil conspiracy as has ever been on your place—and they don't just hand over anything easily and they certainly do NOT give up power or wealth easily. They know their Khazarian Big Deals are on their way OUT and it does not set easily on their minds. Please keep plugging along and let it evolve properly in its perfect sequence. This is one river that WON'T be pushed. "They" are still hoping to getcha' with the pulse system (to have been tested in Washington on Oct. 16th). The satellite is malfunctioning which offers the control system and backup—so we wait. It appears they plan to loose it on you on Halloween so all will stay in holding, probably, until they can evaluate effectiveness. The adversary recognizes Jackson as a very dangerous man to their cause—and he is. So, please, let us move on and continue our work as best we can do so. At best he won't be able to offer as much as he originally thought he could manage and, remember, he is doing the best he can under his circumstances, whatever those might be. Passage of time without delivery of promises is difficult to overcome, so for goodness sakes, people, use your reasoning minds. Do you actually think the Big Boys are going to turn over trillions of dollars and smile about it? No, they are not going to honor ANYTHING.

Why? Because your nation is in foreclosure and they CAN'T honor such as gold certificates, etc. The only thing a Jackson or a Grandma can dream for or hope for is that the Central World Bankers would rather pay off "something" than reveal the total deceit and run the risk of full-disclosure at this critical time in historic evolution into the New World Disorder. And remember, God's delays are NOT God's denials—if we but get on, and stay on, the side of God!

There are many things which must take place to turn a world around into a better way. To save the Constitution is only a tiny portion since it was only a document TOWARD a more perfect union. It was flawed at onset and remains flawed, especially with the foolish amendments added after the Bill of Rights. So, you have to do something to preserve what rights are available, overcome the violence now pumped into the citizens, AND establish some sort of non-chaotic foundation from which order can immediately establish itself from the anarchy abounding. You are a very long way from removing racism, hate and "just shootcha" from your streets. Remember that God will intervene—HE WILL NOT INTERFERE. AND, PLEASE, READERS, DON'T THINK YOU NEED TO INTERVENE ON MY BEHALF WITH ANYONE, ESPECIALLY A RONN JACKSON. WE UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER QUITE ADEQUATELY. I AM NOT ANNOYED "AT HIM"; ALBEIT I AM ANNOYED.

Many of you, especially in and around this location near the underground bases, are witnessing some "interesting" things going on, even in full daylight, but more especially at night. It is far easier to observe light working at night but it is also at night that the most effective mind-control programming can be accomplished—while most are sleeping.

As they have been activating the grid, we are shutting down critical vortex lines and interrupting some of the vertical shafts of pulse waves. We also have to counter the pulses in the horizontal tower-to-tower overloads. The fallout of these pulses are going to make you sick, sans disease. You will have smooth muscle rse with a lot of intestinal response—sick stomachs to the point of serious physical damage just due to the heaving; intestinal tears will happen due to the diarrhea, and the more you "over" treat the symptoms, the more natural flora you will kill. We can't counter all the damaging pulses, dear ones—all we can do is WARN you to beware and be very wary. Segments of that massive globe-encircling pulse system are being activated in readiness and tested for the "BIG" test. Expect depression and just let it pass without active rse to the suggestions you will be receiving to do damage to self or others. I also suggest you keep dark glasses and window darkeners at close readiness—for when they turn on the full load they may very well ignite the radiation belt. Remember the big boys are running at least two years behind with their photon experiments, although the rest of their plans seem to be moving on ahead of schedule. This unbalance does give YOU PEOPLE a chance to change the flow and you have seen the first example of such change.

There will be a great many complaints of heart-beats being totally out of sequence. If the chest begins to race—lie down and let it balance itself—you need a rather slow and steady beat to pump blood adequately. DO NOT PUSH PHYSICAL ACTIVITIES WHEN YOU FEEL THE "DIS-EASE"! The adversary will not leave the system on very long this first massive try because they don't know what it will do and THEY LIVE HERE ALSO. You can know from here on in, however, that it will be used often and for longer periods of time each try. This is a massive effort at mind-control through radio stimulation within these pulses. Wireless instructions will be fed into your minds like veritable TV screens. Keep your individual "bubbles" of plasmic energy around you so that you have a barrier for the electronic signals. You in sheltered areas (where we have an established "bubble") will note a visible "showering" effect of lights (somewhat like fireworks which "shower") as the energy pulses hit the umbrella. It will be much like lightning striking something and then flowing to the grounding. A lot of transformers will be BLOWN in great shows of light and showers of electricity—it is already apparent in many, many locations. Electricity, as is lightning, will be able to pass through the plasmic shielding—but will ground itself so take care where you walk when the "fireworks" start. You can expect power failures as substations blow out so keep your little emergency lights nearby, and something to warm yourself and your food without electricity if that becomes necessary.

I would also suggest that you have your "emergency" supplies available within your dwellings so you are not forced by need to leave home for intervals of time while repairs can be made.

No one knows what the magnetic energy of these tests will do to the fault lines, but around the globe you now witness the testing in localized areas and it is presenting with large quakes. Stay ALERT! Stay PREPARED.

I suggest that, if you can do so, prepare a large pot of something like beans, soup, stew, casseroles or other easy-to-keep food, freeze or refrigerate for longer melting times should this cut your electricity and gas supply for a few days. A pot of cooked food can be eaten warm or cold, so think a bit in advance. Some of you will be having such as Chili suppers for the holiday—make extra. I think the first test will be quite short and the big boys are hoping not to trigger out-of-control events. However, they are ignorant of what they do and you may well have consequences beyond the expected. Be ready to heat your soup over a hotplate candle, warm your toes to a wood fire, and stay safe in the candle glow. I do suggest that all fires be "contained" for, if the Earth starts shifting, you will have fires ignited by the very thing you use for a bit of light. I prefer you sleep with no flame burning save in a fire-stove or in a lamp which goes OUT if tipped over—should the power be shut down. A minute of prevention and reasonable thought will save your lives. Consider this as a "fire drill" and in that way you will not be caught without direction.

Keep a supply of extra water available and at hand where you have city supplies which require electric pumps to get it to dwellings. Keep a supply of fuel in your vehicles as well because most gas pumps run on electricity. Just an ounce of prevention can save you tons of disaster and discomfort. Remember also that you are moving into cold weather and getting chilled will be nasty, so keep your gear available and blankets easy to reach.

There is no way to tell what this electromagnetic pulsing will do to the atmosphere so expect out-of-control weather patterns—probably a lot of rain from the artificial clouds gathering to the electrical impulses, but there will likewise be a lot of electrical activity without clouds or rain. This will be sporadic and will be most intense where you least need more moisture. KNOW that these systems have been in the tinkering all around the globe so watch the patterns already presented.

In dry areas you can expect ignition by electric sparks of the grasses and flora, and the resulting fires may very well be devastating. What you will experience is "dry lightning" where there are no visible clouds, but you will get a real blast from thunderstorm cells and not necessarily any rain to put out the fires.

I suggest that Brent digest this writing down to a short paragraph or two and put it on the hotline because the test, if the stupid fools go ahead with it, will be global—or at the least "national". There is no way to know what to expect, as only small areas have been jolted prior to now.

How can you local folks know that it is near? Because you have seen US testing your shields and monitoring Earth movement along the faults nearby and all around Ridgecrest where the military has been in full testing of their own systems and shields.

If you can do so, stay pretty close to home on Halloween and leave the trick-or-treat crowd to the risks. It won't hurt your kiddies to do without their candy for a day. Get your own supply and then you will have some extra treats if you need them for the following days—for yourself.

I am remiss if I don't tell you this information; however, I am also torn about it because, without the satellite system working (and it is now down), there won't be anything notable happening. I can only GIVE

YOU THEIR PLANS and hope you will use your own reasoning wisdom. They can still activate great areas of the system, so don't just roll over and go back to sleep. You are very vulnerable from Friday on. Parts of the system are already in function but, as each grid segment is activated, the pulse flow will step up a notch and some of you are already uncomfortable. Our own people will rd more quickly but will handle the full thrust far more easily than the ordinary citizen. Some of our people are already rding with symptoms and illness—but as the frequency is stepped up—you will find yourselves much more comfortable while the masses will be suffering greatly. The high-pitched shrill tones in the head are intentional to counter the original ELF system. Just go with it or turn on music or the noise-box if it gets too uncomfortable and annoying. You near "the crystal" are already shifting gears as the signals are already nasty.

I have no way of isolating various locations so each will have to generalize and be as prepared as possible. Listen to your "inner" guidance and intuition and go with it. Do not ignore warnings! While they are testing this system over the next couple or three weeks, I would discourage flying if not necessary because where the two grid patterns mix you will have turbulence and incredible warps in atmospheric conditions which will be both sudden and dangerous. THAT is already present, especially over the oceans where the testing is already taking place. Many travelers will have some pretty ghastly tales to tell, and have had for quite a while. The major tale is quite consistent of major and critical drops in altitude and major turbulence and will be experienced by ALL planes flying through those given coordinates.

Watch yourself for dizziness and drowsy feelings—especially while in motion, i.e., driving, etc. Don't take risks—the life you save may well be your own and you parents have no right to not be available for your children during these times of terror and fright. Unnecessary risk-taking is not "macho"; it is stupid.

Mr. Jackson says that there WILL BE GREAT

BLOODSHED and you will need more than a few journals and papers scattered around for protection. He is, of course, quite correct. There will be much bloodshed and you must attend carefully your actions and rses to that which will come. I wish I could not have to agree with him in this matter, but the confrontations are already in motion. I would most certainly urge him to move right smartly along with the commitments, as you are literally on the "eve" of great happenings and you still need things for managing through this time of upheaval. We each do what we can do, readers, and that is all we can do. And whether or not you or I like it, Mr. Jackson is in the same boat as are we in that capability. He will keep his promises IF HE CAN DO SO—if not, he won't, and that simply is the way it IS. Worse than the loss of a "Republic" is ANARCHY, and you are moving into ANARCHY. This by definition means: "lack of orderly government". This brings down into chaos all factions of government. So be it.

I do not write these things to bring FEAR but our people, Dharma especially, is already hardly able to hear above the noises singing in her brain synapses. (Synapse: point at which a nerve charge passes from one basic reaction unit cell to another.) It is NOT a "ringing in the ears"—it is a ringing in the brain connectors.

This is a good point at which to simply leave the writing for today. There are many things which need attending and they become as important as more words on paper.

Thank you for all the miscellaneous writing this morning for instructions for other parties. We have to do that from time to time, for remember: Always, at every turn of the roadway—life is what happens while we are making other plans or involved in other deeds. What you are experiencing and going to experience IS THE PLAN IN ACTION TO GAIN CONTROL THROUGH MIND-CONTROL PULSE SYSTEMS. HOWEVER, READERS, HERE IS WHERE THEY HURT THEMSELVES AND GOD BEGINS TO WIN. PONDER IT! Salu.

New Gaia Products Offer Help

GaiaCol

GaiaCol is a combination of Colloidal Silver, Trace Colloidal Gold and Trace Crystalline Drias. This combination of ingredients has produced a product that is so high frequency and potent that it could quite possibly be the solution to our ongoing fight against the new antibiotic-resistant diseases that we face today. Colloidal Silver was used extensively and very successfully against bacteria, virus, fungi and the like before the advent of the first antibiotic, penicillin. The uses of Colloidal Gold were also significantly used in the restoration of health as early as 1885 and was noted for its ability to calm and harmonize the emotional body. Once the chemical companies began manufacturing the myriad of antibiotics, silver and gold were no longer looked to for treatment. The antibiotics they were producing, however, produced no effect on the more resistant viruses, fungi and parasites. Now we face a new generation of bacteria that are completely resistant to any antibiotics merely due to antibiotic over-prescribing and resultant survival of the fittest bacteria.

Research has demonstrated that Colloidal Silver is nontoxic to humans and allows no presently known disease-causing organism to live in its proximity. With the addition of Trace Colloidal Gold and Trace Crystalline Drias, the frequency of GaiaCol is remarkably enhanced to allow these newer, more powerful viruses and bacteria to be eliminated. GaiaCol is gentle enough to use topically on just about any skin, hair or mouth condition without fear of toxicity and is outstanding for burns.

For internal use during any type of infectious process, start with one teaspoon the first day and then 10-12 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue until the infection clears. Then maintain with 3-4 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue. Important: Due to the powerful nature of this product, friendly bacteria can be affected so it is advisable to replace the natural intestinal flora with some type of acidophilus/lactobacillus supplement daily or at least when symptoms are noted such as cramps, bloating, diarrhea/constipation and a general feeling of malaise.

GaiaCol is said to be safe for children and pets and can be taken with other medications without incident. This product is not addictive and does not build up a tolerance to it in the body. 2 oz. $10.00

GaiaGold

GaiaGold is a solution of 100% Colloidal Gold which is one of the oldest used substances for medicinal purposes and has no equal in affecting the physical body positively. Around 1885, colloidal gold was commonly used in the United States as the basis for the cure of alcoholism with additional uses including treatment of Arthritis, skin ulcers, burns and certain nerve damages. Colloidal gold does not have the same Germicidal/Antibiotic action of Colloidal Silver when topically applied, but it does have tremendous effect if taken internally for such as Syphilis and other diseases.

Colloidal Gold has been noted for its tremendous ability to balance and harmonize the emotional body, particularly in regards to unstable mental and emotional states such as "depression", "autism", "Alzheimer's", etc. Gold has further been found to aid in the healing of heart muscle and is highly beneficial in rejuvenating sluggish organs—especially the brain—as gold is the best electrical conductor yet recognized for nerve action. Another use for Gold is in cases of glandular and nervous incoordination because Colloidal Gold is said to rejuvenate the glands and stimulate the nerves which releases the pressure and allows the signals for function to reach through to the various organs and glands.

GaiaGold intake can benefit self-control in diet and quit-smoking programs because it helps to balance the brain's craving or need for such overindulgence or addiction. Taken in conjunction with GaiaCol, overall renewed vitality and longevity may be achieved. 2 oz. $20.00

How To Make Us Robots

misfits are in some of the highest benches and offices of your nation's life network. Please support these people who are willing to risk everything to bring TRUTH to the lighted stage. Cathy O'Brien's story is a multi-faceted story of terror and horror beyond the "Stephen King" variety of terror mysteries. Why? Because you cannot put it aside and say, "Well, it's just a novel." No, it is NOT "just a novel" of terrible chapters; it is truth which involves men in the highest places of your government and heads of state and churches.

MIND CONTROL

Mind Control IS THE MAJOR development for management of people and has come of age throughout the world. We have written of Mind Control in America, Russia, China, and elsewhere. We have offered information on Silent Weapons for Quiet Wars; we have offered tale after tale of these terror-secrets in such as our journal # 9 called SATAN'S DRUMMERS [see Back Page for ordering information]—and still more and more new information flows onto our desks and overflows the stacks upon stacks of information and correspondence shifted off to all of the space in the rooms.

I am asked to consider moving aside from Cellular Life for a few writing sessions and share one of the more recently received documents (Oct. 18, 1995). Since we are approaching Halloween, one of the more sacred days of Satanic cults, perhaps it would be wise to do so. Then, perhaps we can combine the chapters of information, already well presented, for the author.

The author's name is Dr. Hans Ulrich Gresch who personally sent the material to Rick Martin at CONTACT. You must understand that CONTACT gets around, readers, even if some people are too frightened to subscribe. I urge you to subscribe, for one of these days soon—the subscribers will find themselves in safety BECAUSE OF THEIR LISTING AS SUBSCRIBERS TO SAME. If you are too frightened to subscribe—please send a bit of a donation to the paper, for week to week it must be reduced in size and content due to lack of support. Our dream is that as soon as Mr. Jackson can fulfill his commitments and agreements with us, we can offer the paper at a much reduced price and flood the public with free copies.

I ask that a copy of TRANCE FORMATION OF AMERICA: The True-Life Story Of A CIA Slave be forwarded by Rick to Louis Farrakhan. It is not just the black ghetto inmates who are in controlled fear and insanity—it is the mass-mind in "final" trouble.

With this in mind, we will offer Dr. Gresch's experience with Mind Control in another tale of terror. But note, readers, the concept is ALWAYS THE SAME and you can SEE the inner connections of a global network closing in on all people, everywhere.

Please realize that this document is written by a psychologist who has a medical doctor's license from Germany and the English structure may be lacking grammatical correctness. We will only change structure in ALL INSTANCES to clarify. Otherwise, the documents will be presented as written. We will try to replace dangling prepositions from time to time, but never mind sentence structure—just please absorb the message.

THEORY

WHAT IS MIND CONTROL?

Mind control is the misuse of the most advanced knowledge and techniques of the behavioral sciences of psychiatry and psychology, combined with the very old methods of torture and brainwashing, for the purposes of the military industrial complex.

The general objective of mind control is to transform a human being into an organism which is as intelligent and competent as a human being—but which has no free will, which could be programmed like a computer, which is not able to ponder upon the consequences of programmed actions and which is not capable to remember the process of programming and even the programmed actions after they were finished.

Mind control is industrial production with people as raw material. In most cases it is arms production, but you can also use mind-controlled people for other purposes.

To seal up the source of radiation after an accident in a nuclear power station, for example, could require a suicide squad. Skilled mind-controlled technicians would be able to overcome this difficulty while remaining calm and without signs of fear—ignorant of the deadly danger in which they worked.

Secret services or the political police can also benefit from mind control. To infiltrate certain terrorist groups could be so dangerous that nobody with free will would accept to do this, but a mind-controlled zombie would have no choices.

Young, good-looking women (and sometimes men) could be abused as mind-controlled sex slaves to satisfy the perverted desires of powerful politicians—being mere tools doomed to forget the degrading experiences afterwards.

And, of course, the armed forces are interested in using fearless, machine-like soldiers fighting impeccably in any situation with no hope of saving their own lives.

Examples like this make it clear that with mind control the democratic state under the law can solve some of the intricate political problems concerning free will in complex hierarchical societies indefinitely. Of course this sentence sounds cynical, but you cannot survive mind control without a good sense of "black humor".

Although mind control is administered secretly, some representatives of the democratic state have to be informed, therefore a convincing justification was created and is fostered by the Satanic Cult of National Security (SCNS). The essence of this justification is that in order to save democracy you have to abandon it gradually.

It is not surprising that in many aspects the Satanic Cult of National Security (SCNS) resembles a fascist secret society. And, because the members of this worldwide secret society are "determined fighters for freedom and democracy" they should be called democratic fascists. In contrast to the German Nazis (Nationalsozialisten) they aren't guided by an elaborate ideology; their cognitive frame of reference is pure technology. They are techno-fascists. It is a defining feature of techno-fascism that the fascist interventions are hidden behind a democratic facade. Mind control is the modus operandi and vivendi of an innovative kind of fascism which is facade-democratic, so-called reactive, techno-pragmatic and based on the advances of the behavioral sciences, especially psychology, psychiatry and the neuro-sciences.

The ultimate goal of the SCNS is to subjugate the people to dictatorial control, to prevent them from recognizing this and to replace the real experience of slavery with the fictitious experience of being a citizen of a democratic state under the law. One of the methods to achieve this goal is mind control; the most frequently used technique is television. [H: And if you people can't see this in action, there is little hope for change.]

THE BASIC PROCESS

The process of producing a mind-controlled individual usually runs through three phases:

Phase 1:

The goal of this phase is to prepare the mind and the nervous system of the victim for programming. The victim is placed into the condition of extreme helplessness, disorientation and fear, and is then confronted with massive physical and mental stresses. The victim's sense of self-preservation is undermined, his identity is weakened or destroyed and he is regressed to the emotional and cognitive state of an infant wherein his mind is then dissociated.

Phase 2:

The goal of this phase is to program the victim, like a robot or computer, with new attitudes, plans of behavior and new frames of reference in which the attitudes and plans make sense. At least two personalities are constructed:

1. A robot personality that is consciously in contact with the controllers to receive the programming; and,
2. An artificial new personality that is unconscious of the fact of being programmed and that fragment is unconsciously determined by the robot personality.

The robot defines himself as a robot; the conscious artificial personality defines itself as a man. The robot is programmed with endlessly repeated indoctrinations and by means of conditioning (punishments and rewards). The robot is called a "slave". The slave is the interface between the controllers and the new artificial personality or personalities.

Phase 3:

The goal of phase three is to selectively erase the memory of the victim. This is not really an erasure of memory in the sense that the contents of memory are destroyed, instead, the faculty to remember certain experiences is deleted. At least two domains are erased: All episodes directly or indirectly associated with the process of mind control, and all biographical elements that don't fit into the logic of the new artificial personality.

The overall goal of this process is to convince the victim that she or he is absolutely powerless and the mind controllers are almighty—as in "God".

THE ROLE OF TORTURE

I am surprised that many authors writing about mind control believe that human robots (zombies, slaves) can be produced by means of hypnotism, drugs and electrical stimulation of the brain (ESB) alone—even though brought to completion by some "mild" or symbolic forms of torture such as psychic driving or sensory deprivation. (Walter H. Bowers has corrected this error in the 2nd edition of his pioneering and breath-taking book Operation Mind Control, Second Edition.)

Drugs, ESB and especially hypnotism are not so powerful. There may be some wizards who can manage a lot with hypnotism but nevertheless, mind control is not vaudeville but industrial production. I am convinced that only unrestricted physical torture in combination with the "soft" psychological and psycho-physiological methods can do the job. Today to torture somebody you don't need a rack from the Middle Ages; this could be replaced nowadays with a device emitting the appropriate electromagnetic waveforms and frequencies. With the term "physical torture" I also mean torture of the nervous system.

The functions of unrestricted physical torture are at least: To associate the original personality of the victim with pain, panic and horror after which the desired [artificial] personality is conditioned with pleasure. This is also for the purpose of functioning as aversion conditioning to establish new behavior patterns through which a panic-controlled mechanism of amnesia is induced, i.e., "If you remember, you will try to betray us, but we will be informed before you succeed in managing this because we are everywhere and thus you will then be again tortured in order that you will not remember!" [H: Cathy O'Brien refers to this as "nowhere to run and no place to hide".] The purpose is to produce an artificial, controlled Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD) which also is, under natural conditions, a result of traumatization (ill-treatment, sexual abuse in childhood, etc.).

By the way, torture itself, even if not combined with mind-control techniques, elicits monistic disorders or memory blockades concerning the process of torture in many cases. With heavy electroshocks the victim is regressed to a state of an infant. Then the torture resembles, psychologically, the ill-treatments of childhood. Rape is common, in addition, as an equivalent of sexual abuse in infancy.

To be a human robot means to be mentally ill and also defines a person suffering from Multiple Personality Disorder (MPD). The difference between a "natural" MPD and an artificial mind-controlled MPD is that the latter was consciously tailored by the controller to whom the victim is tied by invisible, unconscious chains.

Many students in the field of psychology and psychiatry don't believe that mind control is possible, and that is probably because they haven't understood the basic concept: MPD produced by a simulation of the natural conditions of its causes. This is very important for ONLY if the natural conditions of the causes of MPD are reproduced, will a human robot work reliably, and is a "must" in all clandestine actions.

THE METHODS

As far as I can remember I was the victim of a program with the aim to delete my personality, to literally dissolve my personality and extract it from my nervous system. I am not sure as to whether or not I am able to put all the details remembered into the right chronological order. During a mind-control treatment you lose your ability to localize yourself in space and time as a consequence of being electroshocked, drugged, hypnotized and treated with electromagnetic fields. They told me that I was sentenced to death for spying and that they had found a method to execute me while leaving my body alive.

To achieve this aim they applied at least the following methods:

Depatterning treatment using electroshocks, prolonged sleep deprivation and psychic driving (D.E. Cameron).

They also used a method developed by H.C. Tien called Electrolytic Treatment (ELT). This uses electroshock and behavior modification with an aversion conditioning of the old, with a reward conditioning of the desired personality. This is the most perverted method which ever has been developed in classical hypnosis, drugs and so on.

They utilized torture of my penis. They used a device which I call a "torture trouser". This is a sort of loin-cloth made of leather and steel bonds by which an electrode is fastened to the penis of the victim. They probably insert an electrode in the urethra, in order to induce maximal pain with minimal traces so as not to leave visible marks of torture. This is essential because these signs would remind the victim of being brainwashed in spite of the fact that his memory had been erased electronically following the sessions. For electric supply they use a cable or a battery so that you can freely move and if the operator wants to torture you he sends an electric signal to the battery using a transmitter. This is a very practical device for aversion "therapy".

It was presented to me that they would torture me to the extent I would give up my life, until I accepted the premise that I would be dead, until I would be dead with my body alive. And indeed, after some time the victim is forced into some sort of "feign-death reflex" concerning his original personality. This feign-death reflex is frozen afterwards by dissolution of memory. I was given a drug that induced near-death experiences. When I was clinically dead a voice suggested to me that he was God and that he had decided that I would have to be born again as a slave. Then I was again reanimated.

Electromagnetic fields were used to induce panic, fear, depression and pleasure. By this means they conditioned me very effectively. They used ESB, too, but it was not so effective as other tools. They even coagulated parts of my nucleus amygdala to produce obedience. They detected the brain wave patterns associated with mental states and conditioned not only the mental states but the associated neurophysiological states as well.

It is obvious that they found a wavelength with hypnotic effects so that they could give me posthypnotic orders while in deep trance states.

My memory was erased by electroshocks, radiation, drugs, post-hypnotic orders and the described torture mechanism.

THE TRIANGULATION OF THE MIND

To triangulate the mind of a victim the following steps are necessary:

The basic or original personality of the victim is compelled to a "feign-death reflex" by means of torture, and frozen into this condition. The "feign-death reflex" is associated with a modus of absent consciousness which is hard to describe, which is not synonymous with unconsciousness. It is the consciousness of a living-dead person—a human being who has been subjected to the fiction of being dead, who is actively producing this fiction. This presents as literally living as if being dead and is the irrationality of a victim who has gone through a hell nobody can even imagine if one hasn't experienced it. The logic of this is obviously one of the most important keys to understanding the mechanisms of mind control.

An artificial robot personality is created which receives programs consciously. This robotic personality is subjected to the fiction of being unable to have self-consciousness. It is programmed with a set of rules, (self)-definitions, attitudes, and views of life. According to this heuristic behavior tuning, the robot will steer the desired new personality out from the subconscious. However, this is a very special kind of subconscious. The robot works as if it were in a subconscious state but it is fully aware of reality and of the ongoing actions being performed by this new personality. It is not able to develop even a rudimentary form of self-consciousness. It is executing its meta-program to program the new personality well adapted to the inner preconditions and the outer circumstances.

The new personality "doesn't know" that it has been mind controlled, can't remember the treatment and is not aware of the robotic unit in the background of the consciousness. The robot unit resides within the blind spot of the self-consciousness of the new personality. This is a very exhausting kind of double existence and absorbs so much emotional energy as to make it relatively easy for the mind controller to implant a suicide program.

To ensure that the robot unit is working reliably it is programmed with the following suggestions:

"You are our robot. If you are conscious you will be here with us. If you are here with us you will be tortured. Your job is to steer the new personality which will replace the bad old personality you once were and which is now dead. Your job is to keep this bad old personality dead. You have to steer the new personality according to our guidelines, from the subconscious. Whenever you are conscious you will be here and then you will again be tortured. If you perform your task well you won't be tortured so often or as cruelly. But, even if you are a good robot, we will catch you from time to time to refresh your programming and then, of course, you will also be tortured.

"That is why you will have to become accustomed to the torture. Being tortured is your world. Even if you are working perfectly you will be tortured from time to time, until the end of your life. At some time we will kill you, but you don't mind for you will not know when this will happen. The better you are functioning, the better you will be treated. That is your fate. You can't escape this hell. So it would be best to learn to enjoy the torture. Pain is pleasure; pleasure is pain. We have implanted a transmitter into your brain. We can detect whether or not you are conscious. You are kept under surveillance using satellites. Whenever you stop working reliably and whenever you become conscious, this will be detected and then you will be tortured with extreme cruelty. We are everywhere."

It does not matter whether or not the mentioned surveillance technology actually exists. What is important is that the robot believes it.

Following these three steps the psychodynamics of mind control is generated. This is the heart of human robotics. The survival instinct is associated with the new, artificial personality. Sometimes mind control is employed without generating such a sophisticated triangular structure. In this instance the victim is working on the basis of algorithmic programs only, i.e., assassinating a foreign politician and then committing suicide. This is more behavioristic as a kind of programming and is suitable for well-defined short-term tasks, but isn't flexible enough to exhaust the full potential of human robotics. For fine-tuning the robot behavior the most advanced knowledge of cognitive psychology is exploited.

WHO THEY WERE?

Every detective begins his investigation with Cicero's old question: "Cui bono?"

They said they were the Mossad (Israel's "CIA") and the Shaback (Israel's "FBI"). As a German I would like to make clear that I am not an anti-semitic or an enemy of the state of Israel. Perhaps the controllers falsely told me they were Israelis because they could know that a German insisting of being tortured by Israelis would be suspected as being an anti-semitic liar.

I was kidnapped and brought to an interrogation camp in a desert several times. But I can't be sure that the involved were really Mossad, the Shaback or the CIA. Some say I was a victim of an international secret service and psychiatric cooperation headed by the Pentagon in the name of "national security". I have no proof, only memories. Because I don't know who they were I will call them, ironically, SCNS in the following writing. This abbreviation stands for: "Satanic Cult of National Security".

The controllers told me that the Soviets had developed powerful mind-control techniques so that they were urged to do the same. This is an old trick used again and again throughout history. I clearly object to the suspicion that the organization behind this assault on human rights comes from outer space or has something to do with "real" satanic cults (other than the SCNS), the Illuminati or some other kind of conspiracy [Editor's note: With due respect to Dr. Gresch's opinion here: all is related to all, as Commander Hatonn often reminds us.]. I don't believe that aliens have visited our planet, but if aliens do exist they are probably not as cruel as our human, all-too-human, controllers. Sometimes the controllers lead their victims into believing they are aliens, "real", non-governmental satanists or something similar. These are obviously "cover" stories. The SCNS is phenomenologically a cult, but essentially a governmental structure.

We must stop them. What they are trying to accomplish is total mental holocaust, nothing less. What I have experienced was as some sort of instant concentration camp treatment at its worst. It is my strong belief that the basic ideas of mind control and human robot productions stem from German KZs. KZ is the German abbreviation for "concentration camp" (Konzentrationslager).

I don't know who the Werner von Braun of KZ-Psychiatry was who was hired by the U.S. intelligence agencies after the war, but the modus operandi of mind control makes me believe that initially a potent Nazi brain was hidden behind it and buried within it.

[END QUOTING OF PART 1]

You are, as we speak, the hapless victims and receivers of the advanced electronic mind-control systems established on a global scale. Perhaps the "individual" mind-controlled robot is necessary for individual tasks and services—but the success of world control is going to be measured according to the success of the global pulse systems and the localized and focused systems which will control and instruct the "masses" in given locations: for example, Los Angeles when riots are desired, Washington D.C. as the Million Man March was under way, etc. It was fully planned to test the system in Washington D.C. on October 16th at which time the Million Man March would turn into the Million Man Slaughter [Editor's note: and actually, as Commander said last week, it was over 2 million strong].

The reason that you can't tell just WHO is behind this massive and warped program is because the Elite have joined resources for global control. Once the minds of mankind are controlled in massive manner—mankind is enslaved. There is no need to try to get the whole of mankind to have compassion and desire for freedom FOR ALL. The masses are already mind-warped according to the desires of the media puppetmasters and the puppets already dance to the strings of the master. It will not be until man takes up responsibility for changing SELF within the intent of God Creator as balanced, functioning parts of The Creation, with intents of harmony and balance, that Earth man can hope for survival.

We dedicate this man's writings to the Cathy O'Briens of the world—for confirmation that the methodology and programming is the same around the globe. It is an organized program for global CONTROL. Salu.

Gulf War Syndrome

Open Letter To Joyce Riley

Editor's note: Well, it looks like Bo Gritz got it right when he made the statement to Dharma some years ago, "If you're catching slack, you're ON TARGET." The same obviously goes for Peter Kawaja because he certainly is catching slack these days as he journeys forth to speak out about the truth behind the Gulf War Syndrome.

It is our understanding that Joyce Riley would prefer her correspondence not be made public, and CONTACT will certainly honor that. But we have elected to print Peter's Open Letter to Joyce Riley—which certainly should give you readers an idea of how difficult it is to be a speaker of truth these days. HANG IN THERE, PETER!

AN OPEN LETTER TO JOYCE RILEY

Dear Joyce : I am responding to your letter of October 23, 1995, a copy of which is attached. You wrote to me because of a radio show host person named Scott Wheeler, who according to your letter is making slanderous statements about me. From what you wrote, it certainly seems like he is, and he apparently made even more slanderous and callous statements to you about me, off on the air. If you have a copy of a tape, please forward for my review consideration of legal action.

Now, on the one hand, I would like you to thank him for me. You know, I have been waiting for the government to come out of the closet against me. After all, look at how many shows you have done, the Nicolson's, and myself. If the government didn't say something negative about me, heck, perhaps there may be some listeners out there who would be wondering why and I wouldn't blame them one bit. As you personally know, the government has taken action against me in many ways, but not publicly, until only recently. Prior to this, they have used the California FEDERAL Bank and IRS in illegal actions against me, and many other situations.

About Mr. Wheeler. I have never met him. Who made him any authority on the Gulf War? What are his credentials? Is he a Gulf War Veteran, and if not where does he get his qualifications to speak about Gulf War Syndrome? After all, we are talking about two different things here, the GWI, and Peter Kawaja. They are connected/related, but with regards to GWS, Mr. Wheeler is ACTIVELY attacking Gulf Veterans who are sick and dying, and those who are already dead. WHY?

You state in your letter in the second to last paragraph, that he is not convinced there is an illness, that HE says just because they are dying doesn't mean it is the Gulf War Illness. Has Mr. Wheeler PROVEN to you WHAT these Gulf Vets are dying from on American soil, since he is convinced it isn't GWI? If Mr. Wheeler KNOWS what it is and is certain it isn't GWS, why is he not helping Gulf Veterans? Where is HIS evidence for his "beliefs and statements"? All I see in your letter is a "personal opinion". He seems nothing but a mouth-piece for the VA and DOD, as his commentaries about GWI is a reverberation of their statements. BUT - what does "his beliefs" have to do with my particular EVIDENCE? His ludicrous statements about DYING Veterans is without Merit and plain DISGUSTING, for someone who "claims" to be a patriot and has a talk show on the USA Patriot Network. I defend Wheeler's right to have an opinion, and to challenge anything I say - in his mind/to himself, his family or close friends. However, for Mr. Wheeler to USE his position as a talk show host on a PATRIOT Network to air his "personal" opinion and SLANDER me, is unacceptable. Unless this is not his opinion, but the opinion of someone else, and who might that be? If Mr. Wheeler is truly a Patriot, and he had a problem with any statement I made, he would have called me or written to me, and said something like this > "Mr. Kawaja, I have heard you tell your story, and we appreciate all you are saying about our common enemy of the Constitution and Republic, but I have a problem with, would you please clarify it for me?" The FACT that Mr. Wheeler attacked me without my knowing, behind my back, shows his true colors. He did so even though he has no evidence or basis for his statements other than his "beliefs", whilst you have provided him with some of the documents on the issues which I speak out about. Because he did not check out my evidence, nor make a request of me FIRST, again shows his Willful and Malicious Intent to Slander me. Nothing he says is based on facts. The statements I make, are supported by a paper trail, and as you know many of my documents are U.S. GOVERNMENT documents, DOD, CIA, CUSTOMS, etcetera.

The fact remains that a WAR POWERS ACT search warrant was used to relieve me of certain evidence, which was then SEALED as National Security. Now, if Mr. Clinton, Janet Reno, and Louis Freeh all say they want to stop terrorism in America, WHY was my evidence SEALED as National Security? Since when was evidence against terrorists National Security? What part of the word EVIDENCE, WAR POWERS ACT Search Warrant or National Security does Wheeler NOT understand? So, which one of us is making "wild statements"?

You know Joyce. I had intended to make this a very brief reply, but some other Gulf Vets have been calling with inside information. Apparently there is a tie here. One of them said they believe Wheeler has been misled by Denise Nicols. AND since her name keeps coming up from numerous persons and situations, I have no choice but to go a little deeper into this matter. Let us examine the picture.

I hear Denise Nicols name associated with all the wrong people. Some have called about Mr. Northrop for example. I am told (but have no proof yet) that he is the same Northrop of NORTHTROP DEFENSE SYSTEMS, and is Israeli Mossad. I would like someone to confirm that for me, including the Mossad themselves who are encouraged to respond, as that is what I am told. Mr. Northrop is also calling around to Gulf Vets telling them not to listen to Peter Kawaja and all his conspiracy stuff (see my report about a different Gulf Vet attached and what the government has to say about "conspiracy stuff"). These Vets then told Northrop - please send us this information in writing so we may put it out also to show up Kawaja. Mr. Northrop just hangs up, and moves to another vet. Then let us bring in Vic Silverster of the DS/DS group, and his attorney Spagnoletti. This one you know about intimately and have the documents Mr. Silverster had asked me (and you) to attend his Yellow Ribbon Commission BUT, that I should remain in the background (don't go on TV) and feed them information on what questions to ask etc. I found that strange. So, I asked Silverster some questions IN WRITING, which he had a real problem addressing, as you know. Such as why does his 800 phone number for "his" Gulf Vets Association (DS/DS) ring in his attorneys office?, Where does all the mail and EVIDENCE from the Vets go to? Would he please send me a copy of his law suit - since it is filed in civil court and not national security, but public. I never received a copy, nor a proper answer to the above and more. Silverster says he is also staying away from suing the government, he is suing private companies only. AND his attorney is providing all the phone lines and costs for free! (or to come out of proceeds of the suit later). I have never heard of any attorney doing all of that. To operate on a contingency? Yes. Perhaps, Mr. Spagnoletti is VERY confident in winning a large sum of money, could anyone tell me the status of his law suit, and why his attorney is so generous? I had offered to testify for them - just like I test out all those other attorneys who say they are representing the Gulf Veterans, and all of them want to SUE the private companies ONLY, but I see no successful law suits being presented or won ANYWHERE. Now we get to the Desert Storm Justice Foundation (DSJF), operated by the mother of a very sick Gulf Vet. They have probably the largest network across the United States. Sitting on the board are two attorneys, Jay Adkisson and Mike Johnston. What's wrong with this picture you say? Well, Jay Adkisson is also the attorney who represents LOUIS CHAMPON, the partner in P-J-T to Hardar Barbouti. Then Mike Johnston, is also the attorney who represents MOSHE TAL (see my docs about CIA covert activity in the USA, etc). Mike Johnston is ALSO the same attorney who was the sworn deputized AGENT of the government that went to Dr. Barboutis Sloane Ave. offices in London after the Dr. supposedly died, to retrieve DAMAGING evidence on Barbouti FOR the U.S. Government. But where is this evidence? How can Jay Adkisson represent Louis Champion, whilst also representing other Government Informants who swore under oath for the government AGAINST Louis Champion? How can Mike Johnston, represent Moshe Tal, who conducted CIA activity in the US, now supposedly suing Barbouti (?), be a sworn federal agent, and sit on the board of the DSJF? How can Mike Johnston who represents a government informant against Champion, also work from the same offices/with Jay Adkisson who represents Louis Champion and also represents other government informants who swore out against Champion - and they both sit on the board of the DSJF?

Why do these attorneys not use their powerful evidence to HELP the Gulf Veterans? What is happening here? To prove I was willing to help them, I signed a document presented to me by Jay Adkisson allowing them to Subpoena MY evidence from the Government to use. What happened? That was a test to see what I would do. I always pass the test, yet they failed. How can an attorney ALSO be a sworn federal agent? A Gulf Vet and I played these attorneys. The vet, Jim Brown, called Jerry Urban of the Houston Chronicle, and left a message that he had the scoop of the century, that he had obtained all of Peter Kawaja's evidence against the government, and he would share that with Urban to do a story, as Urban had been hounding Jim Brown, and telling him that "Mike Johnston is a good guy, you can trust him, etc" - when it was found by the government that Peter Kawaja was working with and helping Brown. Instead of Urban calling Jim Brown back, within 7-minutes, attorney Mike Johnston called Brown to get the evidence. Urban, a newspaper reporter, has acknowledged working with Johnston. Oh, and by the way guys, Jim Brown provided me with a transcript of A.I.I. your conversations. He just has a good memory, and I don't think I have tapes, Freeh & Reno, it has been so long now, and who knows where they would be anyway? You would think, if YOU were a newspaper reporter and had the scoop on a real big story, would you call an attorney, let him get the originals for your story?, and hope he lets you in on the information later, -OR- would you go get the evidence for YOUR story to cover you legally when you write it, and then make copies for the attorney friend? This is but a drop in the bucket. I am not presenting any of my real AMMUNITION at this time, I have lots more. For those of you who have read the BNL report, guess who the OKLAHOMA attorney is that is mentioned on page-83, BUT blacked out as NATIONAL SECURITY? Just as Hogan and Reno blacked out everything about IBI/Barbouti. Is the U.S. Government protecting TERRORISTS? If you have read my document "The Saddest Chapter..", you also know about Janet Reno from Miami (see the book Votescam), who selected another former Miami attorney, John Hogan to "investigate" (? yeah-right) and present the BNL Task Force report on IRAQGATE (GWS). Is there any wonder why the report was favorable for Bush, NOTHING HAPPENED people, there was no crime, don't you know. Hogan ALSO represented the same BARBOULTIS. How can all these attorneys be representing Terrorists AND either the Government OR AND Gulf War Veterans? Seems to me, there is a conflict of interest here. Of course for those who haven't figured it out, all of this is called DAMAGE CONTROL and a smoke screen, to pretend there is legal action against someone, whilst suppressing the evidence. All of these seem to have in common, Denise Nicols, a Gulf Veteran who is being used, or has willingly cooperated. The attorneys Adkisson and Johnston whilst pretending to want my evidence to really go after the government, is also feeding the DSJF (and perhaps Nicols directly as a stooge) information to STAY AWAY from Peter Kawaja. When I did the Henry Feinburg show on October-12, someone called-in "claiming" to be a Gulf Veteran, and making an ADAMANT statement that he does not believe in Peter Kawaja's conspiracy stuff etc. He used his claim as a Veteran to gain him credibility. I offered right on the air that he call me so I can GIVE HIM documents. He said he would and hung up. Later that night, I did the Rick James show, and again, the same person from (I believe Colorado?) / where Denise Nicols is based from, called in to harass Rick James about Peter Kawaja. To this day, over two weeks later, this so-called Vet has NEVER called me. He is no Gulf Veteran, as in all these years, I have never come across any Gulf Vet who acted as he did. Some are in denial, some just don't know, but none has gone on the attack, without checking out the information with one of "their" trusted Gulf friends. By the way, for those who did not hear the show, this individual who claimed to be a Gulf Vet, stated that he does not know of ANYONE - repeat ANY Gulf Veteran who is sick or died from GWS. ALL (he said) of his friends are all healthy, and no one came back sick! That was his claim. Perhaps he is also either the same Northrop guy, or a friend of Denise Nicols. By the way Joyce, as you know, Denise Nicols is also going around claiming YOU and Peter Kawaja are taking all the money, she needs money for support. I am told she even called Dr. Garth Nicolson and made those statements about you and Peter Kawaja. WHAT MONEY? Denise Nicols is apparently being supported UNWITTINGLY by people who want to help Gulf Veterans, because she is one, and they think she is helping the vets.

I hear she takes plane trips to Washington, stays at fancy hotels etc, at the expense of suffering and dying vets who many have lost their homes, many living in trailer parks or worse. For confirmation of this, please contact as just ONE example, Chuck & Julianne Hamden. They were featured in Criminal Politics in the issue about the Drs. Nicolson. They will confirm these "stories and claims" by Denise Nicols. Not only that, they will confirm for you that she and the DSJF have gone out of their way, to not only discredit Peter Kawaja. BUT to keep my name, documents, and how to reach me away from all other Gulf Veterans who were trying to locate me.

Joyce, I could write THOUSANDS of pages of real MEAT, I am saving it for the day which is about to come soon. These Government attorneys, and Bush et al, are in for a big surprise if they think I have presented all my evidence in my law suit which was filed almost a year ago. However, I wrote this in turn on your Ford Light, because they are after you. They really want Peter Kawaja. They MUST isolate me. They must make sure everyone is against me, no one listening to me. You are out there like the Drs. Nicolson. You are bridging the gap in the Gulf War story. Peter Kawaja was screaming about terrorists and crimes against Americans BEFORE the Gulf War. Before you even knew of the word Gulf War Syndrome, Peter Kawaja had documents written about it. I AM THE AUTHORITY on the events leading up to the Gulf War. I did not just write these things. Americans hearing me speak out now think this is new. MY statements and evidence was written and acquired years ago. My credibility was established years ago, and further confirmed by the very government that set out to now try to discredit me. Years ago I wrote my document about the WARNING issued to me by the Pentagon, that Credible persons will be brought forward to testify against me if I spoke out. My wife paid the price by shedding her blood. Because of her, I am alive today, and they are wondering "what if", what if we missed something, what if.....

For Scott Wheeler to make any comment about my wife and her death is spiteful, hurtful, malicious, and more than words can describe. That is like insulting Randy Weaver about his wife, that is like playing down the blood from the children at WACO, the children at OKLAHOMA. The blood of my wife is still in the carpet of my bedroom. I watched her die from 12 inches away. I wiped up the blood that came out of all parts of her body. I found the evidence she left me, and more. In her death, she took care of me, I cannot explain further now. The government is using Wheeler (and trying to use you) to get to me, so I will give up even more evidence, that they want to know prior to going into court. I will not honor his or any other's ludicrous stabs at me and allow them to make me dishonor my wife or those Gulf Veterans already dead. It will end here with this document, and I will not keep responding back and forth to slanderous allegations, but will fight and expose anyone in a court eventually. The socialist communist New World Order Luciferians have a problem with Peter Kawaja. I know I am already dead, I was told that a long time ago. It is a matter of time before they figure out how to deal with me, or until they have no choice BUT to deal with me. They have to wonder just what would happen if I were to die, is he more dangerous dead than alive. In the meantime, they will try to take away any friend or believer or support that I have. They are the ones who print up paper money and tell you it is legal tender. They make up your driver's license, they can put your or my head on Lee Harvey Oswald's body, they can with today's technology do anything they want, and make it real to you. It is going to come down to what will America allow them to do, to get away with. Jesus said in the end times, family will turn against family, brother against sister.

We will see if America allows them to kill me and get away with it, or whatever else they can do to make me the bad guy, so no one listens. They have started with you, because you are vocal in support of me and veterans. No one else besides us and the Nicolsons speak out about the New World Order, or about Crimes. They keep feeding you disinformation to tie you up. (Actually, that is good news, I know I am hurting the scum).

Just the other day, you called to tell me that my friend Keith Baxley was seen in South Florida with Howard Hebert, William Bell and Norm Strader, FEDERAL AGENTS, asking questions about me. This was information (disinformation) passed-on to you by someone. However, I confirmed with Keith Baxley, who I have known for 16-years, and he denies this. Someone wants me to attack my friends, to be shaken and not trust them, so then I speak out about my friends and they then speak out about me. I understand the plan, I know the game. Perhaps federal agents were here, heck I would be surprised if they were NOT. But they don't need to go ask a newspaper for information about Peter Kawaja. That was disinformation fed to you. Keith has not spoken with Hebert since the events of the Gulf War. For those who do not know, Howard Hebert is a CLOSE friend of BRENT SCOWCROFT (NSC). Scowcroft was on the board of DBA systems (defense contractor) before going to the NSC. Keith Baxley took information from Peter Kawaja and gave it to Hebert to give to Scowcroft (before the actual war). This is just a brief summary, but Hebert asked why we wanted to STOP the PIT plant and expose it. He stated "are you sure this isn't some of OUR government work they are doing down there?". America, there is so much more you need to know. The evidence abounds and is overwhelming. The War with Iraq should have NEVER taken place. Our forces were placed IN HARMS WAY - knowingly, deliberately!

Keith Baxley kept a log/diary. I am in possession of it. I filed some of his log in COURT RECORDS against some of the federal agents, AUSA, and FinCen, which will lead all the way to George Bush et al. This also has to do with Trevor Armbruster (CIA asset/agent) senior editor of READERS DIGEST who had arranged to have Peter Kawaja flown to and landed on the steps of the White House and delivered to JAMFS BAKFR who was waiting. THERE is MORE America - and it is DOCUMENTED by a paper trail and by TAPE RECORDINGS and VIDEO !!!

TIME proves everyone's words. There is a lot at stake, the greatest stakes of all. This is the most heinous crime in the history of America, on top of being a war crime and one of treason.

It breaks my heart just to look at the Goldenhar babies and their parents ANGUISH. To top that off, untold thousands of young Gulf Veterans families are terrified of having more children. That is yet another unseen crime America will pay heavily for these sins.

Do not think they will not go to every extreme to get me, and it isn't always assassination by death. (That will come later). Character assassination can get them the same results, what they want is for me to go away. Who else has championed this cause for veterans and for the preservation of the Constitution and Republic? Look around you, worldwide, I am alone, and they intend to keep it that way. I have been broken financially, and just recently, they have used the IRS to make sure I cannot even work any job anywhere and get a days pay. I have no way to support myself and yet continue this great battle. We will see what America will do. However, even if I am living under a bridge in a cardboard box, I will file my documents on brown paper bags if I have to, I will die speaking out about crimes against humanity, I will NEVER accept the TYRANNY of the New World Order, for I "am" a FREEMAN, and my name is Peter Kawaja!

GOD BLESS THE REPUBLIC

More Signs & Hints To Stay On Alert

10/28/95 #1 HATONN

NOTE FOR TODAY

I can only ask for you to be observant as the enemy creeps (or springs) upon you. I thank Dharma for following my instructions and making extra cooked food for a "perhaps" emergency within this week. A hearty soup or stew with beans and chicken and some spelt bread will get you through in good shape. You can also slo-cook some spelt grain to add to the soup if you like—we don't want to break out the rest of your teeth with careless crunchies. The belly doesn't complain of boredom when the hungries hit.

I would, Dharma, cook some extra slo-cooked spelt grain to have refrigerated for breakfasts as well. A little powdered milk or cream flavoring will be tasty on a chilly morning with a bit of bread or toast if you have electricity available. A "little goes a long way" with the whole grains and hearty soups.

The news is NOT good about that which is working its way to your U.S. and Canada from points South. However, it is the SAME thing which was spreading through parts of South Africa, so don't be surprised as it moves into your own bedrooms and bodies. The disease will likely be blamed on the Green Monkeys, as usual, but don't let it fool you. These diseases of terrible plague are borne by air, by cross contamination, and by mosquitoes. The news is in your media and you will be hearing more. We now have news about it from your regular newscasts and here is part of a brief article from a Canadian paper. It comes from a resource called Reuters and this particular article appeared in Calgary Herald, Thurs., Oct. 26, 1995. Thank you, Mr. Benecken, for sending it along for ASAP warnings to our readers. Oh, by the way, yes indeed we find that colloidal silver with colloidal gold in THE solution (as we produce it; I simply don't know how others produce their colloids, but we put gold in our regular colloidal silver) in whopping first doses is effective after about 24 hours. In Nicaragua the people who have access to the colloid are using it IV or Intramuscularly and getting more rapid results. The usual medicines are not being very effective unless started before symptoms occur. When symptoms become obvious, it is late to begin treatment with ordinary antibiotics and/or drugs.

I should remind you that colloidal GOLD is effective in bringing down high fevers while keeping the brain synapses whole during a high fever. All we can do is offer what relief we can through the natural and harmless products. Remember, the laws do not allow us to practice any form or suggestion of "medicine".

Since the symptoms of this current mysterious disease are accompanied by hemorrhages I suggest you try other products than aspirin until you find out whether you are going to bleed, as aspirin has a tendency to thin the blood and to slow clotting.

I'm not going to take time to write more than the first few paragraphs of the article for I think you'll get the message. [QUOTING:]

Calgary Herald, (Canada), Thursday, October 26, 1995. [Sent in by Heinz Benecken.]

MYSTERY DISEASE INCURABLE

NICARAGUA, Reuters: A mystery epidemic sweeping north-western Nicaragua has infected thousands of people, killing at least 12 [H: ...that you know about for thousands don't make it to any kind of health facility.] and doctors have been unable to stop it, health officials said Wednesday.

Clinics in the town of 13,000 people say they have been deluged by patients from rural areas complaining of bleeding of the nose and gums, headaches, body aches and severe fatigue.

"In dramatic form, patients have come in and collapsed in the unit," said Manuel Silva, chief of the Health Ministry for Achuapa. "All we can do is half-way stabilize them and send them off to Leon. They only go to die there."

The mystery disease has hit hardest in Achuapa, about 150 kilometers northwest of the capital, Managua, and other towns near Leon, Nicaragua's third-largest city.

Mothers were bringing in bundled-up children to Achuapa's overcrowded health center.

Nicaragua's northwestern region was the scene of flooding in recent weeks, and Silva said at least 18 species of mosquitoes have been spotted in Achuapa alone. The country is fighting epidemics of dengue fever and malaria, both transmitted by mosquitoes.

Symptoms of the disease resemble those of the deadly hemorrhagic dengue fever....[END OF QUOTING]

Please keep alert and that immune system in good shape. I personally suggest you up your intake of Gaiantriana to a teaspoon or even a tablespoon instead of the few drops for a while until this settles down as to location, and keep some extra colloids for emergency use. Our people here are reporting full recovery from retching flu in about 48 hours. Most are not even missing a day of work while half the town is down and the schools in really bad shape. No, we can't supply everyone with all needed—but we will go as far and as quickly as we can. We simply cannot afford to move ahead rapidly as the gold colloid is extremely expensive to make—as you might guess with the price of gold as it is. Each gallon is costing about $200 JUST in gold alone without counting anything else—plus, it takes manpower to attend the electrolyzing equipment. We are spread about as thin as we can get here because time must also be now spent at the farm trying to get it in shape for some kind of winterizing. All this in the same time-span as the preparation of the Spelt into cleaning, grinding and production. In other words, readers, our canoes leak and our paddles are full of holes—but we keep paddling as fast as we can.

Our real need for the farm itself is a tractor and some plows for as quickly as rain or watering can be accomplished we must plow, disk and hope the weeds will grow like crazy if we have some warm days. We can get the land plowed/disked perhaps three or four times by late Spring, plant some nitrogen-giving plants, and be ready for a fall planting of Spelta for Spelta is a bit scarce as people are taking our suggestion of turning to Spelt for bread and grain. We also need some weed burning or whacking equipment on a bit larger scale than the regular weed-whackers because some of the stalks have managed to get bush-sized. The corn stalks and grain stalks we will knock over and disk and plow under. The problem is that as you turn under new cellulose into the soil, it DEPLETES nitrogen before it starts producing its own and resupplying the soil. Our better intelligence says to work the land all Winter and early Spring and get the weeds out and nitrogen forming. Perhaps we can make it a ways without having to irrigate as that alone runs well over $1,500 a month on just some 80 acres.

We appreciate your prayers and caring and your continuing to inquire. We have a couple of neighbor friends with tractors at ready to come plow as soon as the ground is damp and they will do it for very nominal fees—just for equipment if we don't get a tractor in time. Facts are we have numerous capable tractor drivers if we have equipment. You have to understand something, readers: you don't all have to agree on E.T.s, God, or how to cook a loaf of bread—NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS STILL WANT TO HELP WHEN AND IF THEY CAN DO SO. You don't have to agree on Louis Farrakhan or the Grand Jury—you don't even have to agree on O.J. Simpson's guilty or innocent verdict—but you have to be nice to one another and offer help back when it is needed in the other direction.

On another important subject, Rick has hit the horror jackpot about Grand Jury manipulation [see p. 10] and it is extremely important at the current minute. The CLC is planning to take the Ekker cases, the gold theft case of Green and several others TO THE GRAND JURY. It was suggested early up front by the State Attorney General, local supervisors and the Kern County Attorney that the case of Ekkers probably needed criminal hearings. When the RTC entered the case and the S&L bankrupted, it needed to go on to Federal Court or a Federal Grand Jury and simply got stymied along the way. There is abundant information from investigations to probably indict several judges, lawyers and corporate persons on criminal activities and conspiracy, to name just a couple of items. There have already been meetings with people as to how to structure and bring the cases before the Grand Jury who is eager to get it in their hands.

What does this do to civil suits? I assume one has little to do with the other. Civil cases usually follow criminal Grand Jury investigation—but in the Ekker cases it never is allowed to even get into a hearing position in the regular courts—OR TO A JURY OF ANY KIND, in well near eight years. So, the Grand Jury is REALLY READY, WILLING AND ABLE to hop on this one ASAP!

READERS, YOU MUST CHANGE YOUR LEGAL JUDICIAL SYSTEM THROUGH THE LAW! So, I ask, please, please study carefully the information as will be offered elsewhere in the paper by Mr. Martin. The wrongdoing in the Oklahoma Grand Jury system is going to blow the lid off Grand Jury activity EVERYWHERE, for the prosecutors and judges CONTROL the Jury—AND THEY HAVE NO LEGAL RIGHT TO DO SO. I ALSO ASK THAT YOU EITHER GET A BUNCH OF JURY BOOKLETS OR COPY THE LAWS AND KEEP A BUNDLE HANDY TO PROVIDE TO READERS. At the least, give instructions as to how to acquire same through Liberty Lobby [see p. 14 for address]. Thank you.

Rick has had to respond in his own behalf to some of the accusations of Abbott and Green and in his response, of course, there is NO WAY to serve Mrs. Green. In fact, interestingly enough, George told the Sheriff that Desiree's Father had died and Desiree would be away for a few weeks. Then when the Sheriff didn't believe that tale and sent someone to serve "him", he said that Desiree's Mother had died and Desiree would be gone a few weeks and couldn't be served. Now, Desiree and George are both Presidents of their OWN COMPANIES, America West(s), and how is it that addresses, phones, etc., are MISSING? GRAND JURIES find this sort of thing very interesting indeed!! But these are things I can comfortably leave to Rick, Ed, and others to attend in writings. The recent hate mail received by "Doris" makes her gun-shy to write or speak of anything that revolves around or is attached to her other than as a writer for my needs. Salu.

Alert To Ground Crew

Esu "Jesus" Sananda Writes

On Sequences & Shielding

10/30/95 ESU "JESUS" SANANDA

Esu present in the Light of Holy God. Those in distant lands who gaze upon my words, and those locally who read with an unquenchable thirst, must come to realize the necessity of "Sequence of Events".

In this ending/beginning cycle, the "dark forces", if you will, are making their final attempt at ultimate control of the world's population. And you can see from the many years of advanced knowledge acquired about the human psyche that they may program any one for any purpose at any time.

The Soul, however, remains the wild card in the deck, for as you have so beautifully witnessed with Cathy O'Brien, if a person be souled, of God, that Lighted Fragment which burns within the breast of man will be the watchtower that sends the beacon leading you ever to safe harbor.

The attacks against Hatonn and Dharma are the adversary's way of lashing out in his tantrum because the dark forces are WELL AWARE that God wins—and that, by definition, means that God's people win. Do not get too distracted on dwelling on the attacks, but always counter, action for action, IN TRUTH, and you shall all be fine.

It is long past time that the general populace use the judicial system the way it is intended, for the prosecution of criminals—but it is as you have stated, Rick: this legal system and the grand jury system remain a mystery to the average citizen. Ah! But contained within that mystery lie wondrous Solutions. [Editor's note: See Rick's excellent articles on juries, especially the remarkable powers of grand juries, both in last week's and also elsewhere in this week's CONTACT.]

Let us take, as an example which all of our readers will readily understand, the persecution of the Ekkers and the political, behind-the-scenes arrangements concerning the theft of their home by Santa Barbara Savings & Loan, and ultimately, the RTC. Do you not think that, with the non-sale by a Savings & Loan, the involvement of a municipal court judge in furthering the cover-up of actual events, and the wide range of illegal activities concerning the Ekkers' persecution, that the grand jury in Kern County would not have something upon which to act?

Let us take another example. What of the theft of Institute gold by George Green? Interstate flight?! Do you not think the grand theft within Kern County, which the local sheriff did NOT respond to, is cause for a grand jury investigation?

And, so, beloved readers, do you not see that, even within your own local community, there are likely to be legal issues which, if unresolved, can and should be brought to justice via the grand jury system. And what of the state and federal grand jury systems?

Ah, beloved, the answers to so many things are right in front of you if you will but look. Seek the answers and they shall reveal themselves unto you!

Ah! You say, "fraud, phoney!" Sananda would not speak of such earthly matters and particularly not such "local" matters. "Sananda has the world on his mind," you say. Ah so, and so I do! So I do! But I also respond when called upon and you ones continually ask for solutions and you are being given solutions if you will but attend them!

We are bound by cosmic law not to interfere in your affairs, but I may offer direct input when asked and I may tell you ones that the judicial system may be turned around via the jury and the grand jury systems if you will but take an informed and active role! So be it!

Thomas, you know the old saying, and it is so: "You can lead a camel to water but you can't make him drink."

Ah, but the true adventure of this journey is just beginning for you of the Lighted Hosts. Our ground crew mostly grow restless and uncertain as if waiting for the other shoe to drop.

Long has it been said that the radiation belt may be ignited. Long has it been said that the economy will fold, bringing America to its knees. And yet to those "out there" it seems that nothing ever happens!

Ah, beloved, things are happening every day and if you need a miracle to hang your hat upon, remember the recent two-million-man march in Washington, District of Criminals, that was peaceful and magnificent!

Hold firmly to the Light, chelas; hold firmly.

Remember to keep your spaces CLEAR. This is probably the biggest difficulty facing our ground crew—KEEPING THOSE SHIELDS INTACT AND STAYING "CLEAR".

I know it is difficult for you ones. I know that place is hard. Ah, but the glory shall be without measure. Won't you just hold your faith a while longer? God's delays are NOT God's denials.

And I know my people. You are not forsaken! I say it again: my people are not forsaken!

Hold the Light and trust in me. I will not lead you astray.

If you need help, you must ask.

The call Compels the answer!

Hold It In Your Hearts.

I Am Sananda. Salu.

FIRST STEPS

Whether long or short—The road matters not if the first step is never taken!

BY GYEOGOS CERES HATONN
(J104) $6.00 234 Pages

It is important, from time to time, to REMEMBER that we have THOUSANDS of pages of information out to you and, yet, new readers find only an issue or two and base all conclusions on same. It is not wise nor is it appropriate to do so. This is, further, WHY we write dated "journals"—so that the story is inclusive of myriads of pieces of information and comment of additional input—and is without beginning or ending.

Some of the very important topics discussed are: What to do when you see them coming for your land. If you think they are after you, consult a lawyer now. Time to clean house—WHAT TO DO IF POLICE SHOW UP WITHOUT A WARRANT.

Other topics are:

Know Your Rights.
Civilization Of The Universe
Essence Of Nature Of Human
LAWS OF CREATION
God Has A Plan 2000

BLUE BEAM

Revenge Is Out; Make Friends Of Enemies.

Who Is HATONN?

Soltec And Recent Earthquakes
Government's Business Is To Control
Electronic Shutdown Of Autos

TRACKING DOWN THE KILLER "AND OTHER FORMS OF MURDER"

BY GYEOGOS CERES HATONN
(J130) $6.00

"This message journal is going to be printed in its most reasonable format for it must reach as many as will hear and see. You think that your diet-mongers, your 'shape-you' directors and your 'food expert' teachers are showing you the way. NO, they are NOT. You are becoming a planet of insane and deficient humanity. You have even crippled the very animal and plant life upon your place. IT IS ALL A PART OF THE NOW FULFILLMENT OF THE 'PLAN'. YOU ARE DYING AND BECOMING TOTALLY INFIRM BY MALNUTRITION. IN THE 'REAL WORLD' YOU CAN'T EVEN OBTAIN THAT WHICH YOU NEED AS THE PLAN HAS WORKED ITS MISERY SO WELL.

"Since the most of this journal will be about beriberi and the various deficiencies of food as tampered with, we will give you a definition as presented to us. BERIBERI: Caused by a deficiency in vitamin B1 (thiamine hydrochloride) and other vitamins, and is found in areas where the diet consists primarily of polished rice, white flour, and other nonvitamin-bearing foods. Increased need for vitamin B1; fever, high carbohydrate intake, or alcoholism may lead to deficiency." —HATONN

Some of the important topics discussed are: IN-CARCERATION AND SPACE SHUTTLE'S ROLE AS EFFECTIVE PARASITE-SPREADING TOOLS—The Talmud Unmasked—Tracking Down The Killer—The Bible War Program In Action—Gaiandriana And Spelta Are God's Gifts To You.—Hyrogen Peroxide Usage For Health—How To Build Up Body Defenses Against Diseases—"Blue Beam" Postponed Temporarily—The Messiah Of 1665—ROME WAS DESTROYED BY THE JEWS. (INDEX INCLUDED)

Only One volume of the Pleiades Connection series was released from the court in Fresno:

Pleiades Connection: Volume I Return Of The Phoenix

By Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn
(J22) $6.00 210 Pages

You can learn the truth about the origins of humans upon this planet, our purposes here and why the truth has been hidden from us.

We have help to overcome all of our major difficulties IF we will return to living under the Laws of Creation and God.

Other topics covered: Types of dwellings best for our use from now on (patterned after Pleiadian dwellings). What true love is—Spacecraft—Types of metal used in them—About 666 and its significance—The truth about robotoids as our world leaders and much, much more.

SATAN'S DRUMMERS

BY ESU "JESUS" SANANDA
(J9) $6.00 211 Pages

In this deeply disturbing JOURNAL, Sananda exposes the truth about the energy called "Satan", the adversary to God of Light. Satan's fall from status as "Lucifer" is outlined. We learn how he gains his power through evil deception, what his tools are and what his limitations are. Additional topics: Satan's Beginning—Satanic Commandments—Witchcraft—Satanic Symbols—Evil Versus Sin—Satan's Clever Poison—Drug Addiction—Satanic Music—The Psychology Of Evil—High Profile Satanic Groups And High Evil Satanic Ritual Days. (INDEX INCLUDED)

PRIVACY IN A FISHBOWL

BY GYEOGOS CERES HATONN
(J10) $6.00 236 Pages

This JOURNAL is part II of SPIRAL TO ECONOMIC DISASTER (J4). The Government's thirst for information on its citizenry is unquenchable. Is privacy possible? This document contains very pragmatic "how to" and tactical suggestions to help you legally "fade into the background". Additional topics: S&Ls—The Real Estate Market—Oil—Bonds—Precious Metals—The IRS—The New (traceable) Currency—The War On Privacy—Electronic Intrusion—Cashless Society—If Your Home Is Invaded—The Estate Plan That Never Dies—Special Report (On Corporate Strategy). (INDEX INCLUDED)

CRY OF THE PHOENIX DEATH RATTLE OF FREEDOM THE PLAN 2000

BY GYEOGOS CERES HATONN
(J11) $6.00 246 Pages

This JOURNAL describes the unlawful activities of the Legislative, Judicial & Executive branches of the U.S. Government. Some topics covered: Tunkashila Speaks—The Secret New Constitution—How American-Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC) Buys Congress—Purpose Of Gun Control—Consequences Of Defying God's Laws—The Abuse Of Sister Charlotte—One Worlders Of The Lucis Trust (Luciferian Trust) Are Exposed—Jonestown—Khazars—The Protocols. (INDEX INCLUDED)

TELEPHONE HOTLINE

805-822-0202

This is a service for our dedicated readers. Today's Watch telephone hotline carries the latest news and comments from Commander Hatonn's most recent writings. This is our way of keeping you informed about fast-breaking news and events.

The message machine will answer after 2 rings if there are any new messages for that day, and after 4 rings if not. Thus daily callers can hang up after 2 rings and save toll charges if no new message has been recorded. The message update(s), if any, occur by 6 PM Pacific Time.
