Desperate Move By Monarchy's House Of Windsor To Preserve The "Grand Plan"

9/1/97 HATONN

JUST HOW PERSONAL, THIS DEATH OF A PRINCESS AND A BUSINESS TYCOON?

VERY! And, sometimes what you don't know certainly CAN hurt you. Moreover, murder comes in unexpected ways even if it is expected.

The media has chosen to focus, according to the orders of your homeland, England, even as to how you celebrate this beautiful lady's passing on.

Taking things in sequence of events: There were two persons waiting within the tunnel for Diana, Princess of Wales, and Dodi al Fayed, to finish off the first of many plots to vanquish what was blossoming in the world as an unacceptable happening. Are you actually ready to receive truth? Well, you are going to get it anyway and you are going to find that both of those people were working with some of my projects.

First let us cover what happened in a localized focus. The two prominent parties were leaving the Ritz Hotel, owned by Dodi's father. They were traveling TO the "Left Bank" to attend some night clubs.

The press was told of the transfer and that the pair would be leaving "in five

YOUTH DRUG-USE STUDIES CONTRADICT RECENT FEDERAL REPORT

U.S. teens are being introduced to drugs at ever-earlier ages

From THE WASHINGTON TIMES, National Weekly, 8/24/97: [quoting]

America's teens are being introduced to drugs, alcohol and tobacco at ever-younger ages, signaling a growing entrenchment of these addictions in society, a two-year report released Aug. 14 said.

In addition, the number of teens who know someone who does a "hard drug"—heroin, cocaine or LSD—is growing, the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University (CASA) says in another survey to be released next month.

Parental involvement and supervision are cru-

The federal survey, which compiled answers from 18,300 Americans ages 12 and older, was hailed as the countries first "tentative good news" on teens and drugs in four years.

On Aug. 18, Miss Shalala issued a statement praising the CASA study for "re-enforcing" the "basic strategy" of the Clinton administration: "to reach our youngsters with the truth about substance abuse at a very early age".

Gen. Barry McCaffrey, who heads the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy, issued a statement calling the CASA study "another wake-up call that we have not changed youth attitudes about drugs, which, if unchecked, presage future use".

Mr. Califano, who held Miss Shalala's job in the Carter administration, said some of the CASA data were more recent than the federal survey.

He said a survey of more than 1,000 youths that will be officially released Sept. 8 will show that the percentage of Americans ages 12 to 17 who know someone who uses heroin, cocaine or LSD jumped from 39 percent in 1996 to 56 percent this year.

In an even more troubling snapshot, the survey will show that the percentage of 13-year-olds who know a hard-drug user more than doubled, from 10.6 percent in 1996 to 23.5 percent this year.

The CASA report was a two-year effort by the group's Commission on Substance Abuse Among America's Adolescents, led by University of Notre Dame President Edward A. Malloy and funded by Carnegie Corp. of New York, Primerica Financial Services and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation.

The CASA commission report, which reviewed dozens of studies on teens and substance abuse, found that:

* The peak times to begin smoking are in the sixth and seventh grades, when children are 11 or 12 years old.

* The percentage of 9-to-12-year-olds trying marijuana doubled—from 2 percent in 1995 to 4 percent in 1996. Those preteens are also increasing their experimentation with cocaine, with 2 percent using it in 1993 and 3 percent in 1996.

* Alcohol remains the drug of choice among teens, with binge drinking—five drinks at a sitting—increasing among eighth-graders.

The CASA commission study also found evidence that cigarettes, alcohol and marijuana are "gateway" drugs: People who use these substances are more likely to use heroin, cocaine or hallucinogens.

Specifically, the study said that girls ages 12 to 17 who drank alcohol and smoked cigarettes in the month before being surveyed were 30 times more likely to smoke marijuana than girls who didn't smoke or drink.

It also said that boys in that age group who used alcohol, cigarettes and marijuana within a month of being surveyed were 29 times likelier to use cocaine, heroin or a hallucinogen than boys who abstained from smoking and drinking.

CASA leaders called for the federal government to spend $1 billion on research into addictions, as well as research on adolescent health issues. They also recommended higher taxes on cigarettes and beer and asked the media, entertainment and advertising industries to end the glamorization of substance abuse.

Meanwhile, parents and other responsible adults are the best line of defense, Mr. Califano said. "The battle will be won across the kitchen table, in the pews and in the schoolyards." [End quoting]

THE REAL STORY ABOUT DRUG USE

Excerpted from THE WASHINGTON TIMES, National Weekly, 8/24/97: [quoting]

The decidedly mixed report on illicit drug use last year by American adolescents shows with distressing clarity the consequences of the failure-plagued drug policy during the first three years of the Clinton presidency.

Having inherited drug-abuse policies that steadily brought down illegal drug use by adolescents from 1979 through 1992, Mr. Clinton shifted course without missing a beat. Ever the hipster, he winked at his own drug past, and slashed the staff of the Office of National Drug Control Policy by more than 80 percent. Not surprisingly this dramatic deescalation in the drug war was attended by an increase in adolescent illegal drug use by more than 100 percent and marijuana use by 140 percent during his first three years. It is in this context that the relatively modest improvements in 1996 must be understood.

HHS Secretary Donna Shalala perceived a "glimmer of hope" from the study, though she acknowledged the obvious: "Illegal drug use is still unacceptably high." She might have noted that four years into the Clinton presidency, illegal drug use among adolescents is 70 percent higher than when he first took the oath of office. Gen. Barry McCaffrey, Mr. Clinton's appointed "drug czar", declared the he was "enormously encouraged" that the data for marijuana use might suggest "a leveling off"—at a level that is still more than twice as high as the level Mr. Clinton inherited. Moreover, a separate youth survey of drug use, Monitoring the Future, conducted by the University of Michigan, found that marijuana use continued to escalate among youth in 1996, contrary to the federal government's results [emphasis mine].

However debatable the result may be for marijuana, there appears to be no dispute about youthful use of hallucinogens: The rate of use has virtually doubled in two years. In addition, an estimated 652,000 Americans tried cocaine for the first time in 1995, the latest year available, and 141,000 introduced themselves to heroin that year as well, most of them under age 26.

It is clear that the administration has a long way to go to undue the damage caused by its initial aloofness toward drug abuse. As the latest survey reveals once the drug genie is out of the bottle for 12-to-17-year-olds, it continues to create havoc among them for years to come. [End quoting]

The battle won't be won until we put honest, God-trusting leaders into our positions of teaching

TEEN HIGHS

The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University has released a comprehensive report on teen addictions, which included these findings:

Smoking

■ Seventeen percent of eighth-graders said they smoked by the fifth grade.

■ The proportion of eighth-graders who had smoked within 30 days of being surveyed jumped from 15.5 percent in 1992 to 21 percent in 1996.

Binge drinking (five drinks at one sitting)

■ The proportion of eighth-graders who binge drink regularly rose from 12.9 percent in 1991 to 15.6 percent in 1996.

■ One million eighth-graders acknowledged getting drunk.

■ More than 1 million 12th-graders are binge drinkers.

Marijuana use

■ The proportion of eighth-graders who said they used marijuana by the seventh grade rose from 7.7 percent in 1992 to 12.7 percent in 1996.

Heroin use

■ The proportion of eighth-graders who have used heroin rose from 1.2 percent in 1991 to 2.4 percent in 1996.

cial to helping children live drug-free lives, CASA Chairman Joseph A. Califano Jr. said at a news conference.

Data from five years of CASA studies show that if a person can make it to age 21 without smoking, drinking or doing drugs, he or she is "virtually certain never to do so", Mr Califano said.

CASA's sober news appeared to contradict a federal report last week that teen use of illicit drugs, alcohol and smokeless tobacco dropped in 1996 [some more of Clinton's "good news" propaganda??].

"There's a glimmer of hope here," Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala said two weeks ago, when the 1996 National Household Survey on Drug Abuse was released.

LATINO ACTIVISTS SUE CALIF. EDUCATORS FOR BILINGUAL EDUCATION

Excerpted from THE WASHINGTON TIMES, National Weekly, 8/24/97: [quoting]

In the latest volley in California's escalating battle over bilingualism, Latino activists have sued a school district that scrapped bilingual education in favor of English-only classes.

Last month the Orange Unified School District, a 29,000-student district south of Los Angeles, became the fourth and largest district in California to obtain a waiver from the state Board of Education authorizing it to drop bilingual education.

Officials in the sprawling district, which includes heavily Hispanic areas in Santa Ana and Garden Grove, say the 20-year-old bilingual program to promote fluency in English has failed. But those filing suit seek to restore the program.

"This is the only situation where a district sought to dismantle an outstanding bilingual program," said Deborah Escobedo of the Multicultural Education Training and Advocacy Institute (META), a San Francisco-based legal organization that fought the educational provisions of Proposition 187, a voter approved initiative denying most public services to illegal immigrants.

"We do not see the waiver as an indication of quality education," said Silvina Rubinstein, CABE's [represents bilingual teachers] executive director. She charges that California's bilingual programs had not been adequately funded and administered.

But officials in Orange say the district's 20-year experience with bilingual education has not proved a positive one despite adequate funding.

"Students were not learning English as they should and staying in the program longer than they should be," said Assistant Superintendent Neil McKinnon. After as many as six years in bilingual programs, many students still had poor English skills, he told The Washington Times. One sixth-grade teacher was teaching completely in Spanish and explained that the children could learn English "in junior high", he said.

In April the district's trustees voted 7-0 to drop bilingual education while offering extra classes after school and in summer to help children become fluent in English.

Meanwhile, some veterans of the state's bilingual wars see the action against the Orange district as part of a losing battle.

"A year from now there won't be bilingual education at all," said Alice Callahan of Las Familias del Pueblo, a Los Angeles community services organization working with inner-city garment workers. In 1995 some of the parents pulled their children out of classes and held street demonstrations demanding English-language education. [End quoting]

More and more parents are waking up to the damage that the Latinos and other immigrants are suffering from not receiving lessons in English so that they can get good-paying jobs or better education after they leave public schools. This is happening in many parts of the U.S. But, the ones who want to maintain their control over these immigrants do not want to see them become self-sufficient—they would lose their pay checks and power positions.

QUAD-BLASTER DETERS BIRDS

From AVIATION WEEK & SPACE TECHNOLOGY, 8/4/97: [quoting]

Bird-X, Chicago, Ill., has developed a new, solid-state version of its ultrasonic bird repeller with 360-degree coverage. Hangars and airport buildings are a major market for the QB-4, an autonomous 9-lb. unit that costs $475 and draws less power than a 10-watt bulb, according to Joseph Seid, sales manager. The QB-4 incorporates four piezo-ceramic speakers, aimed 90-deg. apart, that broadcast overlapping "fans" of ultrasound that are irritating to the birds but inaudible to humans. Coverage is up to 6,000 sq. ft. Speaker output can be modulated or sequenced for maximum effectiveness. [End quoting]

RUBLE REFORM WON'T HURT, RUSSIA SAYS

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 8/5/97: [quoting]

Moscow—Russia announced Monday it would slash three zeroes from the face values of the ruble from the start of next year in a redenomination that President Boris Yeltsin promised would not hurt the public.

First Deputy Prime Minister Anatoly Chubais supported the move, saying Russia had studied examples of currency reforms in other countries such as Ukraine and Poland.

"Inflationary financing, stabilization, redenomination—this is the triad through which dozens of countries have passed, some with great difficulty and others with less," Chubais said. "The redenomination [in Russia] was chosen as the most gentle way."

He said the government hoped to avoid the bitter experience of Soviet times, when monetary reform led to panic and people's life savings becoming worthless paper overnight.

Yeltsin said Russians would not have to exchange old notes for new and would be able to use the old denomination until the end of the year. The central bank would continue to exchange old money for new until the end of 2002.

"In the last 50 years, everything connected with monetary reform always hit ordinary people here. Now that is ruled out.... I guarantee this," Yeltsin said.

The chairman of the central bank, Sergei Dubinin, said that the move meant hyperinflation and economic stagnation was over and that Russia had embarked on the path to economic growth and a strong ruble.

"All necessary conditions for transferring to economic growth in Russia are established," he said.

Inflation was only 14.5 percent year-on-year in June, down from more than 1,000 percent in late 1993. The government forecasts inflation of 3 percent in 2000.

Senior Western economists welcomed the move, agreeing it was a sign of growing price stability in post-Soviet Russia.

"It's certainly an encouraging sign of the government's confidence in its ability to maintain low inflation," said Martin Gilman, an International Monetary Fund representative in Moscow. "It's more symbolic. In terms of economic fundamentals, it doesn't change anything," he added. [End

This is yet another example of adjusting an economy right out from under the average citizen. How is this other than making the ruble worthless?

THAILAND MULLS BITTER PILL FROM IMF

From THE INTERNET (via UPI), 8/5/97: [quoting]

Bangkok—Thai Prime Minister Chavalit Yongchaiyudh is meeting with his cabinet to consider tough conditions proposed by the International Monetary Fund in return for bailing out the Kingdom's troubled economy.

Under the rescue plan, Thailand's finance ministry and central bank are likely to lose much of their independence.

Other IMF conditions believed to be under consideration are an increase in the value-added tax (VAT) from 7% to 10% and strict limits on government spending.

Facing crashes in the real estate and stock markets and a 20% drop in the value of the baht [sic], the Chavalit government has, in effect, admitted it is unable to run the economy.

Former Prime Minister Anand Panyarachun says the crisis was brought on by the economic mismanagement of the governments of General Chavalit and his predecessor, Banharn Silpa-archa.

"There is nowhere else in the world where people have lost all faith in their own government and prefer their financial and monetary affairs to be managed by the IMF," says Anand. "We have been building up our nation for the past 40-50 years, but in two and a half years, in two governments, all the effort went to waste." [End quoting]

FAST-TRACK ATTEMPT ON NEW TREATIES

[Below is a letter of response to Clinton's bill which he will send to Congress in September asking for authority to negotiate trade deals. RE: "Clinton Pushes for 'Fast Track' on all Treaties"

Dear President Clinton:

I am totally opposed to any type of FAST-TRACK attempts on passage of any INTERNATIONAL TREATY. I am also against carte-blanche expansion of NAFTA to all of South and Central America. The Mexican Agreement created an even greater deficit than even I anticipated.

There have been too many so-called International Treaties and/or Agreements that have been passed, mostly un-read and un-Constitutional, by our Congress in the past fifty-odd years. The Constitution still does not allow automatic "rubber-stamp" passage of International Treaties.

I also oppose the issuance of Executive Orders, Presidential Directives and "sealed" Agreements (National Security??) that allow International Treaty Laws (Maritime/Admiralty law) to usurp our Constitutional Law, the true "LAW OF THE LAND" of the Sovereign states of our Republic, united under a CONSTITUTIONAL CONTRACT with the United States Government of Washington, District of Columbia.

CONGRESSMEN SAY FOOD WAS DIVERTED IN N. KOREA

From THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, 8/14/97: [quoting]

SEOUL, South Korea—U.S. congressmen just back from visiting North Korea said Wednesday they think some foreign food aid may have been wrongly diverted to the communist state's military. Seven members of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence told a joint news conference in Seoul they will seek measures to ensure that future U.S. aid to North Korea would go directly to starving people. The congressmen said they saw serious food problems in the impoverished nation and agreed on the need for more aid. [End quoting]

BUSH'S MOONIE PALS ENDORSE IMF PLAN FOR IBERO-AMERICA

From THE NEW FEDERALIST, 8/4/97: [quoting]

Tiempos del Mundo, the official newspaper in Ibero-America of the Rev. Moon cult, launched last November in Argentina with George Bush's backing, on July 24 endorsed the concept of "governance" being promoted by the IMF and World Bank to smash what remains of the nation-states of Ibero-America.

Stating that it is no longer enough to lower inflation, reduce deficits, and impose "common sense" in monetary policy, Tiempos adds, "The future will show that the [IMF] wants real adherence to certain social and political patterns, and an acceptance of minimal conditions which go beyond what can be counted...[including] transparency in the functioning of the state and of politicians.... Only strong foreign pressure can coerce the will of powerful local [forces]...only an argument of iron can make change possible...."

The Moonie paper underscores that even within all the structural reforms imposed by the IMF, certain intractable "historic" problems still exist. And sometimes, because of disillusionment, governments even go back to "statism and political instability". [End quoting]

The Elite are tightening the screws on the lower-ranked dictators. Our turn is coming fast!

CHECK CASHERS GOUGE CUSTOMERS

Excerpted from THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 8/7/97: [quoting]

Many low-income Americans, forced by rising bank fees to turn to neighborhood check cashers, are being gouged by those businesses for cashing checks and getting short-term loans, a consumer group said Thursday.

The Consumer Federation of America, which surveyed 111 check-cashing outlets in 23 of the nation's largest urban areas found that fees for cashing a paycheck averaged 2.34 percent. Fees for personal checks averaged 9.36 percent.

Some operations also make loans at interest rates equivalent to 26.1 percent to 91.3 percent a year, according to the survey released Thursday. A spokesman for the National Check Cashers Association had no immediate comment. [End quoting]

PUBLISHERS CAN LEGALLY REPRODUCE FREE-LANCE ARTICLES, JUDGE RULES

COURTS: The decision involves use of material in electronic media.

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 8/7/97: [quoting]

A federal judge ruled Wednesday that publishers can reproduce articles by free-lance writers in some electronic media without their permission or paying them extra.

The ruling came in a lawsuit, filed in 1993 by a group of writers, that was widely viewed as an early test of the economic rights of free-lancers and copyright law in the new realm of electronic publishing. The plaintiffs challenged the right of six publishers, including The New York Times Co. and Time Warner Inc., to reproduce newspaper or magazine articles on CD-ROMs or in electronic databases—without-seeking the permission of the freelance writers and without paying them beyond what they were paid for the original articles.

An important issue, under the Copyright Act of 1976, is whether the reproduction is the same as the original publication or amounts to a slightly revised version of the original. If either is the case, the publishers have reproduction rights. That, for example, is the copyright interpretation that permits publishers to put archive versions of newspapers and magazines on microfilm.

Judge Sonia Sotomayor of U.S. District Court in Manhattan ruled that for CD-ROMs and certain electronic databases, publishers can reproduce without permission. But since the suit was filed, the biggest arena of electronic publishing has become the World Wide Web.

"The judge ruled that CD-ROMs and some kinds of databases are the functional equivalent of microfilm," said Bruce Keller, a partner at Debevoise & Plimpton, the law firm representing the defendants. "But it is not a sweeping decision that determines copyright in all forms of electronic media."

The lead plaintiff, Jonathan Tasini, the president of the National Writers Union, termed the judge's decision "murky, wrong and somewhat contradictory". But he noted that in her ruling, the judge acknowledged that copyright law might not have kept pace with today's technology and its implications. [End quoting]

CHECK'S IN THE MAIL, BUT IT COSTS YOU

From THE MODESTO BEE, 8/13/97: [quoting] Victor and Debra Goldberg of Ithaca, N.Y., were astonished to receive a $7,500 check in the mail made out to Debra—for a loan she'd never sought.

Such loans, in the form of unsolicited, "live" checks, are a new marketing tool for some financial institutions. One bank says it has signed up nearly $1 billion.

But critics say they're a rip-off because of high interest rates and also could lead to fraud if someone else diverts and cashes them. They want such checks banned.

"That was our biggest concern: that the check would be diverted," said Victor Goldberg, a software engineer at Cornell University.

The "Instant Loan" check in Debra Goldberg's name came from Virginia-based Signet banking Corp.—with which the couple had never had any dealings. The interest rate if signed: 13.99 percent annually over 60 months.

Because he's from New York City, where Social Security checks "are ripped off all the time", Victor Goldberg said he was especially wary.

"This is a real check—cash it for an instant loan!" beckons a letter to other consumers from a regional division of Beneficial Corp., a major consumer-finance company. "Just sign the back of this check and cash it for an instant loan. That's all you have to do to get $ (amount of loan). No forms to fill out, not even a phone call... And you can pay it back in convenient monthly installments."

Convenient, perhaps, but also expensive. The annual percentage rate for a $2,566 loan over 36

Lenders say they solicit people with good credit histories. They defend the check-loans calling them a convenience to consumers, and argue they contain enough protections to ensure a consumer isn't penalized if someone else cashes the check.

The Goldbergs, however, complained to their congressman, Rep. Maurice Hinchey, a Democrat on the House Banking Committee. Hinchey proposed a bill that would ban the loans.

"Banks should not be sending unsolicited loans through the mail where anyone can get their hands on them," the lawmaker said recently. "Even if the loan check reaches its target, a trusting individual could sign it and wind up liable for an exorbitant amount."

Because the check-loans are fairly new, it's difficult to determine how widespread they are. But Signet signed up nearly $1 billion in the past 18 months, said Kitty Griffith, a spokeswoman at the bank's headquarters in Richmond, Va. [End quoting]

Fair warning to not be suckered in by this bait.

HOW CAN I LOVE HIM?

His unreliability and empty promises were predictable

From GUIDEPOSTS, June 1997, P.O. Box 1479, Carmel, NY 10512, by Joyce Anne Bacon, Baltimore, Maryland: [quoting]

"Stop making excuses for him, Mom," I said. "I'm tired of Jerry never making good on his word."

"But maybe he—" she began.

"Maybe nothing," I interrupted.

My husband, Vernon, and I had planned a special evening and my brother had promised to stay with Mom. I had been taking care of her since her health began to decline and this would be the first time in a year that Vernon and I had a night out together.

"Maybe there isn't a phone where he is," my mother said.

"Why do you always stick up for him?" I demanded. I could feel the muscles in my back tense as I tried to hold in what I really wanted to say about my unreliable brother. It wasn't the first time he had failed to come through for us. And more often than not, his drinking had a lot to do with it.

I took a deep breath. "Mom, I'm sorry," I sighed, patting her hand. "I just wish Jerry would change." Mom nodded. Even though I had apologized, I couldn't let my anger at my brother go. I knew there would be other nights for Vernon and me, but still I was upset by Jerry's lack of responsibility.

Why are you surprised? I chided myself as I lay in bed that night. I had heard it all before. "Sure, Sis. No problem, Sis," Jerry would say when I asked him for a favor. But what invariably followed was "I got hung up." The empty promises, the lame excuses. I was so sick of it.

I remembered our growing-up years in small-town West Virginia, where my brother and I spent summer days swinging on grapevines and picking blackberries. Jerry had been a fun-loving, kind-hearted kid. He was only 18 when Dad died. That's when he started hanging out with a fast crowd. And that's when he started drinking.

Jerry married a wonderful woman. They raised five children, and were happy together. But gradually, alcohol became the most important thing in his life. The marriage ended, and his drinking got worse.

Jerry and I didn't see each other often, but we talked on the phone. I tried to let him know I loved him. Usually, though, we ended up fighting. Every time I hung up the phone I prayed, Dear Lord, please change Jerry. I wanted desperately for the brother I once knew to come back.

When Mom came to live with us Jerry dropped in regularly at first, but after a while his visits became sporadic. When I complained to Mom she defended him. He explained—a couple of days later when I called him—that he couldn't handle seeing Mom in such feeble condition. Another excuse, I thought.

I tried to be understanding, but I couldn't. There was something holding me back. I didn't know what.

One thing I did know was I had to see the doctor about my back. It had been aching for months, and the pain was getting worse. The stress of waiting for Jerry and arguing with Mom hadn't helped. I'll go tomorrow, I decided before I fell asleep.

The next day the doctor examined me. "I can't find anything wrong with you physically," he said, "but I can tell you're very tense. Is something bothering you?"

I poured out my story about Jerry and the anger and hurt I felt.

"How long has your brother been like this?" the doctor asked.

"Ever since he was eighteen," I replied.

"Do you think he's likely to change?" he asked. I shrugged. "Probably not."

"But, Joyce, you can," he said gently. "Think about it."

Me? I wondered on the drive home. Why do I have to change? Jerry is the one who keeps making empty promises. He's the one who constantly lets us down. I thought about all my prayers over the years, asking God to change my brother, to make him stop drinking. But what had I done?

Maybe the doctor was right. Maybe it was time for me to change.

Right there in the driveway, at the wheel of my car. I bowed my head. "God, please help me accept Jerry as he is. I can't love his behavior, but I can love him—the way I did when we were little." The words left my lips and the tension in my back dissipated. As I walked into the house I sensed a relief that could only come from God.

Jerry never did quit drinking, and he died young as a result. I miss my brother. But I am grateful I was given the opportunity to show him I loved him—as he was, not as I wanted him to be. Isn't that all God really asks of us? [End quoting]

LATE BREAKING NEWS IN BRIEF

Editor's note: The first two items below are updates to information first addressed by Commander Hatonn on p. 6.

8/29/97 RICK MARTIN

Big Cats: When last we heard, Mr. John Weinhart was being required to move his eighty-odd tigers and other "endangered" cats from his Riverside County (Calif.) property. In fact, we had heard that there was actual danger of the cats being exterminated! Further, there was some discussion about a small Indian Reservation property (with Casino) volunteering to house the cats. Well, after speaking with someone at Tiger Rescue, (800) 964-8447—in other words, those involved directly—we find out that someone has been found who will lease their 33 acres to John. Whether or not the cats are moved is contingent upon approval of a county "conditional-use permit". This application takes 45 days to process.

This new property (in Paris, Calif., off Hwy. #215) is about 45 minutes from where the cats are currently housed. The person volunteering the property loves Tigers and has offered to lease the property for 99 or 200 years, however long it's needed. (The Reservation was far too small to accommodate that many large animals.)

John is still in serious need for funding as there are hard costs of $83,000 just for fencing materials. John is currently pounding pavement asking lumber and hardware companies for donations or cheap galvanized fencing materials. He needs enough fencing to enclose the full 33 acres. This all is still not definite, as it is contingent upon approval of the conditional-use permit. The County of Riverside is applying pressure directly to John Weinhart (and very unprofessionally, at that), and specifically Supervisor John Tavaloni, (909) 275-1020. Pam Anderson is the County Counsel (County of Riverside), and is the attorney handling this particular case: (909) 275-6300. The time given for John to vacate the property has varied but there is still pressure on John.

Miracle Hot Springs (Lake Isabella, Calif.): In speaking with Environmental Health in Bakersfield, the Acting District Forest Ranger Ed Armenta, and John Nicholson of Friends of the Hot Springs (760) 379-7688, CONTACT has learned the following: The Hot Springs are not technically closed but there is a health warning posted for fecal coliform. Friends of the Hot Springs (non-profit) is merging with Rick Roberts of Kern River Tours (for profit) to form The Miracle Hot Springs Association. The Miracle Hot Springs Association is attempting to raise $10,000 to cover the cost of reconstruction of the springs to include an ozone purification system. There is an application currently in place with the U.S. Forest Service, which takes six months. The Miracle Hot Springs Association hopes to reconstruct the springs in such a manner as to have a 30-minute replacement (of water) cycle per pool. An environmental impact report is currently in the works. Other hot springs in the Kern River area include Scovern, Democrat and Delonegha, all of which have been plagued with their own set of problems in recent years.

David Miller Common Law Update: Quoting from a telephone conversation with David Miller to CONTACT on 8/27/97: August 11, ABC Nightline had a two-hour Special on attorneys and the judicial system under the common law. On that program they (purportedly) stated that there are 281 Title 42 lawsuits at the United States Supreme Court, 30 Federal Districts are under "emergency" protection, the state of Wisconsin has unincorporated all of its counties because of the number of Title 42 lawsuits that have gone through the court system and are in default and the state is liable for it. So, they've unincorporated so that each county is responsible for its own judicial system. And, 241 federal judges have resigned and have not been replaced—nobody wants the job. A common-law attorney in San Francisco did this research. The U.S. Marshal Service supplied the numbers, they said. I suggest you contact Nightline. [End quoting.]

David has agreed to an interview with CONTACT in the not-too-distant future. Stay tuned.

Cats, Hot Springs, And The Chinese Invasion

8/26/97 HATONN

To lead into general informational topics I will comment on some of the ongoing projects being undertaken here. [Editor's note: Rick Martin has some updates on the matters discussed below on page 5.]

There is a man by the name of John Weinhart in the Los Angeles area who has some 85 of the "large" cats, i.e., lions, tigers, leopards, etc. These are being displaced and the plan is to kill the cats as they are now declared "unsuitable" for the location. Of course John was "there" first, but that is not under consideration for the area.

We have, we hope, determined that the execution date has somehow been pushed from the deadline of this week to some time in September and we can take it from there while continuing in our demands for information and consideration. One of the rumors is that an Indian group holding and operating a casino on an area of Reservation near San Diego will take the felines and utilize them as an "attraction" for their operations while also giving them a home and shelter in love and security.

The other immediate undertaking is to get postponed the execution date for Miracle Hot Springs (from the edict to bulldoze out the entire area, including the Springs) by the Health Department, due to lack of funds for a filtration system, and thus destroying the springs for healing use by hundreds of users.

Both of these projects are humanitarian and worthy of note by all, for if it can happen here—it can happen ALL OVER THE MAP.

We are beginning to divide the projects into those which we can approach as "humanitarian" and those which are industrial projects. Paul Leinthal and Chuck & Susan Clay have agreed to assist with (and were then voted in as officers of) the corporation housing the humanitarian projects, so that they can be the "in charge" parties. Many have volunteered to help in this interim time and continue to make every effort to finish the gathering of funds to give foundation to this organization.

Since the Clays are with us at this time for only a couple of weeks, we will have to do a lot of long-distance communications in the interim until other arrangements can be made, but we anticipate rather imminent conclusion of some of our project resources. This does mean that some dollar projections be given estimation so that we have better ideas of cost figures. These are good ones with which to work because we can obtain the projections with pretty good accuracy from the ongoing research. This means that we get the pretty accurate costs, i.e., a filtration system for the springs would be between $15,000 and $25,000 and operating costs and installation of the system would run an additional labor and installation cost which would have already been calculated and a proposal would likely already be available when you locate the proper parties in charge of the demolition. I

CAN remind you that the government works always in reverse accomplishment, as it will take more funds to destroy the springs than to install the filtration system bringing the baths up to code and safety limits. There will also be great outcry of the parties who do use the pools and you can bet there will be a big "bathe-in" as you approach the days of demolition consideration, which will end up costing double or triple the cost of fixing the problem in the first place and having good public and useful political standings. Oh Well.

Susan has the right idea as to writing a small report for the files and sharing so that a quick determination can be forwarded to me as to "position" of each happening but having no relying on my secretary. I can comment as might be helpful without much time or deviation, i.e., I believe the best bet for finding out about Miracle Hot Springs would be through the Board of Health, Kern County, since they would be the department of control which would take ultimate action "on behalf of the people".

Thank you for the update on the "cats" for if the delays are operable, we have plenty of time to do the job properly and perhaps at some time meld the existing with that which might be more suitable for long-term care and, yes, "use". Everything we do as a project should ultimately be both beneficial and actually profitable, if correctly utilized.

It is likely that one of the best bits of information coming out of the search-and-find will be the "Indian" information and considered use as an added attraction to an already existing casino. Great! Now you can visualize how generalization and connections can actually work to everyone's best advantage. Soon, a casino will be just another piece of junk with little value as outside interests continue to compete—but look what banking could do for the "Nations" with the fright of world-wide shutdown of computers as is stupidly touted for year 2000. That is B.S. squared and is simply a tactic to manage the rest of the "takeover" by the banksters if the other plans do not make the grade. Can you imagine locating your account with changed names and numbers in a crashed computer (global) shutdown through something like the Interamerican Bank Trust Company "non-corporation" and/or the Deposit Trust Corporation?

“SAVIORS”—AND SPIES —FROM THE FAR EAST

It's a growing trend: Chinese “businessmen” rescuing economically strapped American communities. One of the best-known examples of this Beijing largesse is the recent sweetheart arrangement between the China Ocean Shipping Company (COSCO) and Long Beach, California. COSCO, which is actually a corporate arm of the People's Liberation Army (PLA), would really come out the winner in this Clinton-brokered deal. Under the current bargain (which, at the moment, is on hold), it would take control of the strategic Long Beach Naval Yards—and get paid millions of dollars to do so.

Now the Chinese are moving inland. Out in the Mojave Desert, about 100 miles northeast of Long Beach, another grand Sino-American venture is underway. At Adelanto, a former Air Force town of 40,000, the ambitious Da Zhong Hua Wholesale Town is under construction. As many as 1,000 Chinese firms may set up shop here, selling Chinese-made electronics, shoes, clothes, furniture, jewelry, and other products.

As in Long Beach, many local residents and officials are enthused at the jobs and prosperity that are expected to come with this major development. After all, when George Air Force Base was shut down in 1992, the region lost 5,000 jobs and $15 million in annual sales revenues. “For us it means jobs, and jobs mean more homes and being able to service our existing residents better,” Adelanto City Manager Mike Sakamoto told Associated Press reporter Scott Lindlaw.

But is all of the economic optimism justified? Will Da Zhong Hua Wholesale Town provide jobs for local residents, or will the Chinese government-backed effort bring its own workers? And if not for its access to dirt-cheap slave labor, special concessions, and subsidized loans from the U.S. Export-Import Bank and the World Bank, would the Chinese be in any better position to provide jobs than American companies?

But far more important than the economics of the Adelanto project are the national security concerns—which appear to be of no concern to the Clinton Administration. The new Chinese undertaking is only 20 miles across the desert from Edwards Air Force Base, our nation's premier military flight-test installation and a key target of Beijing's intelligence services. Lam Fong Ng, general manager of Da Zhong Hua, laughs at such suspicions. “We are pure businessmen,” he says. “We are talking about business, not politics. We have never heard any opposition to this project. I see only smiling faces.”

However, as sinologist Nicholas Eftimiades clearly shows in his thorough 1994 study, Chinese Intelligence Operations, accepting Chinese “business” at face value is dangerously naive. All companies in the People's Republic of China are subservient adjuncts of the Communist Party and the Ministry of State Security (MSS), the Chinese equivalent of the KGB. In fact, U.S. intelligence analysts have warned for years that Chinese infiltration and espionage activities in the U.S. have been far more pervasive than those of the Soviets. William F. Jasper

[END OF QUOTING]

Now, refer back to the reference to Edwards Air Force Base and let us share a “local” item out of the Tehachapi News of August 20, 1997:

[QUOTING]

LEADERS WARNED EDWARDS AND CHINA LAKE IN DANGER

Area leaders were warned multi-billion dollar aerospace industry could be moved to the East Coast unless action is taken soon.

Alis Clausen, chair of the Antelope Valley Board of Trade Aerospace Committee, which called the meeting, delivered the warning at a meeting in Kern County Supervisor Steve Perez's office in Rosamond.

“The idea that Edwards is ‘safe’ just because it is the premier flight test center is simply not the case,” Clausen warned those attending the meeting called by the Antelope Valley Board of Trade.

“The entire military-industrial complex in the Western United States is in danger,” Clausen, regional manager of Southern California Edison, cautioned.

“The threat is real—we could lose over HALF our income for this whole area,” added former Edwards Air Force Base official Phil Brady, who heads a coalition working to save the industry.

Brady said politicians from Florida, Maryland, Texas and New York are working together to transfer flight testing and other defense projects and contracts to their areas.

A project to upgrade A-10 aircraft went to Eglin Air Force Base in Florida and a lucrative contract to build the F-22 fighter has gone to Georgia, Brady said.

East Coast politicians have been “working for four years” to transfer control of Air Force flight testing to Eglin, which could result in slowly “bleeding off” projects at Edwards.

One project that could be lost is the $740 billion Joint Strike Fighter, which will generate jobs wherever it is built for 20 to 25 years, Brady said.

And that's just for domestic sales of the aircraft, which will be used by all three military branches.

Navy projects at China Lake are also in danger, along with related aerospace business at Mojave Airport and Plant 42.

MULTIPLIER EFFECT

Brady said state politicians must understand that aerospace contracts have tremendous multiplier effects of 60 percent or more.

They must also realize that aerospace jobs are “high quality”.

“There are jobs and there are jobs,” Brady said. State Senator William “Pete” Knight (R-Palmdale) and Assemblyman George Runner (R-Lancaster) have been working to educate fellow lawmakers and state officials, Brady said.

That's necessary because the state published a report last year listing the state's seven key industries.

Aerospace was not among them, Brady noted, even though it's a $14 billion industry in California.

He said the military testing facilities in the region are in a “death struggle” to stay alive.

Brady and Clausen asked local leaders to carry the message back to their communities, and to build coalitions that can write letters and take other action to inform state and federal officials of the need to retain the aerospace industry in the Western United States.

“This is the ‘light of day’ group,” Clausen said, explaining that the committee must get the word out to decision-makers before it is too late.

[END QUOTING]

It is already “too late” for this is simply a part of the plan to move out of the West and begin to allow the takeover AS PLANNED of the Western States. I suggest you give more thought to this predicament than meets the eye, local yokels. In these places like Tehachapi, Ridgecrest, Rosamond, Lancaster and Palmdale, to mention just the surrounding area, the industry above described is THE ONLY real industry available except for the portions of prison facilities present.

The following article, from the Aug. 28, 1997 issue of the Mojave Desert News, is a footnote to the above writing, “Cats, Hot Springs, And The Chinese Invasion”. The confirmation of the “Western Invasion” and the moral defeat caused by loss of jobs may finally cause ones to sit back and start to take notice: [quoting]

Knight Rallies To Save Bases

State Senator Wm. J. “Pete” Knight (R-Palmdale) spent much of his time during the recent summer break from the Legislature working to save military installations in the High Desert. Both Edwards Air Force Base and China Lake are in danger of being drastically downsized by the Department of Defense (DoD).

In a recent meeting of the Southwest Defense Alliance (SWDA) Executive Committee and the California Office of Military Base Retention, Knight, along with other High Desert leaders, met in order to find ways to protect the thousands of defense jobs threatened in California.

While these two groups have different goals and objectives, they do share one primary mutual interest—keeping military installation and defense jobs in California. Another area of mutual interest is the success of AB 639 (Alby) which is coauthored by Senator Knight. AB 639 provides the work of California Trade and Commerce Agency includes the Californian Defense Conversion Council. IT is the hope that this bill will contain funding in order to assist communities in their attempt to protect their installation. AB 639 will be heard in the Senate Appropriations Committee on August 25.

“We must realize that although California meets the needs of DoD project requirements, base reduction decisions are not based on merit. They are based on political strength,” said Knight. “It is imperative Californians work together to prevent our military installations from being downsized or eliminated. I will do everything in my power to keep that from happening.”

Financial Temblors And Related News

Editor's note: The following astute financial observations are from the August 27, 1997 issue of Executive Alert Service, which is an offering of Executive Intelligence Review, P.O. Box 17390, Washington, D.C. 20041. For those of you who have been monitoring the financial markets on a regular basis, what was astounding in the way of a roller-coaster ride not so long ago is now commonplace. These current kinds of wild, hundred-point swings on the stock market are the precursor "quakes" to massive financial instability.

8/27/97 E.I.R.

A Financial Market Dress Rehearsal

The apparent return this Monday of semi-calm to major world currency and financial markets is just that, apparent. Even on that "calmer" day, the Thai and Indonesian stock markets crashed, falling 5% each. The factors contributing to escalating instability across the globe are in place for a cataclysmic rupture, most likely this October latest. The fact that markets are able to hold the appearance of recovery for no more than several days before resuming a free fall (as exemplified by the Aug. 22 wild swings on Wall Street's Dow during the day of plus-minus nearly 200 points) underscores the fundamental nature of the process. The severe 247-point fall in the Dow Jones index on Aug. 15, in fact, signalled a phase change in the world financial system, towards hyper-instabilities leading ultimately to "the one the authorities cannot control."

In a sense, the wild swings in stock and currency markets from Bangkok to Tokyo, New York and Frankfurt since Aug. 15 should be viewed as a dress rehearsal for "The Big One". Estimates of a 2,000-3,000 point fall in the Dow Index—that is, 25-30%, and similar magnitudes in the hyper-inflated German and other European stock markets—are likely conservative. All the ingredients are there for one major systemic conjunctural crisis in the coming weeks: from turbulence in Asia—led by Thailand, South Korea, Philippines, and Indonesia, to Europe, where there is an increasing likelihood of a crisis in the European Monetary Union, attended by full-blown currency, stock and bond market collapses, to the financial markets of Japan and the United States.

Commenting on these developments Aug. 19, Lyndon LaRouche stressed, "It is not technicalities that are causing this crisis. I have been forecasting this for some time. We are looking at, certainly by October, a real, major blowout which might be reflected on the New York exchange as anywhere from a 2,000-point and more drop. The problem here is that anything can set it off now. "The market is ready to pop," LaRouche added, noting that even a tiny interest rate rise from the Federal Reserve or German Bundesbank or both, to "contain inflation dangers", would detonate the global shock.

CFR Promotes 'New Economy'

A mythology is being fostered, that the "American economic model" represents the achievement of a "New Economy", characterized by low inflation, booming stock markets, low unemployment, and revolutionary innovations and gains in productivity, particularly in the area of "information technology". The leading propagandist for this "New Economy" mythos is one Steven Weber, Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of California at Berkeley, and fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences [at Stanford University]. Weber's thesis is featured prominently, in the July-Aug. 1997 edition of Foreign Affairs, the organ of the New York Council on Foreign Relations, which is the USA branch of London's Royal Institute of International Affairs. The French and German press have articles debating Weber's "New Economy" thesis.

Under the sub-title, "The New Economics", Weber gets to the core of his supposed argument: the "success" of the "New Economy" is based on the emergence of a "service economy" having broken the power of the trade union, this resulting in fewer demands for higher wages, and, in the end, "low inflation". He gloats: "In 1950, services employed about half of US workers. By the mid-1990s, services accounted for almost 80 percent of American jobs.... This is important, because service employment is generally less cyclical than employment in manufacturing.... In the most recent American economic downturn, around 1991, manufacturing output dropped about 3.4%, while the output of services did not decline at all.... The increase in services employment is also a factor in the general decline in union strength, since unions are, typically, stronger in manufacturing and industry.... Weaker unions herald reduced bargaining power for workers, and diminished pressure for wage-driven inflation. In 1995, strikes fell to a fifty-year low in the United States."

Weber hails "labor market flexibility" in the US, because this is a shift from "the old paradigm of lifetime employment, to a new one of temporary work, which is expanding briskly. While the Fortune 500 companies reduced their full-time labor force by more than 30 percent over the last 15 years, the number of temps in the United States has grown nearly 19 percent in the last 3 years, and now accounts for 10 percent of the American work force. The overall effect should be a more efficient labor market, while redeploying labor, an expensive factor in the production process, is cheaper and easier."

Later, Weber lauds "the growth and development of financial markets," talking about "shock absorbers that cushion economic fluctuations," "automatic stabilizers," and so on. He argues vehemently against even the possibility of a financial crash, alleging that the significance of crises like the Mexico crisis was highly "exaggerated" and that "the significance of exogenous shocks" to the international system "is diminishing".

Since his article appeared, the real world has rudely intruded into Weber's virtual reality. The successful Teamsters strike against United Parcel Service has challenged the myths of the wonders of "part-time" and "temporary" work in the US. The massive volatility of the currency and financial markets on every continent undermines remaining euphoria about OECD and "emerging markets", and has brought the doomsday argument to center stage.

Resistance To Transparency International Emerges

An increasing role in the destabilization of sovereign nation-states is played by Transparency International [See the recent Front Page story about this organization in the 8/12/97 issue of CONTACT], an agency set up by Prince Philip's British Commonwealth forces with the aim of using anti-corruption campaigns to overthrow national governments which do not comply with IMF demands. In the last years, TI has been key in destabilizing, among others, Italy, Pakistan, Kenya, Papua New Guinea. The next victim of TI will be the nation of Peru, where an international "anti-corruption" conference is scheduled for Sept. 7.

Three years ago TI began publishing the "Corruption Perception Index", a list of the world's most and least "corrupted" countries. The list is used to punish those countries which show a tendency to resist IMF-World Bank policies. The 1997 CPI, published on July 31, heavily targeted Pakistan. That same day, July 31, the IMF for the first time withdrew an already-approved loan to Kenya, another target of TI, because of "corruption". The currency collapsed and Kenya is presently victim of a growing insurgency.

Thanks to EIR, a resistance against TI is coming together. On Aug. 10, the Pakistan Karachi Business Recorder exposed TI's plot to overthrow the Bhutto government, referring to "A study into the crusade against corruption", meaning EIR's articles. On Aug. 21, the Trade Minister of Papua New Guinea, Michael Nali, attacked TI's interference into that country's affairs. "As an elected representative of my people and a Minister of State (...) I am questioning the legal and moral basis of [Transparency International] going around soliciting written undertakings from leaders of this country to adhere to what it calls a 'national instability pledge'." Transparency International had unleashed on the South Pacific country, with huge mineral resources, a violent "anti-corruption" campaign, coinciding with the renewal of an armed insurgency by the indigenous Bougainville Revolutionary Army in the area of the world's largest copper mine. Then, there was a mutiny in the army against "corruption in high places". Parliament was surrounded and Prime minister Chan forced to resign.

TI's violent intervention was prompted by Chan's opposition to World Bank demands to freeze wages, fire public servants, eliminate price controls on basic foodstuffs and privatize mineral resources. Chan had expelled the World Bank representative.

The World Bank, and its president James Wolfensohn, have a "symbiotic relation" with TI, whose chairman, Peter Eigen has been a senior World Bank official for 25 years. TI's vice-chairman and several other TI officials are all former World Bank executives. Wolfensohn has called the "fight against corruption" a "central point" for the Bank. "The World Bank gives loans to developing countries and TI is charged with the creation of a system of control and budget," admitted the chairman of TI in Italy.

London Times says: Recolonize Africa

We have frequently warned of plans by British strategists, to solidify imperial control over Africa, through manipulation of regional conflicts, and through looting operations by British Commonwealth-dominated multinational mining interests. The most graphic example of this, in recent months, has been the Kabila insurgency in former Zaire. Now, a leading British Foreign Office mouthpiece has openly called for the recolonization of Africa through the agency of United Nations-sponsored "multinational mandates".

Writing in the London Times Aug. 22, commentator Matthew Parris claimed that "if Africa is to regain her foothold, it is not enough to send aid, which will be squandered, or teachers, who will be ignored. It is time we began to think seriously about reoccupying the most hopeless and desperate parts of the continent, and testing the possibilities of installing sound administrations."

According to the British imperialist writer, a form of de facto colonization "is happening already" in Africa. For example: "in parts of Zaire, multi-national mineral companies have been effectively running states within a state. In Nigeria there are areas within which Shell's writ, not that of Lagos, rules. But the flaw of this arrangement is obvious." Rather than relying on such de facto arrangements, Parris puts forward the following proposal:

"To suggest that world opinion would permit Western powers to recolonize for themselves significant tracts in Africa is fanciful, though not beyond imagination. For Britain to administer Sierra Leone again might be undemocratic, yet the peoples of that territory would get better government. What might be less fanciful is an idea proposed two years ago, in a speech by Leo Tindemans. The former Belgian Foreign Minister spoke tentatively about reviving something akin to the United Nations mandate. The speech was greeted with horror, and he has not revisited the idea. Perhaps he regrets talking about it. But it was brave, and true.... One way or another, we shall get colonialism in Africa, as those who can buy arms and feed armies overrun those who cannot. Does it make it more acceptable, that occupier and occupied are both Black?"

Israeli General Denounces Netanyahu

Major General Oren Shahor announced in an interview with the Yediot Aharonot, Israel's largest circulation daily, that he has resigned from active duty, in order "to sound the alarm against Benjamin Netanyahu". "Netanyahu is jeopardizing Israel's security and citizens," Shahor told the paper. "He is destroying the peace process and increasing the security threats on the one hand, and weakening the defense establishment and the IDF's fortitude on the other. He is purposely belittling the status of its experienced professionals, the defense minister, the chief of staff, and the generals."

Shahor, who says he is speaking for many active-duty generals who cannot speak freely, added: "Bibi (Netanyahu) is a prime minister of virtual reality, computer games, and the media. But once you turn off the screen, reality hits you in the face, as happened with the latest bombing in the Mahane Yehuda market. The IDF and the generals are a voice from reality. Instead of listening to them, he is persecuting and discrediting them and impeding their performance. We are facing the danger of being swept away by horrible violence. There is no trust at all in the IDF generals. Every professional pronouncement is given a political interpretation. Every professional stance is portrayed as illegitimate criticism." The General announced that he would be running for office on the Labor Party ticket.

An Interview With Darlene Novinger

Part III: Former FBI Operative

[Editor's note: This is the third and final part of an interview between Rick Martin and Darlene Novinger, a former FBI operative. Part II was on page 12 of last week's CONTACT.]

RICK: OK. We're back on line.

DARLENE: Alrighty. I was told when my mother's claim could end. It took someone from that insurance company—the house, we were living in a devastated house, with no place to live. Everything my mother owns, her home, all her personal belongings are in this house, presently. Which, I won't jump ahead, but it's now a biological waste site, with water sitting so long in this place. No one would repair the house; it needed tearing down. My personal belongings are all in there. So they, literally, financially wiped us out, here. Erie Insurance, the adjuster that came, we waited from—this happened January 28th, he arrives in June. The house is caving in around us. It's an unsafe house to be in and there's water all over the place. To just jump right there, where this goes full circle. Inevitably, I was told, by an associate of Erie Insurance who tried to intercede, that our case, being my mother's home owner's claim, was what they called "red-lined", the day it was put in. Which means they're not going to pay the claim, and there's no one who could help us on this. And I kept thinking, "Why?"

Well, Erie Insurance—I have a file, internal memos of theirs—is acutely aware that I'm a former FBI operative. When the adjuster came down, he took pictures of—he pretended he was taking them of the house, but he took very clear pictures of me. He took pictures of my license plate which was from out of state, which they ran a check in another state, which I can bear and prove all this out, trying to find out addresses and where I was living, etc. I found that really interesting with Erie Insurance Company. Eventually the Pennsylvania Insurance Commission, the acting Insurance Commissioner presently, Gregory Martino—my mother and I went to see him and begged him, "Please help us get the claim paid." Because in 1991, October 13th, I hired a microbiologist because our eyes were swelling shut; we couldn't breath. Frankly, it felt like you're smothering.

RICK: Now the obvious question, of course, from a reader's standpoint, is why didn't you just move out of the house, into an apartment or something?

DARLENE: OK. There was nowhere to go. There were no finances to make that move. Our health—and they kept acting like they were going to try to settle. I found a clause in their policy where you can go to a hotel for one year, and they'll pay it. Well, they kept dragging their feet, saying "Well, we want someone else to look at the house. Meanwhile, this water is between the wall and in the crawl space. Stuff starts growing. There's nowhere for us to move to. Everything we have is in this house. My mother said, "Surely they're going to pay, I have home owner's insurance. Well, we didn't cause the problem, why aren't they paying?" The Insurance Commissioner is a friend—this is pulling full circle—we went in to see him. He had such a rabid attitude with us—I had a book called Unfair Insurance Practices for the State of Pennsylvania. Well, he was so mad he wouldn't even look at it.

He said, "I know all about that law."

I said, "Well, why can you not enforce it then, because how long have we been in a house that's caving in around us? Why is this happening to us? She has a clause where we could be in a hotel for one year." You know, this didn't make sense why we were made to live in a house where the ceiling, literally, caved in on our kitchen ceiling, on us, while we were in that area and they won't even do anything about it.

The Insurance Commissioner, the acting Insurance Commissioner, Mr. Martino, might have finally said, "Do you know who Henry Barr is and Richard Goida?" Henry Barr used to be the former Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner. Well, he acknowledged he was friends of theirs. They're the to federal penitentiary, for cocaine use. (laughter)

I knew what our problem was right there. I thought, this is some mess that my mom is in and it's all because of my investigations and they've got us again. It's sort of like, here's their chance to get even with us again. To make a long story—to try to condense this thing down: We've lost everything that we had. They put us out because the news put the house as caving in. She (being someone who worked in the Insurance Commission) said, "Get us a certificate that the house is contaminated with microorganisms and we'll talk to Erie about putting you people in a hotel for a year." Well, after it was on the TV, we got moved out of there, but unfortunately for us, the house was already deemed contaminated, as in a "biological-waste site". And on January 9th of '95, we were moved into a Residence Inn for one year. And they acted—pretended like they were going to fix the house. They wouldn't do it. Now the township, Lower Allen township, sued my mother November 9th of '96 to clean up a biological-waste site, which is close to a million dollars! The microorganisms that are in that house—that we inhaled one of them, out of many—the counts are so high, it's so dangerous, this place that we were in. One of them is called Stachybotry's.

RICK: How do you spell that?

DARLENE: S-T-A-C-H-Y-B-O-T-R-Y-'-S.

RICK: OK.

DARLENE: That's one of many that's in this home. This is a storm-damaged home. It's air borne in nature. The insurance company waits a year later, after we're screaming and warning people it's a biological-waste site, because we're already sick. We don't want other people to become ill. It's in a residential area—goes in, finds it in the soil and hides the report for another year. That means it's air borne and in that neighborhood. This is the same—the reason why I mention this particular microorganism is in such high levels is that there were 30 babies in Cleveland, Ohio. A show came on, I think it was on 20/20, about 2 months or 4 months ago and the cause of the death in a six-block area was a storm-damaged home of these newborn infants, who hemorrhaged in their lungs. The cause was Stachybotry's. Now, I've warned the local officials who—I might add Erie has a corporate headquarters that pays high revenues to this county and township—and they will do nothing. This house is sitting there, in a very dangerous state, and everything we have—in other words, it's considered, it has to be done away with as a biological-waste site—put in containers and taken to a site that will receive every stick of furniture, every piece of clothing, everything in that house has to be destroyed. Now the insurance company will not pay us; and we filed, my mother sued to try to get help in the court. None other than the court where Richard Goida tried to send me to jail. We were in their jurisdiction, yet again. The judge, eventually on October 31st, 1996, threw it out based on a technicality; there was a question that wasn't answered. He would not make the insurance carrier answer anything, I'll put it that way. And my opinion is that the judge is not fit to be sitting on the bench because it's his conduct in this case. I appealed that. Because of lack of money, we went pro se. We are now in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court appealing it, trying to get my mother's home owner's claim so she can be heard on the merits of her case.

RICK: Good.

DARLENE: So that, in other words, we have yet to get before a jury, which we demand, and they have done their best to deprive us of a trial by jury.

RICK: What is your living situation now?

DARLENE: We're living with relatives. I am unable to work presently due to very severe health problems. My mother is 76 and she's on a fixed income. We're going as, having health problems, going as "out patients" to a hospital. And they're basically, no one's quite sure—we're suffering, we're getting a lot of bad effects. It has totally ruined our health. So, we're in a nightmare situation. Our car—we have trouble keeping our car on the highway. I get off, I have flat tires, they cut wires underneath the hood, they shorted things out. They being—I cannot catch the people doing this. It happened to us when we were at the hotel at the Residence Inn. It's followed us to where we're living now. No one's ever had any odd phone calls until we came. It's frightening because it's almost like you're trying to hang on and get justice and, unfortunately, the acting Insurance Commissioner is so hostile that he will not even answer a letter about why they're letting this company get away with something this blatant.

RICK: Have you thought about 60 Minutes and those other programs.

DARLENE: I have tried. I've talked to some people about it and they said, "Right now I doubt they would take it because as soon as they hear of political things..."

RICK: Right, that's true.

DARLENE: "They're not going to put it on." And I thought, that's really a shame because if I could cut that out it would probably be a good story for people, but in the same token it wouldn't make any sense. Why would a company go to this extent and be so blatant, publicly, to do this.

RICK: Right.

DARLENE: The motive would seem—there would be a missing motive there, it would seem to me.

RICK: Right (laughter).

DARLENE: So, I thought no use bothering

Editor's note: The following article is from p.26 of the March 21, 1982 issue of the New York Times. The article is a clarification of Mrs. Novinger's bizarre tale of her pursuit of the Truth and her faith in "justice" prevailing. One day the pieces of the puzzle shall fall into place and the "well" organized plots of the Elite controllers shall crumble.

Auto Painter's Suit Says He Was Poisoned on Job

By BEN A. FRANKLIN

Special to The New York Times

HARRISBURG, Pa. — For five years Kevin Novinger, a 31-year-old former automobile spray painter, has spent his days, and lately some of his nights, on the living room sofa of his home in Camp Hill, a suburb of the Pennsylvania capital here. This happens when the sedation he takes for pain lets him sleep. Otherwise, he is bedridden.

His doctors have said he is suffering nervous system dysfunction from the effects of volatile chemicals in the automobile paints he used in his trade. Once muscular, Mr. Novinger is now crippled by a wide array of symptoms. Legally and permanently blind, he lives what he calls a "bunker existence," staring blankly at a television set he can no longer see in a house for which he can no longer pay.

He must use a urine catheter. He has lost his teeth and his senses of balance, taste and smell. Off and on, he has run fevers of 101 to 104 degrees, perhaps, the doctors say, from a staphylococcus infection associated with the catheter. He fights the fevers with drugs and ice bags, he says, "to keep my brains from frying."

And he and his wife, Darlene, are fighting the automobile paint manufacturing industry in a lawsuit that they say is as much for other painters who may be at risk of injury as for themselves. Their suit originally demanded more than $500 million in damages, largely, they said, to build a hospital for disabled painters. A revised damage claim, filed last month, seeks $3.1 million for Mr. Novinger and his wife.

Labeling of Products Challenged

According to the voluminous statements filed in the lawsuit in Federal District Court here, Mr. Novinger has accused several corporate defendants of failing to properly label paint products that he asserts are toxic. The defendants are the E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Company; General Motors; Mercedes Benz of North America and its West German parent, Daimler Benz A.G., and BASF Farben & Farsen, a German chemical manufacturer.

The complaint contends that the de-these people because they're not going to get anywhere with this stuff.

RICK: Right. What is your current economic situation?

DARLENE: We're totally devastated. Basically I started, about a month ago, trying to do some radio talk shows. I have not written a manuscript which some people suggested that I do. Or a book, or try to sell this horror story, is what I consider it, of what has happened, for financial gain. Because I kept thinking, right away people will think, "Well, that's their motive; they're out to make money off of this thing." I thought, I've lost everything and the most precious thing is human life; my family members. You know, material items are one thing, but people's lives are another. So, basically people hear this story and some people do what they can, because I know how hard it is financially on a day-to-day basis. And some people are kind enough, I've received gifts from them, not a lot, but I appreciate them. And every little bit helps out because we have to buy medicines and try to keep fighting, and it costs me a couple hundred dollars to do the printing costs. I did the legal research and then the filing fees at the Pennsylvania Supreme, and, believe me, it's no picnic because I'm up against...

RICK: Right.

DARLENE: ...some pretty heavy corporate attorneys who have a lot of, let's say, political weight to swing with the courts. So I am still nevertheless trying to get our day in court. I know if we got before a jury that we would win, because of the evidence I've accumulated on them. This case has—is actually criminal and civil. I know I cannot try the criminal part in a civil court, but what they have done is criminal. They've endangered people's lives, knowingly. And there is no explanation. Everyone else with the same identical situation has had their properties fixed. They were not left to sit and turn into mold and fungus where it reached a level of turning into a biological-waste site. These people's homes were fixed before this happened. This place was intentionally left like that and we were in there for close to a year with nowhere to go. And it's unfortunate that my mom is caught in the middle of this mess. The township has issued arrest warrants for weed violations on a 76-year-old woman. It evades me why they would want anyone walking around on that property and there's no warning about a house that's been devastated and declared a biological-waste site. Why they would want people to be wandering on this property is beyond me.

So, we have a two-fold thing of, not only has our safety been compromised but the neighbors were sent letters last summer, I found out. It said, "You're in no danger; this is all—everything that's going on is contained inside the house." And I thought, they are blatantly, in my opinion, and it's a statement, they are lying to the people in that surrounding area because they know it's outside of the house and in the ground because they admitted to—Stew Webb called the township, he heard about the story, and they told him, they're relying on the insurance company's report that that's why they sued my mother. And they made comments. They are in collusion with the Erie Insurance Company, who has a corporate headquarters in their township. So, to me, it would seem that they're acting against their own people that are living there, while this is all going on, and the whole thing is just a disaster.

The bottom line on this whole thing is, as long as we're suppressed and have no funds and have lost everything, no one can afford—I don't think there's anyone, unless you're a multimillionaire, who could take to lose everything you own, and then say, "Well, that's it." I mean, it's like, my mother cannot start over at 76 years old. That is why she got home owner's insurance. There's no reasonable explanation why these people are not paying this claim other than it's a political vendetta that is being carried out because of my work doing the narcotics operations and information that we've given on this company. Things have gone full circle and here is our present state of affairs.

I truly believe that, they figure, before this incident happened, I continued speaking out on Mr. Bush, and Mr. Thornburgh, and Mr. Goida, and Mr. Barr who was the Assistant Attorney General. I might add that Mr. Barr is now a practicing attorney, even though he was convicted of cocaine use in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania again.

RICK: Is that one, or two "r"s?

DARLENE: Two "r"s.

RICK: OK.

DARLENE: And I find it amazing that the acting Insurance Commissioner is so hostile, considering I never met him before that day, to us and his friends, with these two men. And he seemed to know all about me. I got an internal memo file from the Erie Insurance Company, through a discovery, and they were writing about me being an FBI operative in their file. Which, considering I'm not the home owner, I have a very extensive file that should be focused on my mother's home, not about my life story. It sounds like they're doing an autobiography. And they seemed to be, I mean it spelled it right out, about the FBI, right in their internal files. And I found that interesting.

One key note that I think you might find interesting: Mr. Webb called the Adjustor, Jerry Goodling.

RICK: Jerry....

DARLENE: Jerry, I think he spells it J-E-R-R-I, or, wait a minute, J-E-R-R-Y.

RICK: And the last name?

defendants were "negligent" in packaging the products without labels "sufficient to place a user on notice of the products' danger and the high risk of death, permanent blindness and serious and permanent neurologic damage."

All the defendants have repeatedly asserted their innocence in the court records. They are challenging Mr. Novinger's assertions about their products' potential for injury, as well as the accuracy of the list of specific products that Mr. Novinger says he used. In one of several sworn pre-trial interviews of Mr. Novinger by the defendants' lawyers, a lawyer for Mercedes accused him of "malingering."

The case is scheduled to go to trial in June before Judge Sylvia Rambo.

The judge has imposed an order on lawyers in the case to prevent them from commenting, and of those reached, none would do so. James Reynolds, a spokesman at Du Pont's fabrics and finishes division in Wilmington, Del., said he could only repeat the statement that the company made before the judge's order was imposed that "we are confident that our products were adequately and completely labeled as to any minimal hazards that might be involved."

The issue of a new labeling standard for toxic products was the focus of hearings in Washington this week before a House subcommittee seeking to learn why the Reagan Administration delayed until Friday the publication of a standard that was first mandated by Congress in 1971.

The rules were almost ready to be put into effect at the end of the Carter Administration in January 1981. But they were recalled for reconsideration as one of the first actions under President Reagan's executive order barring "excessive" government oversight of businesses.

Mr. Novinger's complaint says that he was a healthy employee of a Harrisburg Mercedes-Oldsmobile dealer in January 1977. At that time he had been an auto painter for 10 years and had a new life insurance policy, for which he had just passed a physical examination.

Symptoms of Plaintiff

The metallic-finish paints he used at his new job were new to him, and his complaint says that after using them for two weeks, he began having shortness of breath, hoarseness, nose bleeds, heart palpitations, nausea, dizziness, heavy sweats and a rash on the fingers of his right hand, which held the spray gun. These symptoms included many common to neurological poisoning from solvents like toluene and xylene.

Never warned to take preventive measures, he worked without a forced-ventilation spray booth and without a respirator mask, the complaint says. Although his speech became slurred and he developed an unsteady gait, it was May before Mr. Novinger went to his family doctor. Told by his doctor that he was being poisoned on the job, Mr. Novinger never worked again. His health continued to deteriorate.

A statement filed last month at the court here by Mr. Novinger's doctor, Peter M. Brier, says that the auto painter "has had a severe neurological disease which I believe with reasonable medical certainty is due to toxic exposure to paints," adding, "The patient at the present time has recurrent fevers which are unexplained and also has severe asthenia and fatigue."

DARLENE: Goodling, of Erie Insurance. And he asked him why he is not paying the claim of my mother.

RICK: Yes.

DARLENE: Mr. Goodling wouldn't speak to him and he said, "Well, I find it awful what you're doing to this woman of this age. Could it be because of something else?" Mr. Goodling, at that point, hung the phone up on Mr. Webb and called the FBI and said his life was threatened. Mr. Webb made a recording of that conversation and at no point did he threaten Mr. Goodling's life over this. And I found it interesting because usually you would call your local police department. Why did Jerry Goodling decide to call, none other than, the Harrisburg Bureau of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and say his life was threatened by a Stew Webb (who knows Darlene Novinger), about her mother's home owner's claim? I find that very questionable, in my mind, why he would call the FBI.

RICK: Now again, the Erie Insurance Company; the Insurance Commissioner's name is?

DARLENE: Gregory Martino, M-A-R-T-I-N-O.

RICK: And is he also in Harrisburg?

DARLENE: Yes.

RICK: What is his phone number?

DARLENE: Oh, good grief, let me see here. I usually have all my stuff right with me. I can maybe—I don't want to take up your time here—I'm searching while we're talking.

RICK: OK, maybe you can call me with that later.

DARLENE: OK, let me just make a notation because I usually have my book right on me. We're in a two-story dwelling and usually all my papers I try to keep out of the road here. But let me just make a notation with this phone number here. I can get that for you in a few seconds but I'll have to, you know, I can run up later and get that.

RICK: OK, would you just, again, this has gone on pretty long.

DARLENE: Yeah, I, I...

RICK: But I'm still going to use all of it. So...

DARLENE: (laughter) I thought, "Well, this poor man, till he gets done condensing this thing..."

RICK: I'm not going to condense it.

DARLENE: There are people—we have affidavits from contractors who have signed sworn affidavits that Jerry Goodling took them outside and told them how he hates to pay 10 cents and "They're not getting another dime out of that insurance company." Back in June of '94, he made that statement on his first visit. Now, I never met that man before in my life and I find it really odd, you know...

RICK: Well, it sounds like a typical adjustor's statement.

DARLENE: Yeah, and it was really odd. For him, for someone to call and for me, I kept thinking, "If I got a threatening phone call you would usually call your local police department. Why would you call the Federal Bureau of Investigation? The very people where I had worked out of that office."

RICK: Sure. Sure.

DARLENE: It was a little strange to me. You know? That was one of the highlights there; I thought it was real interesting!

RICK: Now, how about just some closing comments, generally, to our readers, about what all this means, or what it could mean to them.

DARLENE: I feel that if these people are allowed to keep destroying other people's lives, that we're going to eventually—the truth will never come out. If they're allowed to intimidate people, harass them, cause financial ruination, and just, in general, just make their life unbearable, this is the type of thing that people should awaken to. Anyone that tells the truth, who is trying to be an honest person, suffers the consequences. And, if people do not try to, to become educated to the facts of this—I'm not the only person, I'm sure, and I know of other cases in which they have harassed people and really horrible things have happened to them and their family members. I think that this will continue to go on as long as people continue to sit back silently and do nothing. And I think that all the support that people can help to give: moral, any type of support whatsoever, means the world. Because, these are not, I might add, as everyone would know, they are not small people. They're very dangerous people that we're up against. And I don't feel that because of telling the truth you should have to go through all of this. And I would like to see a meaningful conclusion come, that you could get to the point where you could lead what was left of your life in peace and not have to deal with this. And, to date, my life has not been in peace since the day, in 1982, when I first stumbled across the George Bush information. And it's quite sad. And, I might add, Mr. Thornburgh's assistant U.S. attorneys, if they're political people, it seems that it's a pick-and-choose system, and it should not be. For everybody, it should be equal justice for the same crimes, no matter what position you hold, or if you are just the "common man" on the street with a regular job, or if you're an Assistant U.S. Attorney General, we should have the same type of guidelines for all people in the United States.

RICK: That's a good place to end, right there.

DARLENE: I just think that, that's a true feeling I have on this thing. And it's quite sad. Because I can think of quite a few people who have gone through an awful lot and they're all honest people, they've really suffered, and their careers have been ruined because of trying to be an honest person. And it seems that once you do this you're relentlessly pursued. So, the only hope you have is to just keep talking and hope people listen to you.

GAIACOL

GAIACOL is a combination of colloidal silver, trace colloidal gold, and trace crystalline drias. This combination of ingredients has produced a product that is so high-frequency and potent that it could quite possibly be the solution to our ongoing fight against the new antibiotic-resistant diseases that we face today. Colloidal silver was used extensively and very successfully against bacteria, viruses, fungi and the like before the advent of the first antibiotic, penicillin. The many uses of colloidal gold were documented for the restoration of health as early as 1885, and gold was noted for its ability to calm and harmonize the emotional body. Once the chemical companies began manufacturing their endless array of antibiotics, silver and gold were no longer looked to for treatment. However, the antibiotics have had increasingly less effect on the more resistant viruses, fungi and parasites. Now we face a new generation of bugs that are completely resistant to any antibiotics due to antibiotic over-prescribing and resultant survival-of-the-fittest microorganisms.

Research has demonstrated that colloidal silver is non-toxic to humans, yet it allows no known disease-causing organism to live in its presence. With the addition of trace colloidal gold and trace crystalline drias, the frequency of GAIACOL is remarkably enhanced to facilitate the demise of these newer, more powerful viruses and bacteria. GAIACOL is gentle enough to use topically on just about any skin, hair, or mouth condition without fear of toxicity and is outstanding for burns.

For internal use during any type of infectious process, start with one teaspoon the first day and then 10-12 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue until the infection clears. Then maintain with 3-4 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue. IMPORTANT: Due to the powerful nature of this product, friendly bacteria can be affected, so it is advisable to replace the natural intestinal flora with some type of acidophilus/lactobacillus supplement daily, or at least when symptoms are noted such as cramps, bloating, diarrhea/constipation and a general feeling of malaise.

GAIACOL is said to be safe for children and pets, and can be taken with other medications without incident. This product is not addictive and does not build up a tolerance to it in the body. Available in 2oz., 16oz., and 32oz. bottles.

Darkest Secrets Of Our Time:

A Letter To My

Darling Daughter Josephine

The following "letter" came our way from the direction of Canada, though we are told it has circulated widely, if quietly, and may have originated here in the United States.

Regardless, it speaks Truth that we are sure many of you out there try to share with family and friends. The context in which this "letter" is formatted carries a special (that is, most annoying) inference about thinking ahead to the welfare of our children and grandchildren.

Or, as Commander Soltec put the challenge near the end of his 8/23/97 message in last week's CONTACT: "Your brothers on this planet are in need of the confirmations of what has become of your world, and how it is that such has happened. Shed the fears and take a stance for Truth, else there will not be a world left for your children or grandchildren."

The choices we make each day have EVERYTHING to do with the opportunities which open up in front of us tomorrow. Thus it would seem the prudent thing to do would be to make the wisest use of what time and circumstances lie before us. Certainly that is the case for whomever took the time and effort to compose the following "letter", and we are thankful for that contribution to The Truth that is out there.

—Dr. Edwin M. Young, Editor-In-Chief

This brief outline of historical events covers some of the darkest secrets of our time, of which you must be aware if you not only value your life, but also your liberty to save this country and the rest of the world from its alien usurpers. To know what is true and what is not, is what it takes to be free. These pages are a tight encapsulation of historical truth of momentous fact. It is necessary knowledge as a matter of survival, not only of the individual, but for the survival of our race.

This letter may be reproduced as it is, in its entirety. Discreetly send it forth to those whom you can reach who in turn may discreetly do the same. Neither name nor address is appropriate, for truth can speak for itself. Could anyone do less than this to save this land, our heritage, and even the planet itself. We drown in an ocean of ignorance simply for want of knowing the truth, in the tragic time of the greatest unseen peril we have ever known.

Immeasurable forces of darkness had all but engulfed the Earth when an enlightened being began the reclamation of this troubled place. One single entity exposed the tyrannical manipulation and world control of the black magicians and sorcerers of this day. The Laws of the Creator for the Creation were laid forth. The immortal essence in the God-self of every being to return back to its infinite Source was demonstrated by the greatest of all Masters in the significance of the Ascension. The arduous and difficult process in the final recovery of this Earth is about to occur. There is involved a life-and-death struggle with the eternal adversary with inevitable choice required of each and all, as the great separation of the wanton rebels from the ongoing life-wave of our species takes place. The journey leads either into the light realms of an unlimited universe, or into the longest night of servitude in the dark worlds of the incorrigible destroyers. The opportunity so given will not come again for aeons, and it is evident, there is now very little time in which to act.

As the last decade of this century began, the Dark Force moved for the final takeover of the Planet Earth with the initial skirmishing of the war in the Persian Gulf, as a way of beginning the planned Nuclear Third World War conflict and to start in real earnest the intended murder of no less than four billion of the Earth's inhabitants.

This deadly and diabolical struggle goes back as far as the Cosmic Rebellion of Lucifer who, in being cast down, took with him one-third of all the angels in heaven, and became that force we know as "Satan". One such rebel, we are told, was Jehovah, a renegade space scientist with awesome powers of advanced technology combined with the complete absence of spiritual compassion. He apparently spawned a race after his own kind, and set them to infiltrate the Earth, so as to take possession in expectation of his imminent and wrathful return.

That perverse human strain manifested as the Khazars of Asia Minor and the Southernmost parts of Russia, and who were later to interface and adopt the Jewish Talmudic faith, lock, stock and barrel, in the ninth century A.D. They became, in reality, counterfeit Jews who called themselves such, but originally were not. Closely connected with the cruelty of the Hittites, they appeared as the Khazars, Phoenicians, Carthaginians, were the rulers of Venice, and in our day have come to be known as the Ashkenazi Jews, Bolsheviks, Zionists, atheistic Communists, Marxists and radical Socialists. Essentially they are one and the same in origin behind the concealed masks of differentiated movements, with a single and identical goal. Their cleverly orchestrated, subversive takeover of the world by stealth and tyranny has been continuous, ceasing neither by night or by day, for its planned culmination in this decade, at this very hour with the utter, absolute and final destruction of America. The original ethnic Sephardic Jews, on the other hand, are openly persecuted and regarded very much as second-class citizens even in Israel and, as such, can fully expect to suffer, at the hands of the Zionists, the same fate as the rest of the world.

This international conspiratorial onslaught played itself out through the decline and eventual fall of both Greece and Rome, and later, in the throwing out of the subversive insurgents by Queen Isabella of Spain, and in England, by Edward the first and Queen Elizabeth the first, thereby inaugurating five hundred years of prosperity and peace in "merry England" and the cultural flowering of the Elizabethan age. Holland became the next focus and center of commercial trading and banking in Europe, of this self same group, until one named Cohen launched from Switzerland a religious upheaval of hatred and division. He moved through France as Cauvin, and arrived in England as Calvin. He set Catholics against the Protestant Royal House, and started the English Revolution and Civil War, setting up Cromwell as dictator in the pay and service of the great Jew of Amsterdam. With the defeat of the King's men, Parliament was dissolved, King Charles the first was executed, and the Bank of England fell into the hands of the Khazar-Jewish World Conspirators. The People of England were subtly enslaved and have lived in the polite illusion of freedom, and many have died for that illusion even to this very day.

In 1798, the barbarity and terror of the French Revolution was the result of the planning of the same secret alien group which had been effectively reorganized by Adam Weishaupt, the founder of the secret society of the "Illuminati". The master blueprint for the ruin and violent destruction of the world and of all its peoples was embodied in the infamous and satanically-inspired Protocols of the Elders of Zion. The Illuminati systematically came into control of all the countries of Europe through ownership of the banking houses in the hands of the Rothschild family, a name derived from the words "red shield", thus forming the central focus of an international power of darkness and iniquity. Because of that influence, Europe became a never-ending battlefield, perpetually entangled in the secret machinations of its evil overlords.

At the time of Abraham Lincoln, the alien bankers of the Illuminati tried to take possession and control of the United States by imposing upon Lincoln, the printing and control of the country's money. Lincoln, however, was able to print his famous greenbacks independently of the bankers only on the strength of a loan from the Czar of Russia. Few there are who realize, or even know, that at the time of the Civil War in 1861-1865, fomented and instigated at the behest of the alien conspirators, an army of European mercenaries was poised across the border of Mexico waiting to carve up, at the opportune moment, the warring factions of the North and South, at the point when both sides were depleted and exhausted. It was the Czar of Russia again, who interceded by placing his naval battle-squadron at Lincoln's disposal with the threat of a war towards the interference of any other country. It was the Czar's magnanimity that saved the Union, and protected America from a foreign occupation.

Thwarted in their plans to make the United States the center of their world operations, the alien Khazar Bankers thereupon had Lincoln murdered, and later, took merciless revenge by murdering the Czar and all his family and unleashing the Russian Revolution of 1917, in the course of which, they savagely took the lives of thirty million people, and enslaved the whole of Russia under the Jewish-Khazar Communist tyranny.

The Civil War was one of the greatest tragedies in our history. In four years of horrendous conflict, some six-hundred-and-forty-thousand men died, and possibly a million more were maimed and wounded. As many men died in the battle at Gettysburg in a few days, as were killed in the whole of the Vietnamese War. The Civil War seared the American dream, and it should be known that it was very carefully set up and planned. It had nothing to do with slavery which, in the course of events would have been resolved by peaceful means. Slavery was made an issue to create the necessary condition of contention and division into two opposite camps. Harriette Beecher Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin, a completely fictional account of slavery in the South, written without her ever having seen the South, much less the slaves, provided the readymade propaganda which the Jews were quick to seize upon by printing a million copies and circulating lies beyond all measure to propagate a cause, and justify the compulsion of both sides into fighting an inflammatory war.

The Union forces of the North represented that aspect of the human intellect-mind in suppression of the heart in cold manipulation of the lives of the mass of mankind. The Confederate South fought with unheard of courage and genius against overwhelming odds, for the sake of freedom and individuality. The Southerners fought and died with the perception of the insidious and universal form of slavery that would be imposed, if they lost, upon everyone.

The tragedy of the Civil War lay in the sheer weight and force of numbers, as well as the brutality of a scorched-earth policy of total destruction, resorted to in order to enable the Northerners to prevail. A certain quality of freedom and honor, which the Confederate South represented so well, was sadly lost and obliterated from the national psyche.

The question as to who brought the slaves to America in the first place, is by no means an academic issue. The shipping records and the slave transactions of the Khazar aliens who plied the slave trade exclusively, are to be found in the museum archives of the coastal seaport cities involved, on the Eastern Seaboard. The Khazar-Jews were busy trading rum and liquor to the west coast of Africa in exchange for gold and ivory. When these commodities dried up, ten million primitive Africans were rounded up and forcibly brought to the shores of America, of which number but four million survived. If the African people of today knew to whom they owed the rather dubious privilege of their arrival, perhaps the truths of the matter would be seen in a very different light.

A furtive figure known as Albert Pike, a former discredited general of the American Civil War and belonging to the Masonic Order, joined forces with the Illuminati, became one of its master agents and, even at that early date, laid out the future plan for both World Wars, One and Two, and now already history, with a Third World War projected to complete the final collapse of Western civilization with the destruction of Christianity. The process was to include the decimation of two-thirds of the world population, in line with the present-day plans of the "Club of Rome".

World War One swept the whole of Europe and England into the iron grip and relentless power of the World Revolutionary Movement. In the fateful year of 1913, President Wilson handed over the Federal Bank of the United States into the private ownership of the Khazar-Jewish International Bankers of the Illuminati. With this act of betrayal, the people of America lost financial control of their destiny, to the growing power of the godless system of the antichrist. It will be remembered, the ending of this war was concluded with an Armistice on November the 11th, 1918. It was then, at the end of the war, that the hidden hand of the Judeo-Mongols in control of the United States secretly released the first use of a biological weapon in the form of a virulent influenza virus, which was seeded into the homeward-bound forces of the German Army. The epidemic went totally out of control and swept through Europe, indiscriminately taking the lives of a wholly unbelievable forty million people, and this was the means by which the Khazar-Jews imposed upon Germany a supposed defeat, in place of an honorable peace. The impossibly harsh and unjust reparations of the Versailles Treaty at the greatest single gathering of world Jewry, were sanctioned to guarantee, twenty years later, the certain outbreak of the Second World War.

As the First World War wound down, the Khazar Bolshevik-Zionists began the Russian Revolution for the seizure of Russia in 1917, in order to establish a permanent armed camp for intimidating and threatening the rest of the world under their flag—the sickle for the cutting down of the people, the hammer for bludgeoning the nations—as symbols of their intent, on a red field soaked with the blood of the human race. In the sixty years that followed the Revolution, a further seventy million souls perished in the Khazar-Jewish Gulag concentration camps and Siberian extermination camps, to the total of what is estimated to be roughly one-hundred-million Russian victims in the crucible of Soviet Communism. The Khazar-Jewish banking Houses of New York financed the Revolution and organized the Jewish contingent of the so-called Lincoln Brigade from New York to carry out the calculated Russian reign of terror and bloodshed.

The Spanish Civil War of 1936 was not only the prelude to the Second World War conflagration, but its intent was to provide a strategic Communist stronghold on the European continent. It was triggered by the alien Khazar Communists, infiltrated as a fifth column of subversive agents, whose role was to assassinate countless thousands of key persons throughout the country in the early hours of the prearranged day of attack. General Franco rallied what was left of his army and saved Spain for the second time in its history at the price of a civil war of unspeakable atrocity.

The Khazar-Jewish world conspiracy had already set the two greatest nations of the white race of Christendom to destroy one another in a major world conflict, and had secured power and wealth beyond their wildest dreams. They could not wait to start the Second World War, and this they accomplished with demonic skill. The International Bankers had collapsed the monetary system in Germany after that first great struggle and bought up everything in sight, so that there was little they did not own. The German people in the former territories of the industrial Ruhr, the Polish Corridor, and parts of the Austrian-Hungarian Empire, were savagely treated and millions of Germans starved in utter desperation. It was a foregone conclusion that Hitler would reclaim and rescue his own people in their former territories. The Khazar-Jews then quietly slipped over to secret meetings with their London counterparts to force a shotgun treaty upon the British to guarantee Poland from attack. When Hitler, to relieve his beleaguered countrymen, finally marched, Britain found she had obligated herself to declare war for absolutely no good reason at all, to justify the most iniquitous and belligerent conflict in history.

It was the same kind of betrayal that had been set up to cause the American Civil War, and it had as its sinister purpose the same diabolical end, to self-destruct the White race, lest it oppose and overthrow the world conspirators. At the end of that opposing conflict, it took the Zionist cohorts only fifteen years to dissolve and dismantle the British Empire. In less than a mere forty years, the Bolshevik-Zionists, in firm control of the United States, betrayed sixty-five nations of the free world into the tyranny of Communist servitude and subversion. We became, worldwide, a hated people for what we had allowed the hidden hand of foreign conspirators to do in our good name.

As this Second World War came to an end, Eisenhower, in his capacity as the supreme commander, expressed his life-long hatred of the German people by ordering war prisoners to be reclassified as "unarmed combatants" to evade the humane obligations of the Geneva Convention, and so committed one of the crimes of the century, by holding German prisoners behind barbed-wire stockades, exposed to the elements without food or water, sanitation or medical supplies, in an ocean of mud and excrement. One-million-seven-hundred-thousand soldiers died of deliberate exposure and starvation in this merciless act of savage barbarity. If you should think this could not happen in America, then why have some fifty major concentration camps been prepared and placed in active readiness in the United States, the largest of which, in Alaska, is of one million acres? Why are fifty-acre impenetrable stockades being built secretly by this government, in the national forests of so many states without accountability and so carefully hidden from the people's knowledge? Is it not strange that a government, by every means, should threaten, rob, deprive and destroy the very people whom it was supposed to serve, and to do so to an ever-increasing extent, that its ultimate objective can no longer be concealed. It is intended that the citizenry of this land shall lose all they possess: their money, their land, their rights, their freedoms, their liberty and indeed, for many, even their lives. We no longer have, nor have had for some time, a true or legitimate government of the people, so much as a secret shadow government of the Satanic powers operating in deep deception and the illusion of freedom.

As this most terrible world conflict came to a close, Winston Churchill directed scientific studies be made to see if it was possible to bomb the land mass of Germany with Anthrax to permanently poison the Earth and thus starve the German people into extinction. In the United States, Roosevelt and Morgenthau sought to have Congress back an infamous plan for the sterilization of the German race along with the proposed execution of fifty thousand of its officers.

In Communist Yugoslavia, Tito, supported by the Allies when he came to power after the war, gave amnesty to the rival guerrilla forces of Mikailovich, and the moment they were disarmed, murdered the lot of them, five-hundred-thousand men, all told. Meanwhile in China, Communism resulted in the wholesale massacre of countless millions. Mao-tse-Tung, when asked how many had been slain, admitted the figure of forty million to be a very conservative estimate, whereas sixty million is thought to be the more probable figure. It is a world-wide phenomenon that wherever Khazar-Jewish influence prevails, there is genocidal slaughter without end, without mercy and utterly without compassion, as a purposeful goal and intent in itself—for it is the Satanic nature of the antichrist that you are intended to be its victim. In approaching the time in which we now live, events so well concealed and hidden by the complicity of a subtly-controlled media, stretch the limits of what many can believe. Nevertheless, the historical record of intellectual barbarous savagery should be clear enough as a warning for all to see.

It is a shocking statement to have to make, that the capital city of the United States is effectively in Tel-Aviv, and the capital of the Khazar-Jewish Zionist State of so-called Israel, which it is not, and which was stolen from the Arabs, is most certainly Washington itself. In the eyes of the world we have become a nation of brazen liars—we have proliferated every evil, and betrayed our friends. The good people of America, if that is what is called being good, have given away their power to the cunning of an alien and subversive secret shadow government and its dread agencies, which now controls the Presidency and all of his advisors, the Pentagon, the military-industrial complex, the entire media, and the whole spectrum of education, industry, food production, publishing and religion.

In this country, the Secret Government is run by members of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), the Trilateralists, the Bilderberger group, the super-secret Masons, and MJ-12, and the Order of the "Skull and Bones", all of which, with many others, are linked with the Rockefeller dynasty in America, and in turn, linked with counterparts of the supersecret Committee of Three Hundred, the so-called "Black Nobility" and the Rothschild dynasty in Europe. All its conspiratorial members work in deadliest secrecy, lest the people learn of the enormity of the crimes done against their God-given, but largely undefended, rights. The highly secret Order of the Skull and Bones at Yale, selects candidates for accomplices in the work of alien world domination. The Order has total control of the College of Yale and, by infiltration, provides leading figures in the subversive government and every level of public life, to bring about the Satanic New World Order. The Order is directly responsible for the sabotaging of education in the United States. Instead of learning how to read and write by the spelling of words and their construction, students memorize words by sight, as a whole, without knowledge of meaning or phrase. A nation of illiterates is the planned result. The talents of the student are seen to have no value, and the individual is considered to have no rights since, for the New World Order, he exists only to be conditioned as a socially programmed unit, subservient to the absolute power of the State.

To understand the complexities of the political struggle for power, it should be known that in the seventies an interesting thing happened in Soviet Russia. A fanatically dedicated Christian Sect, the Skoptsis, which had gone underground when the Khazar-Jews overran Russia in 1917, rose up and threw out hordes of high level Zionists who, with the covert assistance of the Rockefeller faction, poured secretly into the United States where they were ensconced into every nook and cranny of influence and power. In effect, they secretly took over the United States with connivance, the FBI, CIA, the Shadow Government, its President and all the rest. They came with a bitter hatred for the Russia that rejected them and managed to throw them out. In 1979, the U.S. Zionists attempted to divert a massive NATO exercise consisting of an air-armada which was to fly towards Russia and then turn back at the last moment before crossing the national border; only in this case, the intent was to fly the fully-armed aircraft directly towards their planned targets, in a preemptive nuclear first-strike. The Soviets responded by informing our Government that America would be destroyed at the moment the bombers took off en-masse.

Later, in 1982, on September the 17th a second attempt was made and went within hours of a final countdown. Since a successful attack required the prior destruction of the dozen Cosmodromes of the Russian Space Triad, our satellites had to be placed in a stationary geophysical orbit over the Indian Ocean in order to monitor the initial attack which, when shown to be successful, would signal our ICBM's to be fired to take out all secondary targets. The Russians, who knew all about this, with their own absolute supremacy in space, took out all our owned satellites and have done so ever since. Richard Nixon visited China and tipped off the Chinese as to the secret purpose of our "stealth" type attack bombers stationed in Sinkiang Province, whereupon the Chinese sealed off the base and disallowed its use to the American bomber crews. These successive and persistent attempts at preemptive nuclear first strikes by the Zionists in control of Israel and the United States, for the destruction of Russia, continue to be thwarted by Russia herself, while placing the helpless people of America in the horrifying defenseless jeopardy of all but total destruction. Soviet Russia, China and Switzerland have massive deep underground protection for all their people. The United States has a large number of miniature underground cities solely reserved for the conspirators, and none whatsoever for the citizenry of this land.

Fully cognizant of the bitter hatred of Zionist malevolence, Russia could, if she so wished, destroy America overnight, but it appears her preference would be for the takeover of the United States intact in one piece. Implanted in the waters around every major seaboard city in this country, or under New York and around others, are neutron bombs capable of being triggered from space to simulate massive seismic cataclysmic destruction. From her Cosmospheres, or armed platforms hovering in space, her laser weaponry can be aimed at the fault lines to initiate the most massive earthquakes known to man, such as might easily put California under the sea. The Mount St. Helens volcanic eruption is believed, with good reason, to have been a specific case in point of a Russian complimentary card, for sundry violations of good faith on our own part.

On December the 3rd of 1990, the Khazar Zionists of Israel sought to launch a long-planned nuclear attack against Russians behind the screen of the Gulf War scenario, and had to be bought off by the payment of twenty-three-billion dollars of the American taxpayers' money, for her restraint in supposedly keeping out of the war. These maniacal attempts are persistent and ongoing to this day, and are restrained only by the loss of our satellites and fleets of Shuttles lost in the launching and flights over Soviet Russian territory, kept secret from American citizens with the most amazing cover-up operations and duplicate Shuttle craft flown in from bases in Australia.

Germain: Answering The Higher Call To Serve

Editor's note: The following message is by the Ascended Master known as Violinio St. Germain, Master of the Seventh Ray (or Aspect) of Creator's spectrum, the Violet Ray of Transmutation, among the seven great "Rainbow Masters" communicating at this time to help us get through Earth-Shan's planetary transition and rebalancing.

In Journal #7, called THE RAINBOW MASTERS, Germain says: "I head up the program for the thrust of the Seventh Ray, for it is the Transmuting Ray. I am passionate about it, unbending regarding its use for Purity, Truth AND FREEDOM—FREEDOM OF THY GOD-SELF, IN THE SERVICE OF THE CHRISTOS, WHICH IS GOD—PURE AND SIMPLE: GOD FREEDOM EXPRESSED IN MANIFEST FORM IN THEE AND IN ME...."

"If ye wish to sum the measure of my existence in all prior times, please let it be said, 'He lived to make men free'...."

"In all my times upon thy place, I have sought to stand squarely on a platform of basic human rights for a responsible, reasoning public education in the principles of liberty and equal opportunity for all. I have efforted to teach thee ones to espouse your inalienable DIVINE RIGHT to live life according to your highest conception of GOD. No right, however simple or basic, can long be secure without the underpinning of the Spiritual Graces and the Divine Law that instills a compassionate righteousness in the exercise thereof. Always I have efforted to make thy country a fortress against ignorance and superstition, where Christ achievement could blossom, and devotion to THE ONE could prosper in the quest for the Holy Truth (Grail)...."

"I have always efforted at being an immortal spokesman for your scientific, religious and political liberties. I believe that humanity shall accept, as an axiom for its conduct, the principle for which I have laid down my life: the right to investigate. It is the credo of free men—this opportunity to try, this privilege to err, this courage to experiment anew.

"We scientists of the human spirit shall experiment, experiment, experiment, ever experiment. Through centuries of trial and error, through agonies of research, let us experiment with laws and customs, with money systems and governments, until we chart the one true course."

8/23/97 VIOLINIO ST. GERMAIN

Good afternoon, my scribe. Violinio St. Germain here in the Light of Creator's magnificent One Light. I represent the Violet Ray of transmutation and I work closely with my brother, El Morya, the First Ray of new beginnings.

Out of that darkness and chaos which is your present world, there shall spring forth in newness a time of Radiance and Peace. There is need to see the contrast between where you (and your planet) are now, and where you are wanting to be. Out of the chaos and confusion of a world gone mad, there is being borne a DESIRE within the hearts of many for balance and peace. It is this desire which is the key ingredient that drives change and transmutation.

You ones ask how this works. I shall explain for the sake of those awakening to their God-power, that you may choose to add yours to the overall chorus of Light workers coordinating the manifestation of Creator's will-be-done on Earth.

Thus, I say again: desire drives change. As more and more awaken to an awareness of the chaos and confusion, the impetus for change grows, and the transformation begins. More and more are coming into a similar alignment of desire-energies that summons forth the change.

There are now far more wanting this change than resisting the change, and it is only a matter of sequence of events (basically, intensity of energy flow) that determines the rate of manifestation of the New Dawn of mankind. Thus you can see the wisdom in our focus upon sequence of events, and not upon "time" as you perceive same.

When you each make effort to pull yourself out of the confusion of the day-to-day world built around the lust for material gain, and focus more fully upon inner balance and growth of self, then you are connecting more fully with (and conducting into the physical) the energy that will bring forth the desired change upon your world.

Take personal inventory of that upon which you place importance, and what actions you allow to take priority in your life: Is money a primary concern? How about the so-called (false) "security" and "freedom" and "importance" it seems to provide? Are "social pressures" a preoccupation? Do you worry more about what other people think of you than about what you can feel (know) within to be correct and act upon same with courage?

When measures of material or social "status" become more important than finding a point of inner balance and peace, then you have lost sight of what has lasting value. The distractions of the material arenas may, perhaps, allow you to feel better in the moment, but such will do little to help you find LASTING inner peace and knowing!

Seek first to find that Higher connection which guides you toward finding inner peace and balance, and then take action according to that which takes priority in the moment. That which crosses your path each moment, happens for a reason. ALWAYS! Recognize that this is so—that "life is what happens while you make other plans"—and be attentive to the clues and nudges which will help you make the active choices that both indicate and determine your most deeply seated priorities.

We of the Hosts are always looking for ones who can stay centered, focused, and connected. We are particular about who we choose. ("MANY are called, FEW are chosen!") If you are drawn to this information source, and messages like this, then consider yourself CALLED.

You answer the call by disciplining yourself to stay centered and balanced and connected. We shall NEVER force you to do anything! However, we DO have a myriad of resources at our disposal to help you, who ask with the heart, and we WILL respond to a sincere plea for help. Count on it!

Many in the U.S. and Canadian cultures spend far more time watching television than focusing upon that which will facilitate spiritual growth. The choice is always left up to the individual, and so too is the responsibility of each choice.

Dis-ease, dis-comfort, health problems, and addictions will be cleansed from the planet. If you cannot overcome these things, then you will be below the frequency range which your environment will support. You will simply leave the "new Earth realm" and go elsewhere to experience.

Cleanse thyself of the inner emotional pain. Let go of what was. Focus your energy upon the Perfection of what is taking place all around you on a grand scale—a planet returning to Balance and Radiance.

Consider this an invitation to become a more active participant in The Solution. Commit to yourself, in the form of a heartfelt desire, time to spend consciously connecting to Higher self (your inner God-self) every day. Disallow the negative energies from entering into your experience.

Consider your connecting to Higher self like the operation of a light switch in a darkened room. When you turn on the switch, you make connection, and the light comes on, and the darkness is gone.

Now, let us imagine the switch as a dimmer-type switch (one that allows the intensity of the light to vary). As YOUR emotional state changes, so too does the illumination level in the room.

For example, let us say you find that you are currently in a state of stress-filled doubt and unrest and chaos. Your room is thus pretty dark and it does not feel very pleasant.

Now you focus upon clearing your space and finding balance. As you begin to focus on this, and hold the thought, the room becomes brighter and brighter. As a result of this, metaphorically, you begin to see more clearly the details of the environment in which you find yourself. The things around you take on a more understandable (less vague) form; you find yourself less "in a fog". You can deal much better with that which confronts you due, again metaphorically, to all the now-visible clues for proceeding with the given challenge.

Now you feel more focused and clear about what perhaps is standing in your way. You may even appreciate that the only REAL reason you were afraid to move forward was simply because you were not connecting with your Inner Source.

If you are feeling satisfaction and certainty with who you are and where you are heading, then you can be assured that you ARE connected and, more likely than not, that the light switch is cranked up to full! You know such ones; dispense of thy envy toward these Light workers and become similar hands and feet for Creator!

We cannot stress ENOUGH the importance of staying connected and centered at this time. The natural flow of the planetary system is into a high-frequency state. The very body of your globe will transform and change, and as she does, those who are in harmony with her shall thrive while those who are not will find the experience quite harsh and even unbearable.

You all live within the magnificent, nurturing energy field(s) of your planet. You all knew, prior to coming into this experience, that this planetary transformation (energy shift) would take place. Moreover, you understood that it would provide you with a tremendous opportunity to meet and grow through challenges that have faced some of you for thousands of years, lifetime after lifetime.

Think of it this way: Your planet is turning up HER "dimmer switch" and is fast approaching a position of being fully connected, with her light at full intensity. This is what is meant by the "State of Radiance" into which your planet is fast evolving.

This is a time for paying close attention to ALL the clues around you, and then discerning for YOURSELF what is the correct path for YOU! Your connection to Inner Guidance is thus an imperative part of your "tool kit" at this time! Your Inner Guidance will direct you toward what is perfect for YOU.

It is not anyone else's prerogative, business, or responsibility to tell you what to do, where to do it, when to do it, or even how or why to do a thing. You must learn to not rely upon another for YOUR personal choices and decisions.

This is not to say that consultation with those around you, whose wisdom you consider valid, should not be a part of your decision-making. The key here is in the asking and the heart intent, for "the call compels the answer" and you can never be sure of what possible avenues may be employed by We of God's Hosts to get your answers to you in a form you can recognize and appreciate. Yet, the burden of responsibility still rests squarely upon YOUR shoulders to take-in all solicited information, and then make YOUR OWN decisions about YOUR course(s) of action.

Many, all around your world, in every culture and language, are receiving this type of message and Guidance. This message is intended to serve as a reminder of that which you already know, within your heart, to be true.

Get centered and learn to trust your own Inner Guidance. Keep the Light on and stay connected. When your Light is on, then the adversary will go elsewhere to find an easier target.

If you slip, and the doubts and fears come back, then simply turn the Light back on and proceed forward. Do not worry about making mistakes, for EVERYONE in the physical makes mistakes. Be thankful for what you have learned from ANY mistake and move forward. In doing so, you will be transforming yourself into a role-model for others to follow, and therein you will also be fulfilling your Higher Purpose. You will then know the satisfaction that your heart is longing to feel and maintain.

I am Violinio St. Germain, come as Teacher and Guide in response to the heart-directed petitions of those at this time who are desiring clarity within the Light of Truth. Salu!

minutes if you want some pictures". They were not headed for "his apartment" for a love-in—they were going to go dancing.

The driver was not a regular driver, but rather, was a security person. He, further, had been drinking and was found to be intoxicated. This is important only in that there was a standing contract on both the Princess and Dodi.

Calls were made and the assassins were already IN THE TUNNEL when the party reached that location. They were on the walkway ahead of the vehicle and shot both the driver and Dodi with laser weapons. The piercing light was so blinding that even the following entourage was momentarily blinded, and at least one motorcycle operator was unable to keep his vehicle upright—nor could they see. This was a planned assassination, and of course, orders were given that neither Dodi NOR Diana were to survive the crash.

Diana was not only alive when the mob appeared—but was both conscious and viable while carrying on a conversation.

The assassins tried to blend in with the crowd arriving, but the photographers realized something was amiss and they, in fact, attacked the already-present agent and did actually beat one of them badly.

It is also noted that the paramedic vehicle was already "on the way" when the call came of the accident.

There was an American hospital between the Paris facility, where Diana was taken, and the accident. The orders, however, were to take her to the Paris hospital and "she was not to leave alive".

The new relationship between al Fayed and Diana was planned as well. Dodi was to have been married to his own love in August and did continue to speak with the American model right through the news-breaking stories and headlines.

Note that you hear almost NOTHING about the follow-up of the dead Dodi. Therefore I am going to give you some information.

Mohammed al Fayed, the father of Dodi, is also connected to Adnan Khashoggi, Dodi's uncle. Is this plot ever getting thicker?

These people are Egyptian monied people owning properties all over the world and are NOT the favorite families for interrelationships. They are "Islamic". Everything about the relationship of Diana with this person was a totally unacceptable happenstance. The relationship itself was to annoy greatly the Royal family in the face of unfaithful Charles as he plans to marry his mistress.

Now, how can you come to believe outrageous "007-type" secret plot activities? Easy. Note that the flag draped around the coffin of Diana was NOT the flag of Great Britain but, rather, the personal flag of the Queen of England reclaiming her property, and was from the House of Windsor. Ah, the plot thickens? Well, note that, at the reruns of the wedding pictures of Diana and Charles even the Archbishop of Windsor was wearing a cloak of the same House of Windsor and which is the Queen's private religious icon.

Now, friends, check out Ireland and England and reconsider how well this relationship of crossed religions would fare in the courtyard.

This was not an unexpected occurrence as to the murders and THERE WILL BE MORE AS THE WRETCHES MAKE EFFORTS TO "WIN" THEIR WAY, THROUGH WIPEOUT OF ALL PROBLEM PARTIES.

How can you know that what I tell you is correct? Look at what is taking place and how the focus is now an emotional smash hit on Broadway and otherwise.

Diana was working diligently, AGAINST THE CROWN, in occupying herself with most unpopular causes ESTABLISHED BY THE ELITE IN THE FIRST PLACE TO DEPOPULATE THE WORLD—AIDS and land mine removal. Well, who put the land mines there in the first place? Nasty little game, is it not?

So why would she be involved? Easy: Diana and Dodi were working to raise funds for the activities and they knew where to go to do the work. It is hard to figure just where al Fayed, the father, is as to political structures but he desired in a most unusual way to be a British subject. Khashoggi was totally tied up in arms for funds in the Iran mess, etc. Will this cause the elders of the house of Fayed to finish the money raising? Who knows, but I think they must have opportunity.

Do you actually think the people will stay aroused and resentful? No, it is already over as the graciousness of the Crown is already apparent as to the generosity of their stance in this embarrassing time of confrontation—but the press is already eating away at the "convenience" of "having Diana out of the way". Well, I would be very concerned for my own life if I be Camella or Charles, either one or both. This is a last-stab effort to save the HOUSE OF WINDSOR and the monarchy from oblivion.

How many of you noticed that even old Hank Kissinger was spewing his garbage? Well, indeed, he was never allowed on the air a second time at the event of the accident. But even at the time of the announced death he was supposed to speak, but was cut off at the microphone. And since when are heads of state notified of an accident to an unfaithful ex-wife of some silly triad? That was simply to inform that "you are possibly NEXT" and the deed is accomplished. The murder was not able to be committed at the scene of the accident because of the fact that Diana was in pretty good shape, conscious and visiting with the people around—so next had to come the grand efforts to "save her". She was shouting at everyone because she knew that she was going to die, one way or another, and was pleading for her children's sake.

Now, there is this false hue-and-cry over the photographers who were arrested, to get them out of the scene and shut away from telling the truth, and now comes the pictures being shut away from ability to have evidence in full-blown color.

And what was the cry of the people against the papers and photographers in London? Ah indeed, "Shut down the SUN." This, readers, is the major paper first established by Rupert Murdoch, arch rival of such as Ted Turner and the Elitist brigades.

Do NOT for one minute forget or overlook the connections of everything to everything! Note the only party who dared to speak out against the "bureaucracy" was Taki, a Greek friend of Diana who called the spades exactly what they are—miserable cheats, liars and bureaucratic hate-mongers. Of course, that interview was not allowed repeating on any network.

Now for follow-up: There was at least one, and perhaps two, motorcycles MORE than entered the tunnel with anyone following the Mercedes. Thus the vehicles were immediately confiscated and removed so that everything would be lost in confusion.

What do you think are the chances for a healthy life for Mr. Jones, the bodyguard who is able to talk? Why was he not killed? Hummmnn, interesting indeed. If he had a radiator in his lap, that means he would also have had a Mercedes motor in his lap, and yet his injuries were head abrasions.

You have, world, just witnessed the assassination of troublesome people to preserve the "Grand Plan". What a perfect idea: a beautiful and sad Princess and a playboy.

Will this change al Fayed thoughts and actions? Who knows; these people are not naive.

Ah, but there are several things that will come out through questioning the photographers present. One: that there were at least two blinding lights coming from ahead in the tunnel and there were already people present at the scene IMMEDIATELY prior to the accident—on foot.

So, how can you get all this information? You have to be willing to pay attention. The point of the coverage is to wear your nerves and senses down to nubbins with what you are SHOWN so that you never continue to question possibilities.

Who is actually next? Well, I like my people to stay very attuned to my radio and begin to look for major "coincidences". This, my loves, IS THE NEW WORLD ORDER! And, no, don't think Sir Spencer, brother to Diana, is in your corner as he bit on the photographer gambit even before it was publicly presented as the cause of this terrible accident. He is in, and from, SOUTH AFRICA, so take heed, good buddies. THE CONCEPT OF THE NEW WORLD ORDER WAS LAUNCHED FROM AFRICA AND CECIL RHODES! And no, these factions are not friendly, particularly, but work together for the common "cause". Look for the changing or differing FACTIONS and note movements.

Ah, where IS that George Bush, for instance, and why would Kissinger be silenced at onset of the events?

CHINA AND ADELANTO, CALIFORNIA

Next, briefly, as you contemplate other topics for the day. Consider this patriotic move to stop the Chinese from having factories and outlets in Southern California. HAVE YOU SEEN THESE AREAS FOLLOWING BASE CLOSURES? Wow—deadvilles. While you focus on Long Beach, Adelanto and other nearby towns are totally destroyed by your government and that plague is spreading to everything around the aerospace and military areas. [See related story on p. 6.]

Meanwhile, Donald Trump is working on the biggest development program yet, for New York. Working with whom? RIGHT, THE CHINESE. All nicely approved, hook, line, and sinkers. And that HUGE outlet for Chinese goods in Adelanto? It is not as big as your local market building. One third, perhaps, as large as a typical K-Mart store. And no, this is not gossip—several people went to explore and see for selves. And wow, SPOTLIGHT makes it sound as if the complex would be the size of Manhattan. No, not even a large building—its skeleton standing there in its rusting condition. And "hidden"? Nope, the sign is far more outstanding than the little building and was obviously put in place prior to starting the framing. Oh well—America!

TELEPHONE HOTLINE

This is a service for our dedicated readers. Today's Watch telephone hotline carries the latest news and comments from Commander Hatonn's most recent writings. This is our way of keeping you informed about fast-breaking news and events.

The message machine will answer after 2 rings if there are any new messages for that day, and after 4 rings if not. Thus daily callers can hang up after 2 rings and save toll charges if no new message has been recorded. If the hotline does not answer your call then that means that there is currently no hotline message.
